VIRGIN ISLANDS ASK HOOVER TO HELP THEM OUT

Give President List of Their Wants.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD U. S. S. ARIZONA, March 25.—President Hoover is on his way home tonight, his mission of visiting the United States island possessions in the Caribbean accomplished.

The President stepped aboard the Arizona this afternoon following a day of colorful celebration at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands. He knows now what the people of the Virgin islands want. They were very definite about telling him. They want a new dock to help bring back lost sea trade; they want assistance in breaking up huge estates and turning the land over to individuals for cultivation; they want the administration to be sympathetic in a country where the population is 91 per cent Negro, and, perhaps most emphatically of all, they do not want prohibition.

Its Beauty Is Wasted.

St. Thomas is a lovely town of neat white houses with red tiled roofs, displayed against a background of green hills and facing the finest harbor in the West Indies. But all these advantages are wasted because tourists do not go there when they can go to the wet, liberal British and French islands.

Now no longer a free port, the American tariff is in effect there. The ports of call of oil steamers has badly crippled the coaling business. What used to be one of the busiest ports in the Caribbean is now virtually deserted. The aim of every native and the goal toward which he saves his money is to emigrate to the continental United States. The population has fallen from 26,000 to 20,000 since Denmark sold the islands to the United States in 1917 for $25,000,000.

The reception today was made up of scenes which might have been taken out of the most romantic travel book. As the Arizona dropped anchor rowboats put out from shore. They were manned by coal black swimmers, who dive for coins, and always got them. Passengers in tiny home built craft, not much bigger than a sizable suitcase, paddled fearlessly out beyond the harbor.

A Riot of Color.

Everywhere were crimson and purple blossoms of Bougainvillea. The warming small craft on the water and every cart and donkey ashore were decorated. They formed great banks of gorgeous color.

Gov. Paul M. Pearson, installed just a year ago to inaugurate a new régime, in which the administration was changed from the hands of the navy to the department of interior, greeted the President.

The people of the Virgin Islands have responded to this administrative change with mingled emotions. The navy brought and spent money. During the naval régime prices went up. The island government profited from the service corps of nearly 300 naval officers and men. These must now be replaced, which gives joy to politicians, anxious for this chance at patronage, but not to taxpayers, for salaries must now be paid out of the local treasury. The Virgin islands are waiting somewhat dubiously to see what the new administration will do.

Not Much Enthusiasm.

This gratitude for the favor of the President having come to see them and the uppermost emotion in Puerto Rico, the prevailing sentiment is subject celebration in the Virgin Islands was expressed by the unspoken question on native faces: "What are you going to do for us to set the wrongs right which your government has not settled?" While Porto Rico was enthusiastic, St. Thomas was reserved, pleased, and waiting to be shown.

The focus of the festivities was in Emancipation park, on one side of which is a fortress erected by the first Danish governor in 1671, and now used as a prison. From the tops of the hills "Blackbeard's" and "Bluebeard's" towers looked down, where legends were notorious pirate strongholds in the days when treasure ships sailed the Spanish main.

Reviews a Parade.

From the bandstand President Hoover, Gov. Pearson, and Secretaries Wilbur and Hurley reviewed a procession in which the town expressed itself in its own typical way.

After the parade President Hoover went to the tennis club, where he planted two mahogany trees. He listened to an address of welcome from the island president, a colored dentist named Adolf Lascios.

IN PERIODS OF DEPRESSION PEOPLE VOTE FOR A CHANGE

Chicago jumped over the fence last fall.

Has anything happened to make him want to jump back again this spring?

NURSE KIDNAPED FROM ESCORT AND ATTACKED

Miss Mary C. Wass, 23 years old, supervising nurse in a ward of the Methodist hospital at Gary, was kidnaped by two men in an automobile last night and taken to a lonely roadside near Gary, where one of the men attacked her.

She had gone riding in an automobile early in the evening with George A. Frenchik, 1743 Atchison avenue, Whiting. While Frenchik's car was parked in Marquette park on the Gary lake front the automobile containing the two kidnapers, both armed, approached. The pair jumped out and one of them forced Miss Wass to enter his automobile. The other followed, taking Frenchik's keys with him, and they drove away.

Frenchik ran to the park pavilion and notified the police. While the search was being conducted Miss Wass appeared. She said that after she had been attacked the men gave her car fare and left her at an electric railroad station on Indian highway 6. She went back to Gary on an electric train.

KITTY IS HOME! WALKS 98 MILES IN FIVE MONTHS

The O'Leary cat came back yesterday. And it's the talk of the neighborhood around 7416 Indiana avenue how puss spent five months traveling the 98 miles between Eau Claire, Mich., and Chicago.

The J. M. O'Learys went to Eau Claire last fall to visit the O'Leary daughter, Mrs. Fred Ruffner. They took along kitty, the pet of Kathleen, 10, and Theresa, 12. After six weeks the O'Learys returned to Chicago. They forgot to bring kitty and when they sent back an inquiry to Eau Claire they were told that the cat had vanished.

"The children were on their way to school," said Mrs. O'Leary yesterday, "and just a little way from home they heard kitty mew. She was hungry, but apparently she had managed to forage during her five months' tramp, because she is fairly fat."

HUSBAND WANTS WIFE JAILED FOR ALIMONY DEBT

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude will be asked today to decide if a woman is eligible to join the ranks of the alimony club—those imprisoned in the county jail for their failure to pay alimony. The woman candidate is Mrs. Eleanor Molek, 35 years old, of 4738 South Harding avenue.

A petition for a rule to show cause why Mrs. Molek should not be cited for contempt was filed yesterday by her estranged husband, Walter Molek, 50 years old, who declares that she has stopped paying him the $5 a week payments ordered by the court five weeks ago.

Banker Flies to Bank's Aid with Million

BY ROBERT WOOD.

The crisis in the affairs of the People's Savings Bank and Trust company at Moline was passed yesterday, business was back to normal and hundreds of depositors who started a run on the bank last week were grateful to a flying Chicago banker for saving the day.

The aviator-financier is Fred J. Greenebaum, vice president of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, who is credited with pulling the bank out of its difficulty in a dark hour when not only the bank's condition, but the financial health of Moline and Rock Island as well, were at stake.

Confesses $1,000,000 Theft.

Mr. Greenebaum's part in stopping the bank run became known yesterday. The flurry began on the morning of March 14, when Moline citizens were startled by the news that Robert C Schallberg, vice president of the People's bank and a prominent figure in the city's affairs, had confessed to the embezzlement of $1,000,000 bank funds.

Bank examiners had discovered a discrepancy in accounts which had led to Schallberg's confession the night before. It was found that the most of the funds had been taken from the accounts of Deere & Co., plow manufacturers. Schallberg was locked up in the county jail on a charge of embezzlement and falsification of records.

The examiners notified the institution's officials that the bank would not be allowed to open its doors on Saturday morning unless sufficient funds were brought to its vaults to withstand a run on the bank, which was certain to occur following the news of Schallberg's confession. Early Saturday the bank officials telephoned to the Central Trust company in Chicago and communicated their troubles to Mr. Greenebaum.

Banker Comes to Rescue.

"I'll send a half million by air mail," said Mr. Greenebaum. But that was impossible, the Moline bankers pointed out, for the mail plane had already departed from Chicago.

"Don't worry," Flyer Greenebaum assured them. "I'll bring it myself."

He withdrew $500,000 in currency from his vaults, put a pistol in his pocket, and hurried to Sky Harbor airport, west of Glencoe, where on fair evenings and on Sundays and holidays the banker rents a plane and cruises about over the countryside. He holds a private pilot's license.

With Paul Menge, former manager of the airport, as a passenger and guard, Mr. Greenebaum placed the $500,000 under the pilot's seat, wheeled the small, fleet training plane from a hangar, and took off for Moline, where he arrived an hour and 20 minutes later, in time to beat the depositors to the bank.

Run on Bank Stopped.

A brief run on the bank was stopped when depositors trying to transfer their accounts to other institutions were turned down by rival bankers, who explained that the People's bank was sound. According to reports from Moline, the town's business men feared that the run on the People's bank might affect banking conditions throughout the county.

Fearing another run, officials of the bank again telephoned Mr. Greenebaum on the following Monday calling for additional funds. An hour later Mr. Greenebaum was again in the air, headed for Moline. He arrived there at noon with another $500,000 in currency.

COLD HELPS TO SAVE 9 NEGROES FROM VIOLENCE

Scottsboro, Ala., March 25.—(AP)—Nine Negroes accused of attacking two girls on a freight train near here today slept peacefully in the Jackson county jail tonight while Sheriff M. L. Evans, nine deputies, and citizen volunteers kept watch within the jail.

A threatening crowd of 300 had assembled around the jail early tonight, but a drop in temperature sent them to warmer quarters and officers said danger of violence appeared averted.

Sheriff Evans said six of the Negroes confessed to participating in the attack, but three denied implication.

SENATE VOTES 26 TO 24 FOR REPEAL OF ACT

Governor Expected to Concur.

BULLETIN.

Rockford, Ill., March 25.—(AP)—William Bell, elected sheriff of Winnebago county last November as a dry, announced tonight that he would conduct no more prohibition raids. The sentiment of the people, he said, is clearly against it.

Springfield, Ill., March 25.—[Special.]—The O'Grady-McDermott bill to repeal the Illinois prohibition law and the search and seizure act was passed by the senate tonight by a vote of 26 to 24. The house previously had passed the repeal, 91 to 55.

SENATOR O'GRADY.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Illinois thus becomes the seventh state without enforcement legislation. New York, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Montana, and Nevada have repealed similar laws. Maryland did not enact one.

The measure now goes to Gov. Emmerson for approval or otherwise. The governor is noncommittal. Some of his closest friends tonight conjectured that he will either sign the bill or let it become a law without signature.

Refuses to Talk.

Tonight the governor said:

"I will make no statement upon this bill until I take my official action."

The governor has 10 days in which to consider the bill.

Nine Republicans and seventeen Democrats voted for the repeal. Of the twenty-six, eight were from downstate and eighteen from Cook county. Senator James J. Barbour of the Evanston district was the only Cook county member to vote dry.

The votes against repealer were cast by twenty-two downstate Republicans, one downstate Democrat, and Mr. Barbour. One senator was absent, Harold Kessinger [Rep., Aurora]. The roll call stood:

As emphasized in speeches today, the effect of the repeal will be to hammer home to congress the sentiment of the great commonwealths against prohibition.

"Repeal this law," cried Senator Victor P. Michel [Rep., Peoria], who led the battle in the senate, "and Illinois will send word to the Union and to congress that Illinois is opposed to the hypocrisies, sees the fallacy of prohibition, and starts now for the repeal of the 18th amendment."

In three other sessions the repealer bill had passed the house only to be stopped in the senate. Today, which was filled with six and more hours

CERMAK BELIEVES ACT SOUNDS DOOM OF PROHIBITION

The following statement was issued by A. J. Cermak, Democratic candidate for mayor, who made several trips to Springfield to urge the passage of the O'Grady-McDermott bill:

"The passage of the bill marks the beginning of the end for prohibition in the United States of America. The members of the state senate who obeyed the mandate of the voters of the state, repeatedly expressed at the polls, are to be congratulated. Those who defied the expressed will of the people will not remain senators much longer.

Pledged Aid to Bill.

"When I opened my campaign for mayor I pledged the people of Chicago that as a candidate and as a party leader I would do all in my power to bring about the passage of the O'Grady-McDermott bill, both of whose authors are supporting me in this campaign. I also pledged them that when I am elected mayor I will lead a Chicago delegation to Washington and ask for the repeal of the Volstead act, and action tending to bring about the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the constitution.

"I kept my pledge to the letter, making several trips to Springfield. Every Democratic senator from Cook county voted for the bill and the Democrats of the lower house were also a unit for it when it was before them.

"I will also keep my pledge to lead a delegation to Washington after my election as mayor and will go there as often as I went to Springfield, if necessary oftener, until the Volstead act is wiped off the statute books.

Asks Contrast of Records.

"I ask the voters of Chicago to contrast my record with that of my opponent, who did nothing for the cause of repeal, but was negotiating with the Better Government association, headed by the former superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, for its support the day before the bill was passed and whose recent trip to Washington displayed him as closely allied with Congressmen Reid, Yates, Chindblom, and other dry leaders.

"The passage of the bill, in a measure, explains the bitter attack that has been made upon me by the Better Government association, of which E. J. Davis, the former superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, was the head, day before yesterday. The Better Government association found fault with me because of my opposition to prohibition. The vote of the state senate is the best answer that could be made to the Better Government association."

Weber Praises Legislators.

County Commissioner Charles H. Weber, co-author of the similar Weber-O'Grady act, which was passed by the house in the last legislative session, but defeated in the senate said last night:

"Naturally I rejoice at the victory in the state senate. It was due to the courage of the senators and representatives who fought against prohibition when it was popular and who finally awakened the people of the nation to its evils. Credit is also due to Mr. Cermak, who led the fight against prohibition in Illinois."

Attorney Shaw Comments.

Attorney Ralph M. Shaw, chairman of the Illinois division of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, said:

"In voting for the repeal of the Illinois prohibition laws the house and senate have served notice on the rest of the country that Illinois demands the repeal of the 18th amendment, with temperance the goal instead of the present debauchery engineered by the underworld.

"I regard the action of the legislature as in keeping with the will of the people as expressed in three referendums."

La Guardia Comments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.], one of the most militant wets in the house of representatives, declared that the action of the Illinois legislature in repealing the state dry law was but another indication of "a change of attitude toward prohibition." He said that it soon will be followed by the "writing off" of the Volstead act.

SIAMESE TWINS NAMED BY WIFE IN DIVORCE SUIT

Kansas City, Mo., March 25.—(AP)—Her husband spent too much time with the Siamese twins, for whom he was advance agent, Mrs. Mildred Oliver testified today in asking a divorce.

Moreover, she said, the twins—the Misses Daisy and Violet Hilton, San Antonio, Tex. — provided expensive gifts for the husband, William Oliver.

Mrs. Oliver, who said she married in 1919 and separated from her husband on Sept. 1, 1929, also alleged failure to provide proper support.

STATE WITNESS LINKS FOSTER WITH BROTHERS

Surprises Defense in Murder Trial.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Leo V. Brothers, St. Louis gangster, and Frank Foster, Chicago gunman, were linked together in the murder of Alfred J. Lingle through testimony given yesterday at the trial of Brothers in Judge Joseph Sabath's courtroom.

Otto Swoboda, 1448 North Wood street, a former chef in noted hotels, now a seller of herb tonic, was the second state witness to identify Brothers, placing him first at the entrance to the Illinois Central tunnel at the southwest corner of Randolph street and Michigan avenue on the afternoon of the murder, last June 9, later seeing him in the tunnel and then again as he fled across the street after the shooting of Lingle.

Links Foster and Brothers.

Not only this, but Swoboda, during a minute, testing cross-examination by Attorney Harry Cantwell of St. Louis, defense lawyer, said that the man whom he had seen in another courtroom, and whom he knew as Frank Foster, had been waiting at the tunnel entrance with Brothers, just before the murder, and that Foster had lit a cigaret for Brothers, who kept his left hand in his pocket.

This testimony caused quite a sensation in the courtroom, since there had been no intimation of this from the prosecution, and the defense attorneys apparently were as surprised as any one. They had been counting on the indictment of Foster as an accessory to this murder as a fact somewhat confusing the issue, and they had announced that the traffic policeman, Anthony Ruthy, who had identified Foster as a man he had seen fleeing from the place of the murder, would be called as a defense witness.

Gun Traced to Foster.

Peculiar importance is given to Swoboda's testimony by the fact that the gun which the murderer of Lingle tossed by the body of his victim and which was guarded by police until it was taken away by Coroner Herman Bundesen was found, according to the prosecution, to have been purchased by Foster from Peter Von Frantzius, sport goods dealer.

Foster was captured in Los Angeles last July 1 by detectives on the staff of Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney. He fought extradition, declaring that he was not in Chicago on the day of the murder, but was in New Mexico. Two witnesses were found who had seen him in the St. Clair hotel on June 11, and he was brought back.

His Trial Is Delayed.

The state, not contending that Foster was the slayer, but that he was an accomplice, kept delaying his trial, hoping to capture the man who had fired the fatal shot. After four continuances the prosecution was forced to trial, but last Dec. 3, after examination of jurors had begun, the case was continued on defense motion, and Foster was released on bonds of $20,000. The search for Brothers was then on.

Foster was a member of the Morano-Zuta-Aiello gang on the north side, which is said to have had a grievance against Lingle.

Swoboda, a short, rather fat man, neatly dressed, with a white silk muffler kept on during his examination, speaks several languages fluently, but is halting in his English and slow at times to understand his questioners. He kept his poise well during the long examination by Mr. Cantwell, who went into every detail of his life and that of his family of six children. Swoboda insisted positively that he knew Brothers was the man because of the two dark moles on his right cheek.

Tells of "Wild Expression."

He noticed also, he said, his "wild expression" as he came out of the tunnel.

"I'm speaking just as true as I'm sitting here," was one of Swoboda's expressions.

He admitted that he had received money from Roche, $300 in all. It was just to help him out, he said, as he had no work and Roche would not let him leave town to take a job as railroad chef which had been offered him. During this time another baby had been born to his wife. He declared that he had not wished to get mixed up in the case and was sorry that he had. He had no hope, he said, of any reward.

It was not until July 20 that he told any one what he had seen on June 9, he testified. And this happened in a peculiar manner. Part of this story was told on direct examination by Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks, and more of it in the cross-examination. It was here that the sensation of the day came. He saw a picture of Frank Foster in a newspaper, he told Attorney Cantwell, and remarked to a man by his side at a ball game that this was not the killer.

"Did you see Foster on July 20?" asked the attorney.

"No, his picture," Swoboda replied. "It was in the paper. But I saw him before. It was on June 9. He was lighting a cigaret for the other man."

Swoboda's testimony was in conflict in one point with that of Warren O. Williams, the first identifying witness for the state. Williams had told of a trip to Louisville to see if a gangster in prison there was the killer. He said that after he got to Louisville he saw Swoboda there. Swoboda said that he and Williams went down to Louisville together, "on two lower beds."

Observe Judge's Birthday.

Yesterday was Judge Sabath's 61st birthday and his bench was piled high with flowers when he came into court. Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court sat on the bench with him for a few minutes and court was adjourned early to permit him to attend the funeral of Hilding Johnson, Criminal court reporter.

At the opening of the session there was a discussion among attorneys before the bench on the question of displaying newspaper headlines in the courtroom. Attorney Tyrrell Krum for the defense said the newspapers would be needed to "refresh the recollection" of certain witnesses on cross-examination. Mr. Brooks wanted all newspapers excluded from the room. The judge said he would rule on it when the time came.

It is probable that the newspapers are wanted in an examination of the state's witness, Williams, who testified that he did not read anything about the capture of Brothers at the time it was announced in big headlines and that he knew nothing of the Brothers capture until he saw him on the day that the defendant was indicted.

Dr. Thomas L. Dwyer, coroner's physician, was the first witness called. He told of the autopsy upon Lingle's body, and the course of the bullet, which he removed.

The Ninth Day of June.

Q.—Now, directing your attention to the 9th day of June, 1930, were you employed on that day? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Will you tell the jury what you did, starting in the morning of that day? A.—Well, I was quite a while without employment and every morning I had to go and look for a job. Well, my routine was to get up around a quarter to six, help around the house, and then I went downtown and started. The first place I went was the Restaurant Men's association, 20 South Clark street. From there, if there was no job, I went around to hotels and restaurants to look for a job. Sometimes I took a sandwich and sometimes I didn't; sometimes I went and bought myself a little root beer in the 10 cent store and then went down to the public library.

Q.—What papers did you read there? A.—Well, I read the papers where I been working in the cities in Europe. I was interested in them, and I read German, and Bohemian, or Polish, any paper.

In the Library at Noon.

Q.—Directing your attention to the 9th day of June, were you in the library at the noon hour? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And did you leave the library? A.—Well, I came to the library there like every day around 11 o'clock.

Q.—Yes? A.—Because at 11 o'clock there is no use to look for anything, and I went down there and I got myself the paper and I was reading. When I got tired I went out, I got my smoke, and that day I went out and was leaning on a post at the last door east. Well, I wasn't paying attention to anything particular. I was smoking my cigarets, and then I saw a man staying right at that post next to the newspaper stand. [He indicated the position on the large chart of the intersection of Michigan avenue and Randolph street which the state on Tuesday introduced as an exhibit.]

Prosecuter Brooks then asked Swoboda again to explain where he was standing. The witness said he had taken his position beside a pillar at the easternmost door of the library, that nearly every day he stood there, leaning against the pillar and smoking cigarets. After that it was his custom, he said, to cross Michigan avenue into Grant park.

That day, June 9, as he leaned against the pillar smoking he noticed a man standing near the newspaper stand in the angle made by the library wall and the entrance to the Illinois Central tunnel.

"I noticed him, and he dropped a cigaret," Swoboda said, "and another man staying about five feet from the stairway, between the newspaper stand and the library, he came up. The first man when he dropped the cigaret he pulled out a cigaret with his right hand and put the cigaret in his mouth."

The second man then went and lit the cigaret, "which was a suspicion to me," Swoboda said.

MR. KRUM—We object to that statement.

JUDGE SABATH—Yes, strike out the suspicion.

Two Spots on the Cheek.

"Well, I threw away my cigaret and started walking down," Swoboda went on. He said he was walking through the tunnel when somebody brushed by and "pushed me in my hand and knocked my cigaret out of my hand, and I looked because this person never did say nothing to me, he just turned around. He turned around, and what I thought, I thought——

MR. KRUM—I object to that, what he thinks.

JUDGE SABATH—Strike out the thought.

MR. BROOKS—Wait a minute. Mr. Swoboda, you must understand, you can't say what you thought, but you may say what you saw or what you did, or what you heard.

SWOBODA—Well, at this time the man turned around and I noticed two spots.

Q.—Yes? Where were they? A.—On his cheek.

Hears Shot; Two Men Run.

Swoboda walked on through the tunnel, he said, and was partly up the steps on the east side of Michigan avenue when "a shot went off."

Q.—Then what happened? A.—Well, I got scared, and I turned around and saw a fellow with a blue coat passing, running.

Q.—All right. A.—And right behind him a man with a gray coat and a gray suit ran past. Well, then he turned back and I ran down there. I was anxious what had happened down there and I saw a man laying down. His straw hat was laying next to him and a gun was right by the wall.

Q.—What did you do next? A.—Well, I ran; I tried to call a policeman. When I ran up there (the steps on the east side of Michigan avenue); I saw a fellow staying right there; he didn't know which way to run, and that was the same fellow I saw standing at the entrance on the other side of the tunnel.

Q.—After you saw the man at the top of the stairs, what did he do or what did you do? A.—Well, I started hollering, "Catch him." The man going zigzag crossed the boulevard, then he was running on the other side of Randolph street and I was watching him when the policeman started running after him, and as far as I could see was to the Greek store, to the fruit store.

Q.—Do you see the man in the courtroom now that you saw that day? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Will you point him out to me? A.—He is sitting right behind the gentleman with the gray hair [Louis Piquett, defense attorney].

Q.—Is he the man you saw at the top of the stairs? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Is he the man you saw in the tunnel? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Is he the man you saw again at the top of the stairs as he ran across the street? A.—Yes.

Q.—Now, how long was it, Mr. Swoboda, after that—what did you do after you saw the policeman start to run after this man? A.—Well, when I saw the man that got shot back there, there were too many people around him, and I turned around and went down to Grant park, and sat there a while. When I go down there I usually have a little scrap and I like pigeons and I feed the pigeons out there.

He Goes to Grant Park.

Q.—Well, did you talk to any one out there? Not what you said, but did you talk to any one? A.—No, sir. I went home and talked to my wife and told her about what I saw that day.

Q.—Now, let me ask you, when was it you told any one else, or you talked with any one else?

Swoboda in his answer to this question told of falling into conversation with a man by his side at a baseball game in Grant park on July 20 and telling him something of what he had seen on June 9. This man, he said, went away and came back with a policeman. The policeman took Swoboda to the police booth in the park and called up Chief Investigator Roche.

Unable to reach him, the policeman sent Swoboda to THE TRIBUNE office. There, Swoboda said, he told the watchman in the hallway who he was and soon was being interviewed by George Reedy, a reporter. Reedy gave him a letter to Mr. Roche, and he went to Roche's office the next day and told his story.

Since that time, he said, he has been in constant touch with the state's attorney's investigator.

THE CROSS-EXAMINATION

The cross-examination of Swoboda was conducted by Defense Attorney Cantwell, a tall man who stood near the witness stand, towering over the short, stubby form of the witness. Cantwell's deep voice also contrasted with the higher pitched voice of the Bohemian chef, whose accent and quaint phraseology at times provoked the courtroom to titters.

Cantwell began questioning the witness about his life since the age of 14 years when he went to work in Bohemia. With a slowness that was apparently tedious to the crowd, he led Swoboda through the years down to 1930, exacting details of many jobs the witness had held as cook in restaurants and dining cars.

Test Witness' Memory.

This line of questioning, the defense attorneys explained, was to test Swoboda's memory and his powers of observation. Finally, after more than an hour of this sort of close examination, the lawyer began inquiring into the witness' story of the day of June 9.

Q.—You say you were standing on the library steps, smoking a cigaret and you saw two men? A.—Yes, sir. The man in the gray suit, this man here [pointing to Brothers], got a light on his cigaret from the other man. I thought it was suspicious——

Q.—Never mind your suspicions. What color tie was the man in the gray suit wearing? A.—I don't know.

Q.—What color shoes was he wearing? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—What was the color of the hatband on his hat? A.—I don't know that, either.

Q.—Was there a policeman on the corner? A.—Yes.

Q.—Describe him. A.—He was a big, heavy set man.

Brothers Brushes Past Him.

Q.—Well, tell us what happened. A.—I was walking through the tunnel and this man here [again indicating Brothers] brushed past me, knocking the cigaret from my hand. I took a good look at him, I can tell you. I saw the two warts on his face. Then I turned to walk up the stairs on the east side of the tunnel and I heard a shot. I turned back and saw two men. One was this man here. He was going east and the other was going the other way. I looked and saw a man lying on the floor. I turned to run up the stairs and call a policeman.

Attorney Cantwell subjected the witness to many questions upon this phase of the testimony. Finally Swoboda, in apparent exasperation, seized the wooden pointer which was lying on the witness stand and walked over to the map of the scene of the slaying.

Recounts His Story Again.

"Look!" he exclaimed. "I was standing here. [He indicated the library steps on the map.] The two men were standing here [again indicating]."

Using the pointer, he recounted his story again. Then, without allowing the lawyer to resume his questioning, he continued:

"I ran up the steps. I saw this man, the man here in court. He was standing against the wall, all excited-like."

In his interest, Swoboda dropped the pointer. Rolling his eyes and gesticulating, he illustrated how Brothers had stood, poised for flight, hesitating in which direction to go.

Switching his line of questioning, Attorney Cantwell began questioning Swoboda concerning his entrance into the case as a witness. The chef had testified that he was witnessing a baseball game in Grant park some weeks after the slaying and had narrated to a man by his side what he had seen in the tunnel.

The Picture in the Paper.

"We were looking at a picture in the paper, and I said I saw that man the day of the shooting," explained Swoboda.

Q.—Do you mean to say that you saw Foster that day at the tunnel? A.—Yes. He was the man who gave the light on the cigaret to this man here [pointing to Brothers].

A murmur ran through the courtroom at this unexpected bit of new evidence. The defense attorneys conferred hurriedly. Brothers was apparently unmoved, although he cleared his throat nervously. Attorney Cantwell resumed:

Q.—That's your story? A.—Yes, as true as I'm sitting here.

Q.—It's your story and you stick to it, is that it? A.—Yes.

Q.—As a matter of fact, wasn't it Williams [the state's witness] that you had the conversation with in Grant park? A.—No, sir; I didn't see him till later. We went down to Louisville to look at Geisking. [Ted Geisking, Indiana gangster, was at one time a suspect in the murder investigation.]

Q.—Did you identify Geisking? A.—No; he was a short, stocky man.

Q.—Did you ever get any money from this case? A.—Very little. Just what Mr. Roche gave me from his own pocket. I was offered a job on a dining car out of town, but Mr. Roche told me not to leave Chicago. He said they needed me.

Q.—How much did you get from Roche? A.—About ten times he gave me $25. Twice, he gave $20. Once, $10.

Q.—You were disappointed, eh? A.—Yes, I was. It has been a lot of trouble. I didn't want anything to do with this case.

Has No Hopes of Reward.

Q.—Did you ever hear of a reward in this case? A.—Yes. I read in the papers about $55,000 reward being offered.

Q.—Do you hope to share in that reward? A.—No. I understood it was for arrest.

Q.—You told the state you see the man in the tunnel in this courtroom? A.—Yes. I still see him. [Swoboda arose and pointed again at Brothers.] I'll remember his face as long as I live. I can see his wild expression.

In the first part of the cross-examination Swoboda caused several laughs in the courtroom by his replies. Judge Sabath finally issued a warning that the courtroom would be cleared if there was any more disturbance.

Swoboda testified under questioning by Attorney Cantwell that his salary as a salesman of herb tonic was $30 a week and that he had obtained the position because of his knowledge of Bohemian and Polish. The tonic was sold chiefly to foreigners, he said.

Quizzed on Herb Tonic.

Q.—What's in this herb tonic? A.—Twenty-six herbs, I don't know what's in it. I'm not in the laboratory.

Q.—Do you do anything else? A.—I lecture on the body, tell what the tonic does.

Q.—Can you make that speech now?

An objection by Mr. Brooks was sustained. But the irrepressible Swoboda had a statement to make.

"It don't cure nothing," he explained to Attorney Cantwell. "Neither can a doctor cure. It's nature that cures."

The subject was dropped.

One of the witnesses who is expected to be summoned when the trial is resumed this morning is Daniel D. Mills, who has been a taxicab driver in the summer and a student at Northwestern university in the winter. According to the prosecution Mills was waiting for a cab passenger at the entrance to the Illinois Central tunnel on June 9, heard a shot, saw a man dash out of the entrance, and will say that man was Brothers.

FOX RIVER PEARL FISHERS HALTED BY STATE ORDER

Pearl fishermen, who have found dredging the Fox river a lucrative trade for a long time, yesterday were notified that the state department of conservation had made this stream a preserve and will not permit the removal of any mussels from its during the next five years. All tributary streams are likewise made into closed territory by the order.

A number of fine pearls have been found in the Fox river "clams" as the fresh water mussels are called. One of them was sold for $1,000 by Jim Eager to a Chicago dealer, who resold it the following day for $1,500. Hundreds of tons of mussel shells also have been sold from the river bed as material for pearl buttons.

CERMAK MAKES PLEA TO VOTERS' 'COMMON SENSE'

Invades G. O. P. Wards on Near South Side.

BY PARKE BROWN.

In opening his campaign in the big Republican wards of the near south side last night, A. J. Cermak directed his appeal to the "common sense" of the voters.

The Democratic nominee for the mayoralty spoke first at a meeting in Bothwell's hall in the Fifth ward, and from there went to a massmeeting of colored voters in the Savoy ballroom, to which had been invited the colored voters of the Second, Third, Fourth, and Fifth wards.

This gathering was pronounced another record breaker for Cermak. It was said by Negro leaders to be the largest turnout ever given a Democratic candidate. The hall seats 10,000. There were 2,000 standing in the aisles. And there was an overflow outside the building. The meeting was preceded by another broom parade.

Wants Confidence of Voters.

"I am placing my confidence in the common sense of the voters of Chicago," was the way the candidate opened up at the first meeting. "I ask them to place in me the confidence to which a record of twenty-eight years in public life entitles me.

"As the campaign progresses and its racebacks fly faster and bigger, it becomes more difficult to press on toward the main objective and ignore the guerrilla fire from the flanks. It is hard to resist the impulse to turn aside for a minute with a blow for antagonists whose insignificance is their best protection.

"If I were making the campaign solely for personal reasons I might yield to the natural inclination and do so. I believe, however, that the best way of repaying the citizens for their support is to wage the kind of a campaign that will not reflect in any way upon the good name of Chicago.

Points to 28 Year Record.

"The voters of the city have had 28 years in which to find out whether there is anything seriously wrong with me, and I don't believe they are going to think they can hear more about me in one week now than they could in the 1,455 weeks of public life that have preceded it."

In addressing the Negro massmeeting, Cermak also referred to the "common sense" of his listeners as the force that would persuade them not to place their trust in extravagant promises such as those said to have been made by the opposition in connection with unemployment.

"There should be no section of the city to feel a greater interest in my election than the one from which you come," he said. "No section has felt the business depression more keenly than yours. I know the suffering and distress that prevail for I keep in close touch with our social service work, and I know that in spite of our efforts to relieve conditions there is still much to be done.

Makes No Foolish Promises.

"I am not one of those who try to delude you. I am not going to promise to put you to work in the city hall or on the subway the day after I am elected. I believe you have too much good common sense not to know that such promises are the cruelest kind of trickery.

"I do promise you, however, that I will immediately start to do away with the conditions which are the principal cause of so many of you out of work and of those who are working being asked to accept lower pay than that to which you have been accustomed.

"The principal cause of local aggravation of the unemployment situation is the lack of confidence in the city administration, a lack of confidence both by residents of Chicago and by persons who might under better conditions be inclined to spend their money in Chicago."

He described this mistrust as causing the increased taxation and the uncertainty about taxes in the future.

"Once it is established that there is to be an end to waste and extravagance in the city hall, the building industry and all lines of business will revive. That will mean employment for many thousands who now are idle. There will be an end to the suffering with which you now are paying for misrule of the city."

He also told his colored audience that if he is elected there will be no discriminattion against them.

"I, myself, have been the target of prejudice and bigotry," he said, "and I can assure you I am not going to indulge in the same tactics as those by which I might have suffered if the people of Chicago were not so intelligent as they are."

He closed this meeting with a declaration of war against "misleaders" of the colored voters, mentioning the name of Ald. L. B. Anderson.

With his noon theater meeting at the Great Northern theater, five blocks away from the city hall, Thompson had some difficulty in getting an audience for his daily repetition of his attacks on Cermak and THE TRIBUNE. The house was not filled.

His speech contained little new material, but there was some interest in his tacit admission that the betting is against him.

"All the Jews and the Irish and the Poles and the Germans," he said, "are going to the polls and tell that boze where to get off. With all his egotism and all their betting, I'm going to lick them and THE TRIBUNE."

THREE MICHIGAN TOWNS PICK PRINCESSES

Miss Geraldine Aldrich, 21 years old, selected as Miss Dowagiac.

Miss Leon Bright, 23 years old, named as Miss Buchanan.

NOTES OF THE CAMPAIGN

Tonight's radio speeches for Cermak will be as follows: WMMB, 6:30 p. m., Judge Harry Fisher; WJJD, 7:15 p. m., Brendan M. O'Connell; WCFL, 7:30 p. m., Edward Ryan, Ald. John S. Clark; WJJD, 8 p. m., Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank. The Thompson speeches scheduled are: WIBO, 6:15 p. m.; WJJB, 6:30 p. m.; WCFL, 8:45 p. m.; WGES, 9:45 p. m.

The Parkview Civic league, head by Charles Rudolphy, has indorsed Cermak for mayor by the passage of a resolution commending him for the "efficient, businesslike manner" in which he has administered county affairs.

Cermak, Prof. Frederick Merrifield of the University of Chicago, and Mrs. Judith Lowenthal will speak tonight at a mass meeting for the Democratic nominee at Wadsworth High school, 62d street and University avenue.

Six thousand pamphlets, carrying a message in Greek with the slogan, "Rid the City Hall of Graft and Greed," were distributed by the Hellenic Democratic league last night to Greek-Americans attending the festivals of the 101st anniversary of Greek independence at Aragon ballroom. Dr. Nicholasos Salopoulos is chairman of the league, which is supporting Cermak.

The progress toward modernization of Criminal court procedure in Illinois was cited by Col. A. A. Sprague last night in a speech in behalf of A. J. Cermak. The Democratic nominee, he pointed out, formed the Cook county judicial council, which has cooperated with a state council in formulating plans for a revision of the criminal code.

Among the officers of the Stockyards Cermak club are a number of well known American Legion men, including James P. Neary, Clarence N. Taylor, Frank W. Kee, John E. Connerty, and James J. McDonough. The organization plans a demonstration at the stockyards on April 4.

The War Veterans' Association of Cook County, through a committee of 100, will give a dinner for Cermak at the Hotel La Salle this evening. Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin will speak. Harold Schradzki is president.

"Free entertainment will not reduce taxes," declared Judge Frank M. Padden in an address for Cermak last night. "It will not stop crime. When the king becomes a jester the matter ceases to be a joke."

Wages of the 20,000 street car and elevated employés were cut 10 cents an hour in 1921 as a result of Mayor Thompson's activities in the fare reduction fight, Joe Kehoe, head of division 241, Street Car Men's union, charged in a radio speech for Cermak last night. He blamed Thompson for the six day resistance strike which followed the wage cut.

Four hundred women of Polish descent will attend a Cermak luncheon today at the Hotel Sherman.

The Bohemian Woman's Cermak for Mayor club established headquarters yesterday with the Cermak campaign forces in the Ashland block. Offices of the regular Bohemian Cermak organization for both men and women are at 139 North Clark street. Mrs. Joseph W. Serhant is president of the new club.

BENTON HARBOR CHOOSES ENTRY IN QUEEN RACE

Miss Jane Filstrup Wins Coveted Honor.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Benton Harbor, Mich., March 25.—[Special.]—Obligations of a host city to its guests didn't prevent Benton Harbor tonight from putting its best foot forward in one of the main events preliminary to the blossom festival held jointly with St. Joseph the week of May 4 to 10. As its nominee for queen of the carnival this city will have Jane Filstrup, 20, daughter of one of the town's most prominent families.

Out of a field of 42 entries Jane survived fifteen ballots by the group of five judges, winning at last over Miss Mary Baute, 18, the runner-up, who, like herself, is a striking blonde.

Born in Chicago.

Jane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin William Filstrup. Her father is president of the Covel Manufacturing company and the donor of Filstrup field, the municipal athletic grounds. She was born in Chicago, but came to Benton Harbor as a baby, being graduated from high school here and afterwards attending the La Salle seminary at Auburndale, Mass.

She is 5 feet 7 in height, with an olive skin, large greenish blue eyes, and a mass of curly hair, golden blonde in color with a bronze cast. She has an excellent soprano voice and cherishes the ambition to put it to use professionally.

Four Others Chosen.

Four other towns also selected their candidates for queen last night.

Mathematically, the blondes had the best of it when the evening was over and the last vote cast. Winners were Geraldine Aldrich, "Miss Dowagiac"; Gussie Leder, "Miss Bridgman"; Pearl Colbrook, "Miss Stevensville," all three of the type gentlemen prefer, and Leona Bright, "Miss Buchanan," the lone brunette.

Each community powwow to delegate a representative for the final competition, to be held April 1, inspired rooting rivaling the clamor at a golden glove tournament. Fruitlessly, too, for the sheen of a well coiffered head or the flash of a pretty smile formed the basis on which the judges, all of them unknown to the contestants, made their selections. All entrants in the contests are identified by numbers, instead of names.

Rivalry Proves Keen.

Rivalry was keen and spirited both at Dowagiac and at Buchanan, a student and a graduate nurse being the respective victors in the two towns.

"Miss Buchanan" is 23 years old, 5 feet 5 inches in height, and weighs 118 pounds. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bright and was runnerup in last year's contest to Miss Eisenhart, who ruled the 1930 festival.

Six farmers' daughters competed at Bridgman, the title going to Gussie Leder, German born and American bred, with a fluffy short bob to her blonde hair and a sweet smile that was not lost on the jury.

In "Miss Stevensville" the judges chose a budding musician. Pearl Colbrook is an accomplished pianist and aspires to a career as a concert artist, relying on her soprano voice for her future fame.

A Night Letter from Ring Lardner

Tucson, Ariz., March 25.—[Special.]—The reformatory in which I am serving a term has a seven passenger sedan that makes several daily trips into Tucson. On most of these trips it is well filled with "trusties" who pretend they have shopping to do but who really want to kill time which, as you know, is at least two hours slower out here than it is in the east. Twice I have gone along with the crowd to buy myself an Arizona haircut. Our slogan for the trip seems to be "Nothing but coughs in a carload."

SEEK INJUNCTION TO HALT $11,000 SCHOOL REPORT

Called Political Waste by Woman Trustee.

The adoption of a resolution by the board of education yesterday directing Supt. William J. Bogan to distribute 500,000 copies of a report of the board at a cost of $11,000 for printing caused a hot debate at the board meeting. Following the meeting George L. Reker, a master in chancery with offices at 160 North La Salle street, said he had instructed his attorney, Francis X. Busch, to seek an injunction against the proposed expenditure.

Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, lone Democratic member of the board, started the debate by protesting against the adoption of the resolution. She declared that she had known nothing of it before the meeting. "I protest against the secrecy," she said. "I understand that the money is to be taken from the president's contingent fund in the face of the present financial shortage. This is the rankest sort of waste.

Calls It Political Move.

"This is obviously a political move to tell the parents what has been done during the last Thompson administration. I protest against the expenditure of money where it is not needed.

"It is significant that just before the election this expensive effort to tell the public what the board has done should be made. Heretofore it has been customary to issue 2,000 copies of such a report to the libraries and newspapers at a much lower cost.

"About $4,000 has already been paid to the printer, whose name seems to be known by Mr. Myers alone."

Lewis E. Myers, president of the board, was out of town yesterday and Walter H. Brandenburg, vice president, was presiding in his place. None of the trustees would divulge the printer's name.

Demands He Be Heard.

Mr. Reker was present at the meeting and asked for recognition by the acting president. Gaining no response, Mr. Reker repeated his request and Mr. Brandenburg said, "No outsider can talk or be heard on this; we are not going to hear you now."

"I am a citizen and a taxpayer," replied Reker. "If you want to throw me out, I suppose you can, but I want to make my protest against the use of public money for this purpose. I notify you that if this resolution is adopted I shall hold all of you accountable in the courts."

JAMES A. HEMINGWAY, chairman of the finance committee—This man has not been recognized by the chair. He has no right to speak here.

MR. REKER—Will the chairman take my name and note my protest?

MR. BRANDENBURG—I am sorry, but I think Mr. Hemingway has expressed the feeling of the board. We'll take your protest after the meeting is over.

Mr. Reker continued to talk, but was completely ignored as a roll call was taken and the resolution adopted, with Mrs. Hefferan casting the only dissenting vote. Then a motion to adjourn was made and passed before Reker had taken his seat. The date for the publication of the report was not announced.

Kegel Denies He's Behind Canal Accounting Suit

Health Commissioner Kegel denied yesterday that he was behind the suit for an accounting of alleged wasteful expenditures in the sanitary district under the régime of Timothy J. Crowe as president. Guy H. Addison, in whose name the suit was filed in 1928, charged in Federal Judge Wilkerson's court that Dr. Kegel was responsible for the action. "They connected me with it, I suppose, because this man was once an employé in the health department," Kegel said. "I do not know whether he still works here or not. I really know very little about it."

CUTS CABLE HOLDING CERMAK BANNER IN LOOP; PERILS CROWD

The safety of loop pedestrians was endangered yesterday morning when an unidentified man in a window of the city hall cut a steel cable supporting a "Cermak for mayor" banner which had been swung over Randolph street by the Democratic Union Labor club.

As the cable fell it became entangled in the overhead trolley wires and the loose end, reaching the wet pavement, sputtered with a charge of 550 volts of electricity. The street was closed for a short time, until a crew of electricians removed the cable.

Ald. John J. Coughlin of the First ward said that ordinarily a permit for a sign of this kind would have to come from the city council on recommendation of the alderman of the ward. He said that he had not authorized either the Cermak sign or the three Thompson banners that were stretched from the city hall to the Hotel Sherman. He suggested that Commissioner of Public Works Richard Wolfe may have given the permits. The Cermak banner was put back during the day.

WOMAN TELLS WHY SHE WILL BACK CERMAK

The independent women's committee in the campaign headquarters of Anton J. Cermak yesterday issued the second of a series of interviews with women of various occupations who are supporting Cermak. The committee is headed by Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank.

Here is the second answer made by a woman questioned as to why she was going to vote for Cermak in the coming election:

Miss Mabel Thompson, 3049 Indiana avenue, a department store saleswoman:

"My name is Thompson, but I am not related to the mayor. I am of English birth and a naturalized citizen.

"Though I am a Republican, I certainly shall vote for Mr. Cermak. He is the man for the job, I'm convinced. Thompson makes other countries laugh at Chicago.

"I think the women will help put Mr. Cermak into office."

3,000 JEWISH WOMEN ATTEND CERMAK RALLY

More than 3,000 Jewish women of the 24th ward attended a Cermak meeting yesterday at the Lawndale theater, Roosevelt road and Crawford avenue. They were addressed by their alderman, Jacob M. Arvey.

The speaker was cheered when he answered a recent attack on Julius Rosenwald, philanthropist, made by Mayor Thompson in a political speech. Mr. Rosenwald recently expressed hope that Cermak would be elected, at the same time criticizing the Thompson administration.

"Julius Rosenwald needs no credentials," Ald. Arvey declared. "He is one of America's outstanding citizens, beloved by all Americans. American presidents of both parties have placed their confidence in him. But to the mayor he is only a target for unwarranted abuse."

Following Ald. Arvey's defense of Mr. Rosenwald, reference was made to a charge earlier in the campaign that Cermak had an interest in a subdivision which barred Jews from owning property in it. It was declared by speakers at yesterday's meeting that Congressman A. J. Sabath, a Jew, was the chief owner of the subdivision, and that a clause in the leases which had appeared originally had been stricken out when Congressman Sabath and Mr. Cermak became interested in the tract.

Jewish women from the north side wards will meet tomorrow afternoon for tea at the home of Mrs. Michael Flicht, 6801 Wayne avenue, where Cermak speakers will be heard. This is one of a series of teas being given by Jewish women in Cermak's behalf.

Hope Held for Recovery of Boy Paralysis Victim

Hope was held last night for the recovery of Charles Caughey, 7 years old, 3622 South Union avenue, who has been fighting for his life since March 6 at St. Francis hospital, Evanston. Although the boy has been unconscious for more than a week, Dr. Noel G. Shaw pointed out he has not lost any ground for several days, a hopeful sign. Charles entered the hospital suffering from paralysis of the lungs and throat, and was at first kept alive with the aid of a Drinker respirator.

CERMAK SHOWS ADDED GAINS AS NEW POLL OPENS

Tribune Starts Second Test of Sentiment.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A. J. Cermak, Democratic candidate for mayor, continues a favorite among the straw voters of THE TRIBUNE poll.

In the first canvass of 34,619 citizens, which was intended to obtain the public attitude on the mayoralty candidates before the campaign started, Cermak polled 22,066 of the straws and Mayor Thompson 12,263. Since those expressions were obtained there has been a week of campaigning.

Second Poll Is Started.

The second poll, started yesterday, does not indicate that Thompson has retained any voting friends by what he has said and done since he started his campaign. If anything, he appears to have slipped a trifle farther behind, but that deduction is based solely upon the straws from one section of the city.

The views of the public were sought yesterday on the north side street corners. The result may be summarized as follows:

Candidates, Party—	Straws.	Percent.
Cermak, Democrat	2,156	65.04
Thompson, Republican	1,139	34.36
Totals	3,315	100.00

This poll covered every section of the north side, from the river to Rogers Park. An even two dozen spots were canvassed by half as many voters, and at only one spot was Thompson the leader. That particular street corner was canvassed by another man later in the day and his voters showed a preference for Cermak.

The following table shows the votes for Cermak and Thompson at each spot polled:

Spot. Location.	Cermak.	Thompson.	Total.
41. Lawrence & Paulina	45	16	61
41. Lawrence & Lincoln	74	58	132

41. Clark & Division	97	57	154
41. Chicago & Clark	233	83	316
41. Michigan—Chicago to Division	70	30	100
Totals	2,156	1,139	3,315
Percentage	65.04	34.36	100.00

In the previous poll of the north side street corners—before the campaign was started—2,012 straws were collected. Cermak obtained a smaller and Thompson a larger percentage of that poll than they received yesterday.

The distribution of straws in the first poll, many of them obtained at the same street corners canvassed yesterday, was as follows:

PRECAMPAIGN MAYORALTY POLL.

Ward, location—	Cermak.	Thompson.	Stout.	Total.
42 Clark and Chicago	63	44	0	107
42 North and Clark	71	45	1	117
44 Fullerton and Lincoln	86	32	1	120
45 Western and Belmont	105	30	1	136
45 Ashland and Belmont	70	36	0	106
46 Belmont and Clark	105	78	1	184
46 Wrightwood and and Lincoln	90	66	0	154
47 Irving Park and Robey	65	38	0	105
48 Lawrence and Broadway	70	44	0	196
48 Broadway and Wilson	133	97	2	242
48 Bryn Mawr and Broadway	97	15	0	42
49 Lunt and Clark	80	31	1	112
49 Broadway and Sheridan	72	96	2	192
49 Lincoln and Lawrence	77	40	1	118
50 Clark and Wilson	54	32	0	86
50 Devon and Western	64	24	2	90
Totals	1,262	757	26	2,012
Percentage	61.72	37.62	1.15	100.00

In 1927 THE TRIBUNE poll of the north side street corners collected the views of 2,692 persons. Dever was given 57.85 per cent of the straws, Thompson 36.95 per cent, and Robertson 5.20. That poll showed the trend of sentiment toward Thompson. He was elected at that time by a plurality of 83,218 votes; and THE TRIBUNE poll, as a whole—theaters, factories, office buildings, in addition to street corners—showed he would win by 74,962. But, of course, the poll just started may not prove as accurate a forecast.

FOUR ACCUSED IN GENERO KILLING ARE DENIED BAIL

Four men, charged with the murder of John Genero, minor hoodlum who was shot to death last Saturday night, were denied bail yesterday when arraigned before Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court. The hearing was continued to April 14.

The men are: Frank Tallarico, Bruno Rodi, Louis DeLuca and Dominick Valera. They were accused at the inquest by August [Genero] Annerino, younger brother of John. Denial of bail followed a conference in chambers between Judge Padden, Lieut. Farrell of the Deering street police and Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast. Further evidence in the case was not divulged.

In denying bail Judge Padden said, "I am not disposed to hamper the police in their investigation of this crime by releasing the prisoners. It seems to be the first gang killing in which there is a chance for the police to accomplish something."

PROF. VOLLMER QUITS U. OF C. POLICE SCHOOL

Prof. August Vollmer of the political science department of the University of Chicago has resigned as head of the special police administration division, according to reports last night. He left Chicago Sunday for Berkeley, Cal., where he is chief of police. At that time it was intimated he might not return. His departure came as a matter of routine, Prof. Vollmer having completed the six month period which he devoted to the university. The other six month period he served as active chief of the Berkeley police dpartment.

Prof. Vollmer came to the university in September, 1929, to assume charge of the new police division of instruction. He was instrumental in convening several major parleys of law enforcement officers and in effecting the county-wide police radio hookup. He also advanced the use of the sensitized instrument known as the lie detector. Under his supervision the special department developed into a highly organized anti-crime laboratory.

RESISTS BANDITS DURING HOLDUP; SERIOUSLY SHOT

Woman Helps 2 Robbers Loot Store.

Resisting two colored bandits, Jacob E. Kramer, 40 years old, 1048 East 61st street, part owner of an auto park system, was shot in the chest and probably fatally wounded last night.

Kramer and his partner, Sam Roseman, 1047 East 61st street, were riding in the latter's machine when the car stalled. The Negroes, whom Kramer knew by sight, helped them push the car and were given a lift after the automobile started again. At 61st street and Lafayette avenue the men drew revolvers and commanded Kramer and Roseman to surrender their money. Kramer seized the revolver of one of the men. The second man fired quickly. Both fled.

A bureau squad commanded by Sergt. John Miller heard the shot. One of the gunmen was seized. He gave his name as James Willbourn, 6506 State street, admitted the shooting, and named his fugitive accomplice as Charles Polk, 6726 Rhodes avenue.

Robbed of Jewels and Car.

Returning from a card party at the South Shore Country club, Albert Kessel, 7645 South Shore drive, furniture company owner, his wife, Evelyn, and Mrs. Evelyn Brusslan, wife of Ralph C. Brusslan, insurance broker, were held up early this morning in front of the Brusslan home at 7712 Essex avenue by two armed men. They lost $3,530 in valuables, in addition to their automobile.

As Kessel stopped his machine in front of the Brusslan home the gunmen stepped up to them. They took a diamond ring valued at $1,500 and a $5 bill from Kessel and two rings valued totally at $1,200 from Mrs. Brusslan, and also an ermine wrap valued at $825. The bandits then forced the trio from the car and drove away in it.

Kidnap and Rob Woman.

Two armed men kidnaped Mrs. Florence Barnes, 35 years old, 423 Melrose street, in their automobile last night, drove her around for ten minutes, and then threw her out after taking her mink coat and jewelry valued at $4,700. Mrs. Barnes, wife of William Barnes, a salesman for the United States Gypsum company, was near her home when the bandit car stopped. A Negro was at the wheel. His white companion leaped out and forced Mrs. Barnes into the machine at the point of a gun. They drove her in Sheridan road, and by detours to Roscoe street and Broadway, where they put her out.

A young woman, aided by two armed men, all well dressed, held up Oscar Heinig and Miss Leona Comstock, 2827 Madison street, in Heinig's dress shop at 2952 Madison street last night. They took $70 from Heinig and $18 from the patron.

Disregarding passersby, two bandits, one carring a shotgun, smashed in the glass panel of the entrance door of the New Way laundries at 4224 Division street last night when George Cavanaugh, the manager, refused to unlock the door. They stole $211 in cash and $647 in checks.

Menace Woman Employers.

Five woman employes and an official were menaced by three robbers yesterday in the offices of the Prudential Life Insurance company at 3357 Irving Park boulevard. They were kept captive for 20 minutes while the office was searched. The thieves escaped with $1,500, taken from the safe and cash drawer.

Frank Krasa, 439 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, a real estate dealer, notified county highway police at Willow Springs yesterday that he and a salesman, Frank Klaska, had been robbed near Willow Springs by a bandit who took his car, a Russian sable coat valued at $12,000, a bracelet valued at $3,500, and $75.

SUED AGAIN

Mary Nolan (Imogene Wilson).
[Associated Press Photo.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 25.—(AP)—A court case in Berlin, Germany, five years ago, has echoes in the Municipal court here with the filing by Max Grah, acting German consul, of a complaint against Mary Nolan, film actress, to collect the judgment returned in the Berlin court.

The complaint said Miss Nolan contracted April 15, 1926, in Berlin to work as an actress for the Glashaus films, failed to fulfill her agreement, and, May, 19, 1926, was ordered to pay 2,712 marks damages to the company.

ADMITS $25,000 EXTORTION FROM BANK OFFICIAL

Athlete Surrenders, but Most of Money Is Gone.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 25.—(AP)—A $25,000 spree ended today with Gordon A. Bjornson, 23, in jail here. The Wahpeton, N. D., athlete, for whom a nation wide search had been conducted, signed a confession, police said, admitting he kidnaped Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Leach, Wahpeton, and extorted $25,000 from the North Dakota banker on May 20, 1930.

When the end of the trail that led him into Mexico, and back here, ended in jail, he confessed he had but $1,700 in a bank and $1,000 in bonds left of the $25,000.

Drops $9,000 in Gambling House.

With some of the money he purchased an automobile, an airplane, and paid off the mortgage on his parents' home. He dropped $9,000 in a gambling house at Juarez.

Accompanied by Oscar Aamodt, Halsted, Minn., the two went to the home of a relative, O. A. Friswold, where Bjornson called his mother by telephone, and was induced to surrender. He gave himself up to police and several hours later confessed.

Bjornson's confession related how he surprised Mr. and Mrs. Leach in the garage at their home and at the point of a gun forced them to drive into the country, where he demanded $25,000 under threats to kidnap Mrs. Leach.

Bank Books Reveal Extortion.

Leach agreed to pay $25,000, and, by Bjornson's direction, the next night drove into the country and tossed a tin pail containing $25,000 at a designated spot. Leach kept his promise to keep the extortion secret.

Search for Bjornson started when suspicion was directed at him by his sudden affluence after Leach told of the affair when an investigation of the bank's books revealed Leach had drawn a check for $25,000 against his personal account.

SALESMAN ENDS ACID STOMACH

"I cannot help telling how good ACIDINE is," says J. F. McCarthy, of Dorchester, Mass. "I had been troubled with an acid stomach for the last ten years and as I am a salesman, I think my condition used to hurt my production. Now after using two boxes of ACIDINE, I feel O. K."

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE raves about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtase, that in laboratory tests digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops gassy headaches, sleeplessness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

Get ACIDINE today at Walgreen's. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink all you want. Maker refunds money if not delighted.

Third Robber Confesses Loop Holdup Fatal to 2

Returned to Chicago from New York, where he was arrested as a fugitive, Samuel Goldstein, 20 years old, 1355 North Western avenue, confessed last night that he participated in the attempted robbery of Hillman's Pure Food store, 24 West Washington street, in which Max Axelrod and Eugene Toro, money guards, were slain. Goldstein denied killing the men. However, he was confronted by Charles Wallard and James Zeman, who also have confessed. They accused him of engineering the holdup and asserted he also had fired a shot. Goldstein formerly was an employé of the store.

SPANISH TROOPS FIGHT 1,000 BOYS FIRE ON HOSPITAL

1 Slain, 50 Hurt; Babes Periled by Bullets.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, March 25.—The resignation of Gen. Molla, director general of public security, was demanded tonight by the national federation of Spanish students, following a four and one-half hour battle around the school of medicine today.

The students charge provocation and extreme brutality by the police during the struggle, in which one civil guard was killed and another gravely wounded. Two students were critically wounded and nearly fifty others from both sides were less seriously hurt.

Two doctors from the medical faculty, who also are in the service of the royal family, tonight protested to the minister of interior against the behavior of the police, who, they said, turned a minor student brawl into a tragedy and fired broadside after broadside into the school, which is also a hospital.

Students Hurl Acid at Police.

Today's riot started when the students, numbering more than 1,000, found the medical school closed by governmental order. They forced their way into the massive gray stone edifice. Once inside, the podice could not get them out, as medieval law forbids police entering any seat of learning. All the students were between the ages of 16 and 24.

The police massed outside said some 50 students then sallied forth and attacked them with revolvers and a rain of corrosive acid. The red flag of revolution was hoisted over the school's classic façade and the battle was on.

The students took the offensive and for a half hour held the busy Calle de Atocha, driving back the police. When a brick landed on his head, the officer in charge thought the fun had gone far enough and sounded a bugle call, warning of an impending fusillade.

Students Refuse to Yield.

The students refused to yield the ground they had gained. One student fell and a civil guard was seen to to stand above him and fire shots into his chest. Answering a call for reinforcements, 250 dreaded civil guards galloped up. The students scuttled into their fortress, and from the first floor balconies continued to fire. The civil guards fired broadside after broadside into the ancient school.

The faculty and house doctors said tonight their lives as well as those of the patients were endangered. Two bullets crashed into the operating room where a wounded student was under ether. He had to be moved in order that the operation could continue.

Other bullets crashed through the glass walls of the contagious wards in the children's wing, striking terror into the hearts of the tiny patients. The nursing sisters rushed these children, suffering from smallpox and diphtheria, into other wards.

The battle ended when the dean and Gen. Molla agreed to let the students go. The troops withdrew to a respectful distance and arrested nobody.

Governor Is Expected to Concur.

Dry League Loses Helm.

For the first time in more than twenty years the Anti-Saloon league found itself without control over the senate. In the galleries the leaders of the league sat and watched proceedings, and during the recess they talked with members, but it was bootless.

At one time an effort was made to pull the bill back and attach a 1932 referendum on it. This brought explosions from the liberals. Senator Richard Barr [Rep., Joliet] sought to tack the referendum, but it failed, 26 to 24—the first time the organization machine has failed so far this season.

Senators Roy G. Woods and Adelbert H. Roberts, both Chicago Republicans, kept the roll call in suspense right up to the last name. They explained their votes and kept the chamber in a high state of fidgets, as the difference of one vote meant the difference between passage and a tie.

It was made a day of long addresses by some of the senators, who read lengthy manuscripts. Senator Barbour took an hour and a half and Senator Andrew S. Cuthbertson of Bunker Hill took more than an hour. The word "nullificationist" was tossed from side to side all day.

"We used to have 79 saloons in Collins street in Joliet," said Senator Barr. "Things were worse in the days of whisky row than now."

"Well," cried Senator Michel, "today I suppose there are at least 300 speakeasies in Joliet. They took out the saloons and put in millionaire bootleggers and hijackers.

Senator Thomas Courtney, minority leader, hopped up when Senator Barr's referendum proposal came up.

"This proposal of another referendum," he said, "is deceit, cowardice, and trickery."

Carroll Has Say.

"The dry agents and the bootleggers don't want this bill passed," shouted Senator P. J. Carroll [Dem.]. "If we pass the repeal it will break up the unholy alliance between the bootleggers and prohibition agents.

"One time here a senator made a dry speech and afterwards said to me, 'Have you got a drop?' I said, 'How can you make a dry speech and then ask for a drink?' He said, 'You don't understand. My district is dry, but my conscience is wet.'"

Abraham Lincoln and Thomas Jefferson walked through all the day's debate. Nearly every speaker invoked them.

"I venture if Abraham Lincoln were here today," said Senator Harold H. Ward [Dem., Chicago], "he would vote for this repeal bill."

"The time will come in a few years," said Senator Michel, "when you will look back to this day as the beginning of a new era, a new magna charta."

In his maiden speech, Senator N. M. Mason [Rep., Ogiesby] spoke for the repealer.

"Thomas Jefferson was for majority rule," he said, "Abraham Lincoln spoke of 'government of the people, by and for the people.' These words are pregnant with meaning. By an overwhelming vote my district went on record for repeal. I feel, as their representative, that I must carry out that mandate or resign."

A Dry Is Heard From.

Senator Cuthbertson, still a director in the Anti-Saloon league, although he broke with the league officials last year because of their espousal of the independent candidacy of Mrs. O'Neill for senator, made the principal dry address of the day. He besprinkled it with the word "nullifiers."

"This referendum is not a mandate," said Senator Cuthbertson. "If this bill is enacted, Illinois will have no laws on liquor at all. Our new senator, James Hamilton Lewis, savior of the Democratic party, would have refused to abide by the referendum if it had gone dry. If Illinois had voted a million dry he would vote wet. Laugh that off!"

"The Lewis 744,000 majority may laugh that off," retorted Courtney.

"The Democratic party is passing the buck to the governor," said Cuthbertson. "I never knew the time when the Democartic party ever had a plank more substantial than the foam on a glass of beer. Abraham Lincoln never said the slavery issue should be submitted to some damn fool referendum."

Senator James O. Monroe [Dem., Collinsville] popped up.

"Well," he inquired, "were all the Republicans at your state convention last August damn fools who voted unanimously to submit that referendum?"

"Nullifiers," Shouts Cuthbertson.

"The Republican party always stands four square for the constitution," said Cuthbertson. "Every proposition for nullification came from the Democratic party. I say it would be far better to tear down the monument to Abraham Lincoln and forget that he ever lived than to tear down the constitution which he died to preserve."

"As a Democrat, I can't stand for these insults and abuses heaped on us," said Courtney. "They say this repeal is nullification. That is nonsense. To pass this repealer will not make legal any act which was illegal under the prohibition act.

"Mr. Cuthbertson says we have no plank more substantial than a glass of beer. Let me ask him, was there any less substantial plank than the one in the Republican platform last time for a full dinner pail?"

Searcy States Position.

As the debate progressed, Senator Earl B. Searcy [Rep., Springfield] put out a statement making plain his position.

"The time has come," he said, "for the Republican party to help apply some integrity and intelligence to prohibition as we have it. The Illinois law, covering as it does the same ground as the federal enforcement statute, has set up a dual system of control, with double jeopardy to result. It has failed. In some of our law observing communities, officials have elected to come under one or the other of the enforcement statutes—federal or state. Where both have been invoked the result has been corruption of officialdom, double graft and confusion. 'Federal agents have conspired with offenders to put in the 'fix' with Uncle Sam, and state agents have winked as state laws were ignored. The Illinois taxpaying public, already heavily enough burdened, will no longer peaceably stand this imposition.

No One Wants Saloon Days.

"I do not believe for a moment that the citizenship of Illinois wants a return to saloon days or anything even approaching it. I do believe, however, that Illinois taxpayers are sick of the frauds that have been perpetrated in the name of prohibition, and that open revolt is near if a change does not come. The Republican party ought to be the party of temperance and of honest law enforcement in the United States. Let opposing parties take what position they may."

The two final speeches came on the roll call, when Senators Roberts and Woods, for more than half an hour, kept the chamber on tenterhooks with speeches that kept alive until the end the climactic interest of whether the twenty-sixth, or decisive, vote was to be pro or con. Both voted wet.

"I've got to satisfy my conscience and my constituency," said Senator Woods. "I may be defeated for my vote," said Senator Woods. "But no Democrat will be able to say that here is a man who voted to submit this question to the people and then voted against it."

That settled it—the twenty-sixth vote was chalked up and the bill had passed.

Text of the Repealer.

The text of the O'Grady-McDermott repealer is short and simple. It reads:

"Be it enacted by the people of the state of Illinois, represented in the general assembly:

"'An act to restrict the manufacture, sale, transportation, possession and use of intoxicating liquor, aiding thereby in establishing uniformity in state and federal laws in regard thereto,' approved June 27, 1921, and 'an act to restrict the manufacture, possession and use of intoxicating liquor within prohibition territory,' approved June 21, 1919, are repealed."

CAPONE BREWERY, HUGE BEER SUPPLY RAIDED IN CICERO

An elaborate brewery and 31,000 gallons of beer, presumably operated by the Capone gang, was seized by special prohibition agents at 1642 South 48th avenue, Cicero, early yesterday.

The brewery was housed in a large garage and two sets of doors reinforced with steel had to be battered down with a heavy truck by ten agents under Elliott Ness, assistant to W. E. Bennett, head of the special dry force.

Three men giving the names of Henry Carter, John Mann, and Steve Svoboda were found inside.

The raiders seized 14 vats of 1,500 gallons capacity each and 5 vats holding 1,500 gallons each. Sixty barrels of beer were ready for shipment.

Agent Ness said the physical equipment, barred doors, and layout of the plant were identical to a Capone brewery raided at 2108 South Wabash avenue by the special agents last summer, indicating that the Capone gang uses a regulation outfit.

SPECTATOR DIES IN SENATE GALLERY AS REPEAL DEBATE RAGES

Springfield, Ill., March 25.—[Special.]—While Senator Victor P. Michel of Peoria was arguing for passage of the dry law repeal bill in the senate this afternoon one of his constituents, Edward C. Westhafer, 44, of Peoria, died suddenly of heart disease in the senate gallery.

Senator Michel was in the midst of his final appeal when Westhafer slumped in his seat. He was dead when a physician arrived. His death caused no disturbance and attracted little attention—the interest in the debate being so tense that few noticed his collapse.

Maryland Bill for Sale of Rum Doomed This Session

Annapolis, Md., March 25.—(AP)—A bill calling for creation of a Maryland state liquor commission to manufacture and sell intoxicating beverages was considered killed for this session of the legislature today when the house voted to send it back to committee.

RENO'S LIBERAL MAYOR HAS TWO ELECTION RIVALS

Reno, Nev., March 25.—(AP)—Wide open Reno May 6 will choose from among three candidates the man who is to be mayor for the next four years of the city that aspires to be the Monte Carlo as well as the divorce center of America.

Mayor E. E. Roberts, whose policies for eight years have been to make "a city where every man can do what he pleases so long as he doesn't interfere with the rights of others," will have two opponents. Howard Doyle, business man, and Milburn R. Gregory, real estate man and world war veteran, are the other two candidates.

Mayor Roberts is father-in-law of Walter Johnson, the ball player, a former member of congress and in his youth was a school teacher.

For that INDIGESTION

For 36 years, men and women by the million have settled stomach disturbances with a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. A reliable remedy; a real relief. And you have never tried them! In 1894 a druggist sold his first package of Stuart's. Today they are a drug-store staple. The first thing that comes to mind when the stomach needs a sweetener. No burning soda! Just a happy combination of Calcium Carbonate (2½ times more effective than soda) Magnesia and other valuable ingredients. In ten minutes—or less—acidity is overcome; all that sourness dispelled.

Many parents have come to realize these tablets are ideally suited to children's digestive disorders. The tremendous sale of the family size boxes is proof of that. Next time a young stomach is complaining, think of Stuart's.

GANDHI RESCUED FROM ANGRY MOB BY WOMAN POET

Youth Swings Flagpole at Holy Man's Head.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

KARACHI, India, March 25.—The timely intervention of Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, India's woman poet, and Pundit Malaviya, aged Brahmin leader, saved Mahatma Gandhi from the fury of a mob of hostile "red shirts" on his arrival here today from Delhi. They were protesting the execution a few days ago of Bhagat Singh and two companions, convicted of murdering a police official.

PUNDIT MALAVIYA.

Cries of "Down with Gandhi, he is a murderer and a traitor," and "Long live Bhagat Singh, whom Gandhi crucified," greeted the Indian leader as he stepped from an auto. He had left his train 12 miles outside of Karachi. About a hundred youths, clad in red shirts and carrying black flags, rushed at him.

"Murderer! Murderer! Dirty traitor!" they yelled, and one impetuous youth tried to bang the holy man over the head with a flag pole.

Gandhi Winces Before Mob.

Gandhi, surprised at the hostility of the reception, winced. Then Mrs. Naidu, waving her orange colored sari, and the aged Malaviya thrust themselves between Gandhi and the milling red shirts.

"Calm yourselves, my friends," Mrs. Naidu, who recently emerged from prison after a year behind the bars, cried to the mob. "Calm yourselves. Gandhi is your friend and not your enemy. Let him pass. Demonstrate all you want, but do not get violent."

Malaviya, high priest of the Brahmins, whose contact with sweaty crowds dates only since he joined Gandhi's movement for Indian independence, also begged the youths to make way.

Gandhi himself, despite a hectic night's ride, throughout which he was hailed over the entire route by friendly crowds, only smiled.

With Mrs. Naidu on one arm and Malaviya on the other, he walked into the midst of the demonstrators, who dropped their flags and sullenly made way for the holy man to pass.

"You have a perfect right to demonstrate for anything you wish, but why try to break my head?" Gandhi said. "Violence will not get you anywhere. It defeats your purpose."

For all their shouting, not one red shirt touched the "saint" as he strode from his car. But his bravery caught with the crowd which was standing by, half frightened, and they burst into loud yells, "Gandhi! Long live Gandhi!"

Dr. Carlton Washburne, superintendent of public schools in Winnetka, Ill., who is on a world tour studying foreign educational systems, arrived on the same train as Gandhi. He slipped away from the crowd of red shirts unmolested by donning a little white Gandhi cap—the badge of Indian nationalism.

burne said. "At every station along "It was a fantastic trip," Dr. Washthe route thousands of rabid people mobbed the train, trying to get a glimpse of Gandhi.

"At Rohri a mob of 10,000 smashed the windows of his third class carriage and it was only the heroic work of Miss Slade, Gandhi's companion, that saved him from certain injury."

Miss Slade, daughter of an English admiral, is a husky young girl, equalling in stature about three underfed Hindus. Unable to break through the blinds of Gandhi's carriage, the crowd succeeded in smashing in the window of the washroom in the leading compartment, Dr. Washburne said.

"At least three climbed through the window, with 10,000 more waiting to follow," he continued, "But before they reached the compartment Miss Slade grabbed them by the hair and neck and literally tossed them out of the window, one after another. One of the crowd, unfortunately, fell under the wheels of the starting train and had his leg cut off."

50 Slain in Riots.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

ALLAHABAD, March 25.—Two companies of British troops and 200 police tonight were patrolling the streets of Cawnpore, where Hindu-Moslem rioting has raged since yesterday morning.

An official report placed the death toll tonight at fifty, with an estimated 200 wounded. The streets are littered with wrecked automobiles and the remains of looted shops, and hospitals are crowded to capacity with victims. In many cases women and children were killed and houses wantonly set afire.

When news of Bhagat Singh's execution reached Cawnpore, yesterday congress messengers were sent out to proclaim a hartal, or cessation of of work. Gangs of youths paraded along the mall, breaking windows and doing other damage.

Develops into Race Riot.

The situation became menacing early in the afternoon, when a quarrel arose between Hindu congressmen who wanted the hartal and Moslem trades people who objected to closing their shops. The quarrel led to a fight, crowds of both communities hurling missiles at each other and fighting with lathis. In an hour the rioting had spread like wildfire; telegraph wires were cut down, Britishers stoned in automobiles, and Moslem shops wrecked and burned.

The rioting began again with redoubled fury this morning. This time it was the Moslems who attacked the Hindus, burning temples and murdering Hindus who dared to walk in the streets.

The Misses Hazel and Helen Alexander

Popular on the Northwestern University campus, where they were members of the class of '29, they are known to their scores of friends as "The Alex Twins." Whether it be at a football game, at a Kappa Kappa Gamma dance or on the beach, they are always together, alert, active, ready to go.

"It takes lots of energy to keep up with things these days, but Welch's is our meat and drink," says Helen. "It keeps us peppy and cheerful," says Hazel. "It satisfies hunger and takes the place of fattening things between meals," continues her sister. "I've never felt so well as since I've got the Welch habit. I can dance and play hours on end." "That goes for me too," echoes Hazel. "Welch's is not only a delicious drink, but it picks you up like solid food when hungry."

for abundant vitality

YOUTHFUL vitality, expressed in graceful figure, glowing complexion and sparkling eyes, is the modern woman's rightful inheritance. It may be possessed at no greater cost than a simple daily routine. "Eat grapes," experts say, "because they are packed with quick energy, which almost instantly banishes hunger and fatigue."

Science and experience enable Welch's to bring you the concentrated goodness of vintage Concords every day throughout the year, bottled at their ripe best in the highlands of upper New York state.

Grape Juice, as prepared under Welch's rigid laboratory-controlled system, is Nature's sun-digested tonic-food. Mineral salts, neutralizing acids and fruit proteins are quickly absorbed into the blood stream, affording a fund of ready energy which throws no excessive burden on the overworked digestive system.

This pure, wholesome fruit combines delicious taste with benefits that are far-reaching to you and every member of your family. Wonderfully appetizing as a breakfast fruit—and delightfully refreshing at any hour of the day. Many prefer it with one-third to one-half water added. It is mildly laxative and non-fattening. The Welch habit of America is the famed "grape cure" of Europe—at a tiny fraction of the cost.

Welch's Welch's PASTEURIZED GRAPE JUICE

Welch's "by-the-bunch" is now available in the 10c Junior, the new sampler size, convenient for a single serving. It is the concentrated goodness of one and a quarter bunches of full-ripe Concords. Ask for Welch's at leading fountains, hotels, clubs and restaurants. Include it in your diet for one month—then check results. The pint bottle at 30c is most economical for household use. Write for health-and-weight-control booklet. Welch's, Dept. CT-4 Westfield, N. Y.

FATHER, THREE CHILDREN DIE AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Tragedy Occurs on Way to Church Service.

A father and his three children were killed yesterday when their automobile was demolished by a fast Soo line train one-half mile north of the Touhy road near Des Plaines. The accident happened a few minutes after the children had left their home to be driven to a special church service. The dead:

John Klinker, 50 years old, a watchman for Bauske Brothers' greenhouse, located near the Touhy and Mannheim roads.

Marie Klinker, 13 years old.

Fern Klinker, 10 years old.

Roy Klinker, 8 years old.

The father and two girls were killed outright and the boy died shortly afterward at St. Mary's of Nazareth hospital in Chicago. County highway police who investigated the accident said Klinker either apparently failed to see the approaching train or else he had thought he could beat it to the crossing.

Just Away from Home.

The Klinker family home is situated near the greenhouse where the father was employed and is connected with the Touhy road by a narrow driveway, which is unguarded at the railroad tracks. The automobile had just passed out of sight of the home when the tragedy occurred.

Mrs. Marie Klinker, the mother of the children, collapsed when told of the accident. The automobile was hurled 200 feet by the speeding train, which was bound for Chicago. All trains on the tracks were held up for thirty minutes due to the crash.

According to the police Klinker was to have left today for Alabama, where his daughter, Fern, was to be placed in a sanitarium school. The girl had been suffering with lung trouble.

An inquest will be held this morning at Oehler's undertaking rooms in Des Plaines to which the bodies were removed.

One Other Death Recorded.

These four deaths and one other yesterday raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 271. The other victim:

Clarence Weringa, 21 years old, 15 East 126th place, a printer. Fatally injured while crossing Wabash avenue at 53d street when he was struck by an automobile which had been stolen by two youths. One of the youths, Herbert Johnson, 19 years old, 5300 North Spaulding avenue, was taken to the Washington Park hospital in a serious condition. Thomas Fleet, also 19, 4631 North Racine avenue, his companion, was arrested.

Mrs. Ethel E. Cantwell, 63 years old, 700 Columbian avenue, Oak Park, wife of Attorney Robert E. Cantwell Sr., was slightly injured early this morning in an automobile collision at Oak Park and Augusta avenues. Mrs. Cantwell was in the machine of Mrs. Clara Marquardt, 133 South Scoville avenue, when their car was struck by the automobile of William Simarek, 1117 South Oak Park avenue. He was held for speeding. Mrs. Cantwell was taken to Oak Park hospital.

Four Policemen Hurt.

Four policemen were injured early this morning when the squad car in which they were chasing three men in an automobile ran over a curb at Jackson boulevard and the west entrance to Garfield park, blew a tire and overturned. The fugitives' car also went over the curbing, but they jumped out and fled on foot. The injured policemen are Sergt. Andrew Klasen, 5317 Byron street; Fred Ristau, 3542 5th avenue; Edward Tighe, 1021 North Lamon avenue, the driver, and Frank Czech, 1012 North Hoyne avenue. Ristau's condition was reported as serious.

The fugitive car had run a red light at Madison street and Western avenue and dashed away when police sought to question the driver. Two shots were fired in the chase. The license of the fugitive car was issued to Harold Ardner, 1126 South Austin boulevard, and he was taken into custody for questioning.

James A. Hart, manager of the St. Clair hotel, and E. H. Smith of E. H. Smith & Co., clothiers, who lives at the McCormick hotel, were injured early this morning when the automobile driven by Hart and a taxicab in which Smith was riding collided at Monroe street and Michigan avenue. Six other persons in Hart's car, four of them women, were slightly injured.

WOMAN POLICE SPY FREED AFTER GIVING TESTIMONY TO JURY

Mrs. Shirley Kub, former undercover agent for Acting Police Commissioner Alcock, whose testimony before the special grand jury investigating police corruption resulted in a series of raids Tuesday night, was released from custody on a 90 day probation writ yesterday by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court. Mrs. Kub had been sentenced to four months in the county jail for contempt in having fled from the state to avoid testifying.

After her flight Mrs. Kub was found in Indiana and brought back. She presented to the grand jury all reports she had made as an undercover agent. State's Attorney Charles E. Lounsbury and Joseph A. Farmar, foreman of the special grand jury, appeared before the judge to recommend probation. She was placed under bond of $3,000 to insure her coöperation with the investigation.

Prosecutors examined records seized in 37 places raided on the west side in which 110 men and women were arrested. The special grand jury adjourned until Monday to afford prosecutors opportunity to develop new leads from the evidence taken.

LEGISLATORS ASK PAROLE RECORDS IN PRISON PROBE

Plan to Resume Hearings at Joliet Tomorrow.

Records of all parole cases that have been considered by the state board of pardons and paroles during the regimés of Hinton G. Clabaugh and W. C. Jones as chairmen of the board were requested yesterday by the legislative committee investigating the causes of the riots in the Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries.

There are approximately 5,000 such cases and the preparation of the records will require a week. The request was taken as an indication that the committee intends to go much more fully into the state's penal situation than was at first intended.

Three members yesterday asserted a belief that the evidence taken thus far has only scratched the surface. They are Representatives William G. Thon [Rep., Oak Park], M. E. Bray [Dem., Litchfield], and Michael L. Igoe [Dem., Chicago]. It is understood that Representative Harry M. McCaskrin [Rep., Rock Island] holds the same view.

Want to Press Inquiry.

Gossip at Springfield yesterday was to the effect that Representative Roger F. Little of Springfield, the administration floor leader and chairman of the investigating body, was maneuvering to close the inquiry with the examination of the parole records. The others not only want to continue at the Stateville and old Joliet penitentiaries, but also want to investigate conditions at Chester and Pontiac.

More testimony is to be taken, under present plans, at Joliet tomorrow. Warden Henry C. Hill, in charge of the twin prisons in which the riots caused the loss of three convict lives and the burning of property valued at more than a half million dollars, said yesterday that there was a plot among his prisoners that might lead to the giving of a great mass of false statements to the committee.

He said he had discovered Harry Olson, one of the convicts who already has testified, urging others in the prison hospital to complain that the sick are improperly treated there, and that the prison physician, Dr. C. J. Carlin, appears only once a week. Warden Hill asserted that the doctor makes the rounds of the hospital daily.

Keep Prisoners in Cells.

The prisoners in the old penitentiary, with the exception of 600 who took no part in the rioting on March 14, remained locked in their cells yesterday. At Stateville 550 men were released from their individual cells to clean up the débris resulting from the fires. They were kept under heavy guard.

Warden Hill remained firm in his decision that all the prisoners except those who were not rioters would be kept in cells and fed there until the legislative committee finishes taking testimony. From the cellhouses there were loud boos throughout the day and demands that privileges, including radio concerts and tobacco supplies, be restored. The authorities said that there would be no such restoration for the present.

A coroner's jury decided in the morning that Raymond Barney, a Negro convict shot in the Stateville riot, was advancing on guards and state highway police when he was killed. The verdict was that he met death while disobeying orders.

The legislative committee members said they were eager to speed the building of a new cell block at Stateville to relieve overcrowding, but that they felt it would be dangerous to send 200 workers from outside to do the work in the present temper of the convicts.

OFFER RECORDS IN MALLOY TRIAL FOR BANK THEFT

Documentary evidence, consisting of ledgers, deposit slips and adding machine tape and purporting to show an embezzlement of $50,000, was introduced yesterday in the case of John E. Malloy, former assistant cashier of the Lawrence Avenue National bank, on trial before Federal Judge Wham.

A nine page statement made to police by Malloy following the purported holdup of the bank on New Year's day also was introduced by Assistant United States Attorney Owen A. West. The statement said that Malloy was instructed by George I. Pilat, president of the bank, to set the time lock on the vault for 3 p. m. Jan. 1. Pilat has denied this. Malloy further stated that he was kidnaped at the bank by two bandits who claimed they were examiners to gain admission.

The government is expected to conclude its evidence today.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

BETRAYED BY HIS NERVOUSNESS, HE ADMITS MURDER

First Serves on Jury and Helps Dig Grave.

Little Rock, Ark., March 25.—[Special.]—Nervousness which aroused what suspicions of the sheriff has put Ollie Greenhaw in a cell, a confessed murderer.

Neighbors became alarmed at the continued absence of O. G. Wright, 67 years old, a farmer living near Batesville, 100 miles north of Little Rock. He had not been seen since last Thursday.

A posse was formed to search the farm. Greenhaw was a member of the posse and was one of the most diligent in the hunt. The body was found on Sunday. The man had been killed with a shotgun.

Serves on Coroner's Jury.

Greenhaw helped bring the body to Batesville. He acted as a member of the coroner's jury, which brought in a verdict of "killed by a shot by an unknown person."

Later Greenhaw helped dig the grave in which the body was to be buried and attended the funeral.

Sheriff J. R. Engles of Independence county was struck by the extreme nervousness displayed by Greenhaw and by the fact that he averted his eyes to avoid seeing the body of Wright.

Confesses to Killing.

The result was a full confession. Greenhaw said he owed $11. He said that fact worried him.

"All honest people want to pay their debts," he said, "and this money continued to haunt me until I decided to get enough to pay what I owned."

The suspected man said that he had heard Wright had money secreted in his house. He laid his plans carefully. First, he borrowed some money so there would be no questions concerning where he got the money to pay the debt.

Then he made trips to several towns and villages, well removed from the Wright home, and took pains to impress his presence on various people.

Fails to Find Money.

Having set up this attempted proof of an alibi, he went to Wright's place during his absence and searched the house, finding no money. He stole a shotgun and was leaving when Wright returned. He claims he shot when Wright threatened him with an ax.

After the slaying he hid the shotgun in a swamp stump and fled to another county to aid his alibi claim.

In his confession Greenhaw said he escaped from an Alabama prison where he was serving twenty years for an earlier murder.

M'LEAN SEEKS RIGHT TO PRESS DIVORCE SUIT

Washington, D. C., March 25.—(AP)—Edward Beale McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, today asked the District of Columbia Supreme court to dissolve the temporary injunction preventing him from prosecuting a suit for divorce against his wife, Evelyn Lucille.

McLean filed suit at Cuernavaca, Mexico, charging incompatibility. He contended today it had nothing to do with the question of alimony to his wife and children. He said he obtained a certified copy of the consent decree of Jan. 17, 1931, directing the payment of $7,500 monthly for the support of his family, and sent it to the Mexican court.

TERRY DRUGGAN VAGRANCY CASE IS DISMISSED

Terry Druggan, beer baron and public enemy, was discharged yesterday when arranged before Judge Francis Borrelli in South State street court on a vagrancy charge. The case was dismissed after the state had asked for its tenth continuance, stating the evidence was not in proper shape for presentation.

Judge Borrelli criticized Sergt. Roy Van Herik when the policeman admitted he signed the warrant without personal knowledge of any crime committed by Druggan. The judge then asked if the evidence was the same as was used against Harry Guzik. Assistant State's Attorney James Brown admitted the present case was no stronger than the one against Guzik. "Well, you know what I did to that case," Judge Borrelli commented and dismissed Druggan.

Student Is Wounded in Mystery Attack on Street

Charge 2 Girls Passed Bad Checks for $1,500

Charged with passing bogus checks amounting to $1,500, Miss Ellen Hasson, 23 years old, and Miss Goldie Peters, 25 years old, both of 7300 South Shore drive, were arrested yesterday by Sergt. John B. Rourke and his squad of the Woodlawn station. They were held on ten complaints.

A CHANCE FOR INDIAN EXTREMISTS.

The British in India have executed three revolutionists as murderers, one being Bhagat Singh, a person of some place and consequence. Two crimes were charged, an assassination in 1928 and a bomb throwing in 1929. The men were hanged, their bodies burned, and the ashes scattered into the Sutlej river by the executioners a day before the executions were expected. At the news of this the temper of the revolutionaries rose and troops were held in readiness to meet disorders.

The British government had been implored to satisfy its justice without executing the three condemned men. Gandhi asked for a reprieve if for no other reason than to preserve the armistice pending the bargaining for the dominion status. Expediency might have suggested that the crimes be treated as political, the incidents of revolution. Gandhi's policy of nonresistance had prevented the spread of violence among the revolutionists and had made them passive under brutal police treatment. The crimes charged against the three executed men were exceptional. Under a control less remarkable than that of the esthetic leader of the Indian nationalists bloodshed would have been the rule and not the rare incident.

British justice in dealing with the convicted men was threatening the command of Gandhi over his followers and his influence was the only one able to restrain them from attacking with arms. He has presented the nonresisting front which has spared Great Britain a necessity which it might find abhorrent, that of putting down a rebellion with machine guns, gas, air bombers, and tanks. Mr. MacDonald, at the head of a Labor government, has not been required to load transports with troops to meet a stubborn revolution at great cost in life and money. The British very likely could have been united behind a government carrying on such a war, but aside from its costs it would have had embarrassments for any nation professing new ideals of peace. Gandhi's doctrine has spared the British government all this to date, but his control could, conceivably, be put at hazard if the sentiments of his adherents were outraged by the fate of the condemned men.

Such considerations got nowhere with British justice. The natives had been convicted of assassinating a police commissioner and petitions had no effect. As soon as the news of the executions was spread, aggravated by the summary disposal of the bodies afterwards, the extremists in the revolution took advantage of the opportunity to attack the conservative leader who has been holding the masses in check. Gandhi was assailed by the radicals, many of them communists, as a traitor to the cause of Indian liberty.

It is the rule of revolution that it passes from the conservative to the radical elements. That was true of the English revolution, of the French, and of the Russian. It was the distinctive characteristic of the American revolution that the violent swing to the left was checked. In an older country it might not have been. If there had been unprivileged masses and great vested interests the Jacobin might have taken charge. As it was, the conservatives were able to weather the critical period, but the course of revolution runs otherwise.

Gandhi's influence may be sufficient to stop the extremists after their first flurry, but the British government by its refusal to compromise justice for expediency or to consider that crimes have one background when a people are struggling for freedom and another when they disturb the normal conditions of life turned the radicals loose on him. Death is the penalty for murder in the British code and that rule was applied. If the radicals and extremists take control in consequence the Indian revolution may go up another street. That is the chance which British law took.

A NEW OKLAHOMA PRODUCT.

Gov. William H. Murray, Alfalfa Bill, of Oklahoma, has been giving conditional parole to convicts. They are released with the understanding that they get out of the state and do not return. If Oklahoma ever sees them again they will be sent back to prison. Gov. Murray by preference is a simple and natural American, at ease with his feet on the table, his hat on his head, and his suspenders stretched out on his thumbs. Out of such attitudes comes much common sense, and Alfalfa is addicted to it. The summary expulsion of convicts is supposed to be it.

If Oklahoma had the hoof and mouth disease or the San José scale it would be put under an embargo, and if among citizens departing from the state there is reason to suspect that there are expelled convicts required to practice elsewhere a quarantine would be the reasonable protection at the border. Oklahoma's neighbors are not in need of such imports. It would not make a desirable state of affairs in the Union to put up barriers against a sovereign state and coop its citizens within for the protection of others, but Mr. Murray should perceive that this would be quite justified if he insists that other states shall take care of Oklahoma's criminals.

EDUCATION NEEDS OVERHAULING.

Education needs overhauling, says Prof. T. H. Briggs of Columbia. College and high school are costly failures. Studies are obsolete and techniques learned for high degrees rarely are of service afterward. Capt. Dollar, the dynamic trader of the Pacific, goes further. "Go to work when you are 16 years old," says the self-made ship owner. "Forget higher education and college training. The one who starts at the bottom of the ladder early has the best chance to climb to the top." From within and from without comes harsh criticism of our educational machinery. Most of it is founded on the impression that teaching is conducted by persons out of living contact with the more significant areas of modern experience, that courses and methods are withdrawn in academic segregation, sufficient to themselves, without communion with the great streams of outer action, that the materials and subject matter are irrelevant to life though solemn, and frivolous though full of pomp and minute circumstance. The impression of the critics is in great part right.

The faults of American education are obvious. The overgrown juvenility of our college students, the provincialism and indifference of our communities, the barrenness of our intellectual and creative life, except as it becomes professional, the cultural dispersion and lack of living integration all show that our educational methods provide no motivation nor an abiding interest in fuller, more thoughtful, more dynamic ways of life. And though the causes of this failure surely lie in great part in our cultural and national immaturity, in the tremendous social shift and economic change of recent years that has broken old tradition, made inept old methods, thrown out of date half the ideas and educational agencies of a century ago, there is still much to blame for evils that could be remedied. Our national preoccupation in the settlement of a continent may have left our education immature in method, but that will not account for the whole failure.

Education needs overhauling. Dr. Briggs asks a survey of the known facts and on this basis a definition of problems and a laying out of programs for their solution. Already efforts are being made in various institutions to meet an obvious need. The entire grade, course, credit, degree system is under fire. In a more civilized system it will surely disappear. At Chicago, at Wisconsin, at Northwestern, at Harvard significant experiments are under way. The relics of outworn methods slowly wear down and wash into the pits of history.

THE GOLDEN GLOVES TO CHICAGO.

The intersectional Golden Gloves Boxing tournament has been transferred from New York to Chicago. The amateur boxers of the Chicago and New York areas were to have met in Madison Square Garden March 30. They will meet here April 2. Although Chicago will enjoy the windfall, there is regret that New York is to be deprived of its turn in the sequence of these matches. The trouble was another one of those things which crop out from time to time in the control of amateur sports.

It has been proved desirable to have neutral referees in the intersectional bouts. It was thought that close decisions would stand up better on their own merits if there was no possible color of local interest in them. Out of town referees and judges were to have been used in New York. That was understood, and it was unexpected that the reorganized Metropolitan Athletic union, through its boxing committee, should refuse to sanction the plan.

The New York management of the tournament regarded this exercise of authority as purely arbitrary and with no point as to any amateur considerations involved. It was an interference with the proper supervision and direction of the bouts and against the best interests of the intersectional competition. The bouts can be conducted in Chicago free from such interference, and they have been moved out of New York City to escape it.

The control of amateur athletics now and then reveals a precious dilettanteism beyond the common sense understanding. It involves amateur standing and amateur competition in formulas and rules which appear ridiculous. Amateur sports should be the simplest, nothing being involved except the sport on fair terms; but management has made amateur standing the most complex of human relations with the most arbitrary of bureaucratic control. It is too bad that New York loses the bouts, but that's the way of it.

Editorial of the Day

NICE OF HIM.

[Rock Island Argus.]

The other day Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois called at the White House only to discover that President Hoover was out motoring. The senator left his card, at the same time expressing his regret. He remarked that in his time he had reproved Republican senators because they failed to support "the office of President" during the Wilson régime, and that he hoped there would be opportunities for him to give his support to President Hoover in many ways notwithstanding their different political affiliations.

There is no reason for regarding Senator Lewis' action as amounting only to a polite gesture. He is more likely to be found on the side of the President than some who call themselves Republicans, but who repudiate Republican policies and platforms and take delight in heckling the President. Mr. Hoover will not be lacking in appreciation of the courtesy and Illinois people, regardless of politics, like Mr. Lewis all the more because he made this White House call. In no way did Senator Lewis compromise his party or himself. He is known as a consistent Democrat, but consistent Democrats treat Mr. Hoover with far more ordinary courtesy and kindness than inconsistent Republicans.

LITTLE THINGS OF LIFE.

Just to show the importance of a comma, read this:

Some one handed the minister a notice to read out from the pulpit. The note read: "A man, going to sea, his wife desires the prayers of the congregation."

The minister in reading out the notice put the comma in the wrong place, and this is how it sounded: "A man going to see his wife, desires the prayers of the congregation."—Exchange.

"POT LIKKER."

GOV. HUEY P. LONG hits the front page of the newspapers with a story about "pot likker." I think of Gov. Long as a very astute politician but not as a man of wisdom or a statesman. Least of all do I esteem him as a promoter of public health. But he is all to the good on his main theme in this newspaper story.

Pot liquor is what the scientists would call a decoction of good vegetables. It is the liquor of vegetables though the liquor is modified somewhat. It is all that part of the vegetables that will go into solution when heated. To start with, therefore, it is rich in vitamins, in coloring matters, and in mineral salts. It is just for these that we eat most vegetables, and pot liquor is the cream of what we are after. It also contains some of the calorie elements, some sugar, starch, fat, and protein, such of these as are easily dissolved.

There is a fad now for feeding strained vegetables. Well, that's what pot liquor is. There is a fad for feeding pureed vegetables. Pot liquor comes to about the same objective. Both are good fads.

It is a sterile food. It is diluted, but not so dilute as soup. To improve its value somewhat some meat and fat are added. Such is pot liquor. Children that get it are generally rosy and fat, and their skin is shiny.

I refuse to be drawn into any fight over the momentous question of drinking with corn pone. That is a side issue and may have been raised as a camouflage. I had rather save all my powder for the onslaught against pot liquor.

But among the garnishments added by Gov. Long was chitterlings. That will be a new food to many people. Those with no dictionary at hand will appreciate an explanation. Chitterlings are intestines. We have long eaten tripe and many prefer their bologna and little pig in casings. Thus, eating the digestive tract is now new. It was once the custom to eat pepsin foods, such as tripe, papaws, and papaya. That custom fell into disuse, but as soon as it did tripe took its place by the side of liver as a food-medicine for the cure of anemia.

There are those who have claimed virtues in extracts of intestinal glands as digestive agents. These claims may not stand up, but who can say that physiologists will not discover other virtues in digestive tract wall and that physicians will never prescribe chitterlings?

WHAT A BUNION IS.

S. D. writes:

1. What is a bunion? Is it a state of a bone grown crooked, or a mass of fat and callus?
2. Can it be cured?
3. How?

REPLY.

1. It is a combination. First there is displaced bone. Next, thickening of bone. Third, overgrowth of soft tissues. Fourth, formation of a corn or its equivalent.
2. Yes.
3. A few cases are cured by wearing protective pads. More cases are cured by wearing broad shoes, toe straighteners, and protective pads. Many cases require operation. Most of these require an operation to straighten the displaced bones and joints. A few call for cutting away of enlarged bones.

PROTEIN FOODS.

A. B. C. writes: Would like a list of foods heavy in protein besides meat and eggs.

REPLY.

Cheese of all kinds; all kinds of concentrated milks, nuts, cereals, chocolate and cocoa, peas, and beans.

EITHER OR BOTH.

J. J. W. writes: I purchased a pair of glasses recently. The optician informed me that I had astigmatism in the right eye. My eyes have been bloodshot for the last few days. Do you think this could be caused by the glasses or by a heavy cold?

REPLY.

Either or both.

CONGRESS MAKES LAWS.

Chicago, March 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you please advise if President Hoover has passed any bills, thereby making them law, whereby our immigration laws as affecting European countries were changed and, if so, the dates? C. F. E.

The President does not pass laws. In order to find what laws have been passed by congress we would suggest that you write to one of your representatives in congress.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LITERACY TEST.

Chicago, March 24.—[Friend of the People.]—1. Can an alien receive full naturalization papers if at the time of his application he is not able to speak, write or read the English language?

2. If such an applicant who was not able to speak, write or read the English language has obtained his naturalization papers while still an ignorant illiterate, can the same be revoked if proven? L. A. K.

1. The law requires that an alien must write his name in English, speak the English language, and be able to answer questions about our form of government in English, but does not require that he write English.

2. That depends largely upon the date on which the petition was granted and the declaration of intention was filed. If the declaration of intention was filed before Sept. 27, 1906, and he was naturalized on such a declaration of intention, the law expressly exempted him from the requirements of writing and speaking English.
FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Naturalization.

CO-SIGNERS OF NOTE.

Chicago, March 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A friend and I indorsed a note for another friend, who lost his position, and we are at present paying same. Understand after we pay and secure note we can garnishee him if he is working. 1. If he should refuse to pay after he secures work can we have him put in jail by paying his board until he pays off? 2. Does this law only apply in such cases where judgment is given in suits for accidents, etc. 3. Can he bankrupt against a confessed judgment note? P. A. B.

1. No.
2. It applies only where the judgment is for something equivalent to a willful injury.
3. Yes.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THEY SAY THEY'LL GIVE 'EM AWAY, BUT TRY AND BUY ONE.

Now Mr. Stone, the new Farm Bureau chairman, says that if the farmer doesn't stop planting wheat he'll dump the government wheat on the market, and that'll fix him. Mr. Stone seems to have a heart of stone, anyway. However, we don't blame him; we've got a heart of stone where the farmer is concerned, too. Here they weep about starving to death and can't pay their taxes or buy gas for their four automobiles or new shoes for the baby, and all they wish is that they could get rid of that lousy farm and move to town where there's at least a breadline. And we, mopping the streaming tears out of our credulous eyes, offer to buy one of their farms, and what do they do? They act right away as though they thought we were the Bank of England. And when we wince in pain they point with pride to what it'll be worth in a couple of hundred years. All right, we won't buy a farm. We'll walk up to Lincoln park to look at the trees, buy our vegetables from Ray the Human Groceryman, and spend our holiday in Germany. There's beer in Germany, anyway. And, behind a stein of it as tall as that, smooth golden brown nectar topped with a great white cloud of foam, we'll read about Mr. Stone dumping wheat and the price slipping to 36 cents, or maybe less, and we'll laugh and laugh. And order another stein of beer. Anyhow, we wouldn't know what to do with a farm if we had one.

ONCE MORE THE SPRING.

Now let me sing
Once more of the spring—
Of clean things and green things and birds on the wing;
Of brooks that are running,
Of meadow larks sunning,
Of light things and bright things, of buds burgeoning.

Now let me be grateful
A winter so hateful
Is banished, has vanished to vex us no more—
A winter, whose hosts
Of wild, hoary ghosts
Are dissolved in the mists and the mem'ries of yore.

Old, old is the theme,
Yet new, still the dream
The sunshine and breezes and daffodils bring
From forest and garden,
From Eden, from Arden,
From Arcady, fragrant and far-beckoning.

No more shall I mope:
With the spring cometh hope,
Cometh mating time, seed time and harvest again
With sky and with earth
I shall know a rebirth,
Rejoice in the sun and revive in the rain.

EOLUS.

SPRING is here! At exactly four o'clock by our vest pocket chronometer Bill Wrigley's clock said it was fifteen minutes to nine. That settles it; whenever it's four o'clock and Bill's clock says it's a quarter of nine you can be sure that spring is actually here. We have carefully watched this phenomenon for years and it has never failed.

CHARLIE DAWES, the w. k. ambassador, said the other night at a dinner in London that after years of horrible suffering his soul yearned for silent dinners. That time will never come. Even when the Angel Gabriel blows the last trump there will be many banquets in progress and the delighted toastmaster will say: "We have with us this evening the Angel Gabriel, whose beautiful trumpet blast you have just heard. Although not on our list of speakers, I take the liberty of calling upon Gabriel, and I am sure he will oblige with a few humorous stories. After which we will have the end of the world." No, you can't stop banquets.

AND NOW they're going to have flying Pullmans, berths, and everything. And then we'll stop worrying because we can't get the window open. That's one Pullman where they keep their darned old windows shut tight and we'll be glad of it.

"WOMEN'S COLLEGES TODAY," says an educational authority, "need a sense of humor." They do, indeed, but at that they have something nearer an idea of the humorous than the men's colleges. They don't publish comic weeklies.

"TRY TO KEEP THE LINE," writes P. K., who is a Ph. D., "in the space it now occupies next to the editorial column. When it is pushed over further to the right it comes on the crease and it is difficult to fold the paper in a crowded street car so as to read it in comfort." Well, Doc, we'd just love to keep the column where it is, but we only get into that hallowed space when old Jawn McMcCutcheon goes to Treasure Island and Cary Orr moves up to the front page. Something seems to tell us that when Jawn gets through vacationing and comes back and Cary has to hunt his old hole and climb into it, the colyum is to take a hurdle right over Doc Evans and land in its old place. Ah, well, 'tis a world of change!

THE TRUTH ABOUT OGDEN.

Ogden Nash
Accepts hard cash,

About the times,
That always pan,
But never scan.

I think I could
Write just as well;
But his ain't good,
So what the hell!

JOSEPH CARROLL.

AND ANOTHER PROOF that spring is actually right here in our midst. The Doukhobors up in Canada have stripped their clothes off to the buff and are parading around like that. That means spring. When a human can walk around in Canada without any clothes on there's only one answer.

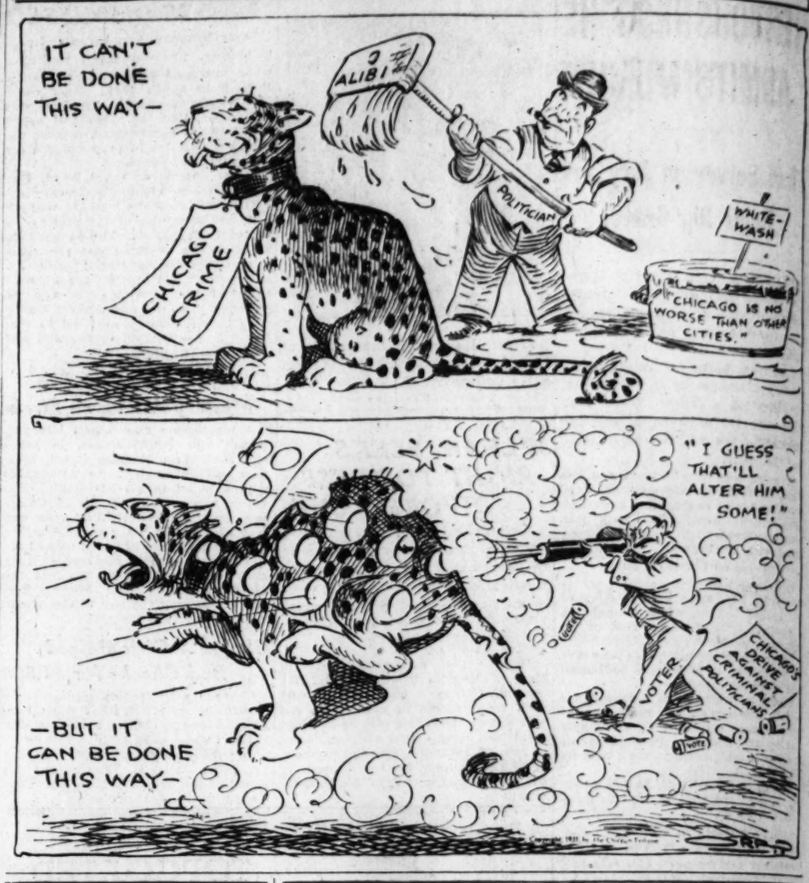
CHANGING THE LEOPARD'S SPOTS



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 26, 1915.

HONOLULU.—Fear is felt that Lieut. Alfred L. Ede and his 25 men on the U. S. submarine F-4 have perished. The undersea boat sank during target practice two miles off Honolulu at 9:15 a. m. It has been located at a depth of 120 fathoms [720 feet].

LONDON.—The official news bureau issued this statement: "The admiralty has good reason to believe that the German submarine U-29 has been sunk with all hands." The report caused great joy in London and [illegible] shipping circles, as the [illegible] of the largest of the German undersea boats and the one which is credited with having caused the greatest damage since the submarine blockade of the British isles was started by the Germans. The statement does not say how or when the submarine was destroyed.

LONDON.—The Russian armies are continuing their sledge hammer attacks all along the great eastern battle front stretching from the Baltic sea to the Rumanian frontier. Petrograd reported an important victory in the Carpathians, where the Austrians, reinforced by German troops, are desperately opposing the attempted invasion of Hungary by the Russians. Bucharest advices say that the Russians have won a great victory at Bukowina. They are believed to have turned the extreme Austrian right and to have succeeded in reaching the Sereth river, thus getting behind the Austrian army operating near Czernowitz.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 26, 1901.

LONDON.—China has appealed to Great Britain to interfere to prevent Russia from securing the necessary signatures to the Manchurian treaty. Neither Great Britain, Germany nor the United States seems inclined to interfere, and the only opposition seems to be on the part of Japan.

BIRMINGHAM.—A tornado swept through the southern part of Birmingham, demolishing half a dozen thriving suburban towns and leaving a trail of dead and injured in its wake. Sixteen bodies have thus far been recovered from the ruins and it is feared that this will be increased to forty or more. Over 100 persons were injured.

WASHINGTON.—Lieut. Gen. Miles returned from a trip to Cuba. Considerable mystery attended the visit and it is now understood that he was intrusted with certain important messages to the Cubans and was instructed to make a special report on the strategic and other governmental interests on the Isle of Pines.

NEW YORK.—After spending nearly twenty hours in the bay, owing to the fog, the Cunard line steamer Etruria arrived at its dock with decks damaged and rails bent as a result of a two days' storm it encountered on one of the most eventful trips of its history.

LONDON.—Charlotte Mary Yonge, the author, died at Otterbourne, Winchester, today. Miss Yonge was born in 1823, and among her first novels were "Abbey Church" and "the Heir of Redclyffe," with which she made her greatest success.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 26, 1881.

CHICAGO.—The near approach of spring and the scarcity of idle men in all branches of labor have a tendency to repress that exuberance which in years gone by was wont to be one of the marked features of the local political campaign. Time is now too precious, there is too urgent a demand for labor of all kinds for people to be standing around on street corners and assisting in booms for the candidates.

NEW YORK.—Maj. S. B. Eaton, vice president of the Edison Electric Light company, said to a TRIBUNE reporter regarding the resolution passed by the aldermen giving the company permission to lay wires throughout the city: "If the resolution becomes a law the company proposes to go to work at once and light the district bounded by Wall, Spruce and Nassau streets, and the east river. The light may be seen at 65 Fifth avenue in a few days. The company will confine itself to the lighting of buildings."

TEACHERS' COUNCILS.

Chicago, March 23.—It may surprise State Senator Thomas J. Courtney, also President Lewis E. Myers of the board of education, but it is nevertheless true that a great many teachers, perhaps the majority, are very earnestly and anxiously opposed to the idea of taking from the children five precious days of school time for the so-called "councils."

We have many reasons, most of which are apparent to persons doing straight honest thinking.

[illegible] attended all the council meetings [illegible] they were in vogue. They were a perfect waste of time. Some teachers alleviated the boredom by bringing fancy work or something to read. There was no inspiring speaker, there was nothing to be learned. Most of the matters discussed were extremely trivial.

But of course that is not the worst feature. The grave injustice lies in taking the time that belongs to the taxpayers and their children.

I do hope and pray that the women's clubs and the professionally minded teachers' and principals' clubs rally to the defense and protection of the children's school time. A TEACHER.

THE AWAKENING.

Cicero, Ill., March 21.—The appearance of birds is not the only sign of spring.

I have three small turtles about the size of a half dollar which refused to eat about the first of September last year. All winter I have offered them food from time to time, but they had not eaten a thing until about the middle of February, when I noticed one day they were quite active. I offered them ant eggs and they began to eat, and have been doing so every day since. They just clamor for food now and watch me with their small, beady eyes as I work about the kitchen. They are very tame, eating from my hand.

I also have two small alligators. They stopped eating last October and have likewise refused food all winter long. However, about two weeks ago one of these little fellows ate for the first time and has eaten on three different occasions since then. Last year they did not start to eat until the first of May.

Both species of water creatures have been very dormant all winter, sleeping most of the time, and only able to open their eyes with difficulty when disturbed. Now the turtles are most lively, the alligators still drowsy, but awake part of the time.

A piece of raw meat dropped in the water with the turtles can cause a good laugh until it's gone, for they fight and claw each other to get at it; and when three little fighters pull three ways on one little piece of meat it's just too bad for the piece of meat. MRS. S. F. W.

THE GREAT HORNBILL.

Chicago, March 23.—Can there not be a larger cage provided for the great hornbill in the bird house at Lincoln park? He has a ground floor cell with no space for his wide wing spread at all. He tries all day to rise in flight and cannot even make an upward hop. There is at least one empty tier of cages which might have the floor between upper and lower cages removed so as to give this great bird a bit more of the freedom it craves.

MRS. WALTER L. CHERRY.

THE NORTHERN SPY.

Chicago, March 21.—Personally I don't like Golden Russet apples, but I have no quarrel with those who do; neither do I yearn to tilt with folks who rhapsodize over tripe, bird's nest soup, persimmons, caviar, limburger, and the like. Everybody has some odd quirk as to things to eat, and mine is Northern Spy apples. The Golden Russet devotees have nothing on me in their passionate search for their favorite breed of apple. Northern Spies just ain't in Chicago. There are whole orchards [illegible] in Michigan, not to mention no[illegible] York and New England, as w[illegible]o, but Chicago fruit dealers [illegible]declared an embargo. If, on [illegible]nd, Michigan orchardists are dead from the neck up when it comes to trying to create a market for this glorious member of the apple family, I suppose there is nothing to do but keep on paying outlandish prices for the pithy trash shipped in from the Pacific coast. APPLEJOE.

PLENTY OF RUSSETS.

Chicago, March 24.—Why all this intense discussion about those wonderful little apples, the Golden Russets? There are not like auks' eggs, and are far from being extinct. I've purchased them in Chicago and picked them from the trees in the suburbs.

No doubt they do grow six miles east of Benton Harbor, and south of it as well. I've seen them growing even in the woods near Chicago, and know from actual experience that they grow in Wisconsin.

True, one does not find them in the big fruit stores, but if one tries the grocery stores he is more likely to be rewarded. I know of two places where they usually can be found right here in Chicago. The Golden Russet is one of those rare apples that taste best after months of seasoning. Now is Golden Russet time, and, believe me, I know my apples.

WILL H. BENNETT.

LEGALIZED GAMBLING.

Chicago, March 21.—As long as the sun shines there shall be gambling. Nevada is to have legalized gambling. Why can't Illinois have the same? Millions of dollars yearly would be given the government in taxes levied on gambling halls instead of to the racketeering gamblers.

There are at present, and will be in the future, more gambling houses in the city of Chicago than there are or will be in Nevada. I would suggest building a Monte Carlo on Chicago's lake front, and those Americans who spend millions yearly on the Riviera could donate their playful money to the government of Illinois. WILLIAM C. VAIL, JR.

BUT LEWIS STILL LIVES.

Chicago, March 21.—The Dreiser-Lewis incident was rather instructive. It demonstrated that two highly sophisticated intellectual individuals could not control their emotions in an emergency. Neither could Kirkland, a high school boy. His emotions were uncontrollable. They were responsible for his crime. Was Kirkland responsible for his emotions? GEORGE EGAN.

ISLAND IN LAKE HELD FEASIBLE; ESTIMATE COST

Excavation for Subway Offers Opportunity.

The proposal to build an island for recreation purposes in Lake Michigan with the half million cubic yards of dirt and stone dumped from the city each year is feasible and the project, from the standpoint of engineering, would be quite simple, J. E. Cahill, assistant division manager of the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company said yesterday.

The practicability of the plan has been questioned because of the depth of the lake at a suitable dictance from the shore, but Mr. Cahill said that the island could be constructed three miles off Devon avenue, where the water is 18 feet deep, or two miles off 55th street, where it is only 8 feet deep, with no more difficulty than was experienced in building the island for the Adler planetarium.

Most of the suggestions for a recreation island, which would afford yachting facilities and a summer hotel, have called for 300 acres, or roughly one mile in length and half a mile wide, said Mr. Cahill.

Gives Estimate of Cost.

"Considering the cost of filling in land, where the water is about 18 feet deep, at $50,000 an acre with a bulkhead or retaining wall on one side, that would run $15,000,000 for the 300 acre project. The bulkhead for the other side of the island, which would be elliptical in form to approach as closely as possible to nature, would cost another million," said Mr. Cahill, who has been an engineer specializing in filling projects for twenty years.

The bulkhead must be as wide as it is deep, and at a depth of 22 feet, which was filled in between Irving Park boulevard and Montrose avenue to form Bittersweet place, it costs $150 a lineal foot, Mr. Cahill explained.

Mr. Cahill said a 300 acre island at 18 feet would require 13,200,000 cubic yards of dirt and stone, and at the rate of half a million yards dumped each year by the city would require 26 years to build. However, 14,000,000 cubic yards is to be excavated for the building of the subway, and this will be dumped into the lake, he said.

Could Build 100 Acres in Year.

The engineer exressed the opinion that a smaller island, of 100 acres or less, would suffice, since an acre of land constitutes [redacted] five square city blocks. [redacted] for the Adler planetarium [redacted]00 an acre and was b[redacted] of water. It is 9 acres in area, making the total cost of perimeter and filler, $3,710,000, Mr. Cahill said.

"I have been filling in land for twenty years, and I see no serious obstacle to the building of an island out in the lake," said Mr. Cahill. "I have no interest in the matter, one way or the other, but as an engineer my opinion is that it can be done. With the use of hydraulic dredging and with sufficient filling material available, an island of, say, 100 acres, could be constructed in a year."

The board of directors of the Jackson Park Hotel association, representing forty large southside hotels which attract thousands of summer visitors, has indorsed the proposal of building an island. The hotel men were of the opinion that such a recreation center would be ideal for excursion trips during the hot weather.

$21,500 FOR LOST LEG TO RELATIVE OF YOUNG HOOVER

San Francisco, Cal., March 25.—(AP)—Sixteen year old Tommy Watson, brother-in-law of Herbert Hoover Jr., son of the President of the United States, hobbled out of Superior court here today with a certified check for $21,500.

"He hobbled because he lost a leg—and with it his football hopes—in a street car accident here last Nov. 12. The check was given by the city in settlement for the injury.

It had been Tommy's ambition to play football some day with Stanford university. He thinks now he'll be an engineer.

BRITISH PRINCES IN RIO; CROWDS YELL, GUNS BOOM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, March 25.—The prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, arrived here today. They were welcomed by Dr. Getulio Vargas, provisional president, members of the cabinet, and other high officials.

Crowds thronged the route from the docks to Guanabara palace, which will be the princes' official residence during their stay in Rio. The prince of Wales rode with Dr. Vargas in the presidential car. He was followed by Prince George, officials of the government, and the diplomatic corps. About 10,000 troops lined the route.

There was a field gun salute and bands played the British and Brazilian national anthems, while the crowd enthusiastically greeted the royal visitors. Shortly after their arrival at Guanabara palace the two princes visited Cattete palace to return President Vargas' compliments.

So Like Orientals that —in everything but price—
it is difficult to tell the difference

Go back ten years . . . fifteen years . . . even farther. The value present in Karastan Rugs of today would not have been possible then. Not until two years ago could American inventive genius create and market the inimitable Karastan . . . at a price within reach of thousands of homes.

More beautiful than ever . . . Karastan has reproduced every good quality of fine Oriental rugs—glorious sheen . . . deep nap, smooth as velvet . . . every detail of the original pattern and color . . . pattern woven through to the back . . . actual copy of the weave used in making Orientals . . . plus economy.

So startling is the comparison of Karastan to the original which it reproduces that we have in the Karastan Gallery

2 Genuine Orientals and 2 Karastans Laid Side by Side

Make the test yourself . . . can you tell for sure which are the Orientals and which are the Karastans? Perhaps you can, but many an expert has been baffled, so accurate is the reproduction. At any rate you cannot but be impressed with the beauty of the Karastan, truly the wonder rug of America.

This is the most comprehensive collection of its kind in the Middle West if not in the world, for nowhere else to our knowledge is there a showing of American made rugs equal to it.

Karastans in Prominent Museum

So noteworthy is the accomplishment of the Karastan Weavers that three Karastans have been placed in the Brooklyn museum, as the highest expression of the difficult art of rug weaving in America. Such rugs you may have in your own home—at a cost so moderate.

Little Lips must be protected

Little bodies, little heads and hands and feet are carefully protected from wind and cold, but little lips—the most thinly skinned of all—are forgotten. Nature left off the granular layer from the skin of the lips—only the most gossamer-like membrane covers the tissues. Exposure to cold, wind, heat or light quickly dries it to the breaking point—painful, chapped or cracked lips result and open spots are danger spots of infection.

Spread a thin film of the Roger & Gallet Lip Pomade on the lips—adults as well as children—and keep them whole and healthy. Pure, bland, colorless, pleasant to taste—it is safe enough to eat. Physicians order it for chapped or fevered lips, or during sun-ray treatment. In convenient stick form—for 25 cents. Get one today.

TAMMANY HALL TO CLEAN HOUSE, IT NOW APPEARS

Inquiries to Be Fought with Inquiries.

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—Tammany Hall, preparing to fight the citywide legislative investigation, disclosed its plan of strategy today. There was evidence that the investigation will be fought with investigations, and with housecleanings in the various city departments.

The basis of the reform from the inside is a comprehensive report on all branches of municipal affairs compiled by Commissioner of Accounts James A. Higgins after an investigation that began early last fall. The report will be waiting on Mayor James J. Walker's table when he gets back next week from his California vacation.

His arrival will be the signal for the dust to fly, upstairs and down, in the whole Tammany household. What is left for the Republican controlled legislative commission to sweep out will be little indeed, if Tammany goes through with the housecleaning that seemed promised today.

Mayor to Get Report.

Tammany leaders, apparently resigned to making sacrifices to the popular demand for reform, said definitely—although not for quotation by name—that when Commissioner Higgins' report is laid before the mayor the whole personnel of certain departments may be threatened and that many holders of choice and lucrative positions may find themselves suddenly divorced from the pay roll.

Resignations have already started, and in most political circles they are laid directly to the Higgins investigation. Charles Brady, superintendent of buildings, resigned suddenly and at the same time it was revealed that Rollin C. Bastress, chief building inspector, had left the department a week ago without any announcement of it being made.

Long Under Investigation.

The bureau of buildings has been under investigation by Mr. Higgins for several weeks.

The view that Brady and Bastress are only the first of many officeholders who will be rooted out by Tammany before a legislative commission under Samuel Seabury has a chance to do it was widely discussed today.

Should there be a wide shakeup those close to the administration believe that it would loosen the foundation upon which any investigation from outside sources would rest and would be accepted by the public as proof that the city administration, as officially constituted, is determined to clean up on its own responsibility.

Probation System Scanned.

The Seabury vice investigation today turned toward a searching examination of the probation system in the Magistrates' courts, with particular references to Women's courts.

While preparations for a public hearing on the matter was in progress at the Seabury headquarters, Robert E. Murray, vice squad patrolman charged with perjury, was a free man following his acquittal early this morning. The jury deliberated six hours and cast twelve ballots.

The first open hearing in the investigation of District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain will come next week, it was reliably understood. Mr. Crain today denied revived rumors that he planned to resign.

ITALY SEIZES TWO IN PLOT TO KILL DUCE WITH BOMB

ROME, March 25.—(AP)—Two more arrests in connection with plots against the life of Premier Mussolini were announced today by Italian secret police. Authorities said the men arrested were members of a bombing gang headed by Michele Schirru, a naturalized American citizen, who was arrested on Feb. 3 and is awaiting trial.

Police did not disclose what preparations had been made in the conspiracy against the premier by the two newly arrested men, Ersilio Belloni and Luigo Delfini. It was said, however, they planned the execution of criminal acts. They were taken into custody March 4.

Considerable secrecy is being maintained about the plot in order not to hamper police in their search for additional members of the gang, including two who are said to be operating outside of Italy. Authorities said Belloni and Delfini returned to the country from Switzerland after the arrest of Schirru.

REJECT TESTIMONY OF ATHEIST; WOMAN FREED OF SLAYING

Birmingham, Ala., March 25.—[Special.]—Testimony of an atheist, even though that testimony be in the form of a dying declaration, is not admissible in evidence in any court in Alabama where an oath is required, the Alabama Court of Appeals held Wednesday in reversing the decision of a lower court. A jury in Jefferson county court had sentenced Laura Wright to 17 years in the penitentiary on conviction of slaying her husband.

The Appeals court held that one question of merit presented by the record in the case was the admission in evidence of the dying declaration of the deceased—the usual predicate of impending doom being laid. Undisputed testimony, however, showed that the deceased "did not believe in God, did not believe in a Supreme Being, did not believe there was a place to reward the faithful or punish the wicked."

Opinion of the Court of Appeals in reversing the case contains the following in part:

"Without a belief in a Supreme Being there can be no legal oath, and without a legal oath a witness is not competent to testify in the courts of Alabama. The whole faith of the nation is founded on belief in a Supreme Being, a belief that there is a rewarder of truth and an avenger of falsehood, would render a dying statement of much value. But there is no place in the government structure for the belief that the grave ends all and that man returns to rocks and clods, placing him on a level with the beasts of the field."

ITCHING POWDER ROUTS BASKING NUDE CULTISTS

NELSON, B. C., March 25.—(AP)—Itch powder has come to vex the Doukhobors. Seven Doukhobor women sat sunning themselves on a fence near Thrum. Spring had come, and the sunning was thorough, for the Doukhobors, a religious sect, are champions of the nude.

Police, reporting the matter today, said the women were near the highway and railway. Officers told the Doukhobors to seek shelter and put on some clothes. The law met resistance, whereupon the constables unlimbered a unique contraption and sprayed the women with itch powder. Several male Doukhobors stood by. One of them turned a garden hose on the police and the women.

"Finally," continued the police report, "after much dusting of itch powder and by force, the women were sent into their homes." The Doukhobors have been wearing clothes during the winter, but lately, with the sun arcing north, have been reported at work in their gardens naked.

Today's Awards in the Chicago Tribune's TRUE WANT AD EXPERIENCE OFFER

Irene Runnos, 1753 N. Kedzie Ave., Chicago, Ill.—"I have been in the city only a few months but have learned to know the value of a Tribune Want Ad. I am a young girl who came to Chicago from the country to look for a position, which I found two weeks after arriving here through an ad placed in the Chicago Tribune. The people with whom I am living are very kind to me and I feel that I have gained a friend as well as a situation."

Mrs. Edythe W. Anderson, 2451 East 78th St., Chicago, Ill.—"A short while ago, being strangers, we lacked helpful friends and a knowledge of Chicago. For our baby's welfare especially, we were anxious to settle in a desirable apartment. Our limitations were pronounced. Having active hip disease, I walk little as it causes more pain. Being financially floored owing to medical expenses and business depression, an automobile is out of our vocabulary. What to do? We wanted wide choice, the best available at reasonable rent, the desired Loop transportation, a decent location, and modern conveniences to lessen housework, which is none too easy for me. And, to us, it seems important to be near the lake as we are accustomed to an ocean outlook and nearness to the water is a touch of home. Learning that the Tribune is the advertising medium of Chicago, we carefully perused each ad, selected some which appealed to us, made telephone inquiries to a few, and arranged to inspect one which sounded ideal. We immediately engaged it, the first one we had seen!"

Mrs. Martha S. Fornberg, 1007 5th St., Mendota, Ill.—"My Tribune Want Ad experience was more than gratifying and highly successful at little expense. I was obliged, through the protracted illness of my husband, to sell out a big dry goods business in Mendota, Ill. I inserted in the Chicago Tribune an advertisement, by mail, at the exceedingly low cost of $4.20. Through your wonderful service in arranging the advertisement, within three days I received eleven replies. My business relations with the party who finally made the purchase were more than gratifying, and the transaction gave me the opportunity and enabled me to cheerfully step out with a clean slate, and new plans for the future. The Tribune thus helped me out of a dilemma that appeared as insurmountable. To the Tribune Want Ads all credit is due. I can never repay you."

Mrs. I. C. E., 1739 E. 67th St., Chicago, Ill.—"Will dispose of my neatly furnished three room apartment. Everything included. Excellent buy at $150." The above ad was run in the Chicago Tribune on Sunday, Feb. 15, this newspaper being chosen because of its large circulation, and because of its reputation for getting results. By Sunday evening I had received twelve responses and by Monday evening eight additional, making a total of twenty calls in response to one insertion. By Tuesday the furniture was sold with only $3.60 expense to me. This experience has truly proven it pays to advertise in the Chicago Tribune."

Harry Polus, 5607 W. 63rd St., Chicago, Ill.—"In looking over the Tribune want ads on Feb. 1st, under Barter & Exchange I came across an ad that I had been looking for for some time. It was a 1925 Olds mobile touring in exchange for electric radio. As I had an electric radio, I called to find out the details. I gave the party the details of my radio and he came out with his car and gave me a demonstration. We came to a satisfactory deal and I got a car that has given me a world of good service."

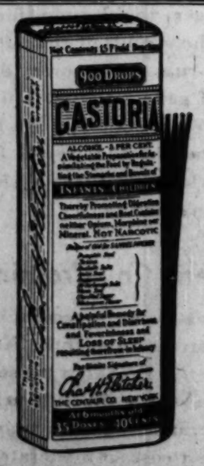
Can't PLAY Can't REST.

—child needs Castoria

WHEN a child is fretful and irritable, seems distressed and uncomfortable, can't play, can't sleep, it is a pretty sure sign that something is wrong. Right here is where Castoria fits into a child's scheme—the very purpose for which it was formulated years ago! A few drops and the condition which caused the trouble is righted; comfort quickly brings restful sleep.

Nothing can take the place of Castoria for children; it's perfectly harmless, yet always effective. For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an every-day aid. Its gentle action will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. In more liberal doses it will effectively help to regulate sluggish bowels in an older child.



All druggists have Castoria: it's genuine if you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature and this name-plate:

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

...and the greatest of these is ADEQUACY

There are two primary essentials in every great advertising success.

Many an otherwise fine campaign falls short of its full possibility because it is crippled in mid-career by lack of volume.

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST holds no brief for extravagant advertising — indeed, its best interests are all on the other side.

But years of associated service with the most successful advertisers in America have taught some lessons too plain to be ignored.

In the creation of an invulnerable franchise with the public, of an unassailable prestige with the trade, of an unwavering preference with the buyer, Advertising needs Appeal, Acumen, Adequacy.

And the greatest of these is Adequacy!

BERLIN REFUSES TO LET POWERS DECIDE ON PACT

Insists Customs Union Is Not Political.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 25.—Sir Horace Rumbold, British ambassador, called on Chancellor Bruening today and asked if Germany and Austria would postpone the final agreement in their proposed customs pact until the subject had been discussed at the league of nations' meeting in May with the powers which agreed to the Geneva convention in October, 1922, under which Austria pledged not to compromise her independence.

SIR HORACE RUMBOLD.
[P. & A. Photo.]

Chancellor Bruening replied that the Austro-German pact would not conflict with the Geneva convention and that there was no legal reason to justify any discussion in the political forum of the league of nations, since the agreement was purely economic and not political.

Discussions Require Two Months.

"Both powers need not fear an investigation, since all legal precautions have been taken," Chancellor Bruening said.

The chancellor said, however, that discussion of the details of the pact would take at least two or three months, and that Austria and Germany expect that the agreement will be perfected late in June or early in July.

Tonight a semi-official communique stressed the point that "Germany and Austria will refuse to postpone discussion of details of the proposed customs pact until after the meeting of the council of the league of nations in May, since this is purely an economic matter and not a political one."

Protests to Austria.

VIENNA, March 25.—(AP)—Sir Eric Phipps, British minister to Austria, today joined the ranks of diplomats protesting the contemplated trade and customs union between Germany and Austria.

He told Austria's foreign minister the proposal had created an unfavorable impression on Foreign Secretary Henderson of Great Britain and had given rise to misgivings in his country.

French Anger Sidetracked.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 25.—The French indignation at the projected Austro-German customs union has been gently sidetracked by clever British diplomacy. Foreign Secretary Henderson has persuaded his French colleague that the wisest thing to do would be to refer the project to the council of the league of nations next May. Foreign Minister Briand announced tonight that France would associate herself with Britain in requesting Germany and Austria to take such action.

It becomes increasingly clear that the matter is purely a legal question with regard to Austria's promises in the treaty of 1922, and likely to be eventually decided by the world court at The Hague. In other words, France's violent protest has been shelved and the buck passed to the league of nations. The upshot is that Austria and Germany will likely carry out their plan unhindered, since the league or world court is not believed to be likely to find any legal flaws in the document.

U. S. Considers Protest.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—The possible effect that the new Austro-German customs union may have upon trade relations between the United States and Germany and Austria occupied the attention of Secretary of State Stimson and other American officials today. The possibility exists, it was learned, that this country may demand unconditional most favored nation treatment from Germany under the 1924 German-American commercial treaty. Refusal of Germany to grant such treatment to this country, involving, as it would, the free entry of American imports, would probably be followed by an American protest.

EMPTY BOTTLES LEAD TO MARYLAND RAID ON SCHOOL REVELERS

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—Empty liquor bottles in the back yard and the noise made by youthful merrymakers, which led to a police raid on the home of 16 year old Michael Sullivan in Cheverly manor yesterday, gave promise late today of bringing about an extensive investigation into school conditions by Maryland state, civic, and school officials.

The Sullivan home was raided by a police sergeant and the principal of the Bladensburg High school, in which the merrymakers were students. Seven boys and girls, ranging in age from 16 to 19, were arrested and taken to the office of Justice of the Peace Rhetta D. Morris, for questioning.

While the information which they gave Justice Morris has not been made public, the raid disclosed that parties had been going on for months in the Sullivan home. Young Sullivan's father, a widower, is not at home during the day and the youngsters took advantage of that fact.

One youth who had received several invitations to the Sullivan home is reported to have said that "there were forty there last Saturday and they had been going there for the last four months."

$1,000,000 Fire Sweeps This New York Village

Granville, N. Y., March 25.—(AP)—Fire swept the business section of this village today, causing a loss estimated between $500,000 and $1,000,000. Ten buildings were destroyed, eight others badly damaged, and at least forty persons were driven from their homes.

$200,000 Ohio Fire.

Springfield, O., March 25.—(AP)—Downtown Springfield today bore the scars of a fire which raged through seven business houses, for a time threatened the whole business district, and caused damage estimated at $200,000.

REPORT TODAY ON WILD PARTIES AT INDIANA U.

Nebraska Ousts Students in Beer Scandal.

Bloomington, Ind., March 25.—[Special.]—Inquisition of Indiana university students regarding stories of drinking and petting orgies at recent fraternity dances continued today and results will be placed before the faculty student affairs committee at a special meeting tomorrow. Two co-eds have been expelled within the last week.

Students known to have attended the dances in question are being asked to fill out blanks which include queries about any drinking observed and whether co-eds were seen in the upstairs rooms of men students.

Makes Frank Admissions.

According to unofficial word, one co-ed has admitted she saw drinking and girls upstairs. She is said to be an underclassman who enrolled only this semester on a transfer from another Hoosier college.

To the question, "Were you upstairs?" she is supposed to have answered, "Yes." This is said to have stunned the dean of women, and when she recalled the co-ed the girl said: "Why not? There were lots of girls upstairs."

University authorities denied today that they have asked for federal prohibition agents to watch the junior prom April 10.

Suspend Students in Beer Scandal.

Lincoln, Neb., March 25.—(AP)—The suspension from the University of Nebraska of "several young men discovered in an apartment in which it was apparent liquor was being manufactured" was announced today by Dr. T. J. Thompson, dean of men.

The dean's statement mentioned no names, but among the students at his office today were six already mentioned in connection with a police raid Saturday on a "beer flat" across the street from the campus. They include Steve Hokuf, prominent athlete.

Following the conference with the dean Hokuf admitted he had been suspended from school, but declared he planned to reenter next fall.

HOUSE VOTES ATTY. GENERAL $854,000 FUND

Appropriation Is Passed After Wrangle.

Springfield, Ill., March 25.—[Special.]—Wrangling over the $854,800 appropriation to operate the attorney general's office during the next biennium, the house of representatives today heard the charge that there are men on the prosecutor's pay roll "doing nothing." Representative Sol Handy [Dem., Marshall] made the remark.

"Who are they?" demanded Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago]. "We have a right to know that."

"I can name them down my way," Handy answered, "but I won't."

Repeated requests from Schnackenberg and other members failed to bring any personalities into the debate.

The appropriation exceeds by $50,400 the budget allowed the attorney general last session. The increased work of the inheritance tax attorney is given as one of the reasons for the increase and this precipitated the discussion this morning.

Wasteful, Is One View.

It is the opinion of some of the members that the work of inheritance tax investigators overlaps similar work performed in the state treasurer's office and that by appropriating for both offices, some duplication of work might result.

Handy made his charge, the debate ensued, and when a vote was called for, twelve representatives, both Republicans and Democrats, opposed the appropriation, but it was granted by the affirmative majority.

Bills introduced in the house today included one sponsored by Representative Sol P. Roderick [Rep., Chicago], which would prevent any political party or candidate from paying poll watchers, workers or vote checkers at any election. The bill would exempt employés in campaign headquarters. A violation of the provisions would become a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of from $250 to $1,000 and imprisonment for six months.

Another Joliet Bill.

Another bill which is expected to meet opposition was introduced by Representative Homer J. Tice [Rep., Greenview]. This provides for the removal of all women prisoners from the Joliet penitentiary to the woman's reformatory at Dwight.

A resolution sponsored by Mr. Schnackenberg and passed, calls for the appointment of six assemblymen, who together with the state treasurer, the auditor of public accounts, and the director of finance, would investigate the financial condition of the state to determine if the exigencies now current will recur again within the biennium. Another offered by Representative Benjamin Adamowski [Dem., Chicago] calls for an investigation of the state banking system. A resolution similar to it has already reached the house and is now in committee.

SPANISH AIRMAN KILLED.

MADRID, March 25.—(AP)—Flight Lieutenant Emilio Esparsa was killed today while testing a plane at the Cuatre Vientos airdrome. The motor dropped from the plane suddenly and Esparsa was not able to use his parachute.

HALF BILLION IN LOANS ASKED BY 1,571,291 VETS

Believe Peak in Number of Requests Passed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—Applications for veterans' bonus loans aggregating more than half a billion dollars have been received at the veterans' bureau, it was announced today. According to figures made available by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, 1,571,291 applications for loans on their adjusted compensation certificates have been filed up to date by world war soldiers.

501,203 Checks Mailed.

Thus far, 501,203 checks, calling for a total payment of 189 millions, have been mailed to veterans. As the average check has a value of $377, officials estimated that the million and a half applications approved would involve the payment to veterans of 602 million dollars.

Veterans' bureau officials expressed the opinion that the peak in the number of applications had passed. Some falling off in the number of applications already has been noted. The total to be paid out under the law permitting veterans to borrow up to 50 per cent of the face value of their certificates may reach a billion dollars.

Action on Loans Speedy.

Brig. Gen. Hines stated today that the machinery for handling applications and granting loans is steadily improving, and that present indications are that the task of acting upon the tremendous volume of applications will have been completed in a much shorter time than six months, which Gen. Hines originally estimated would be necessary.

The number of loans made this week, according to Gen. Hines, was 40,000 more than made the previous week and more than double those made during the first week succeeding the enactment of the new loan legislation.

WINS national economy championship!

Free Wheeling President Eight sets new A.A.A. record for gasoline economy in famous Pacific Coast contest. Free Wheeling Studebaker Six wins second honors.

ANOTHER triumph for Free Wheeling . . . only two Free Wheeling Studebakers were entered in the third annual Gilmore-Wrightwood economy run—and they won first and second place . . . in competition with 40 other cars of 20 makes from the very cheapest to the most costly.

While this run proved officially only the economy of Free Wheeling, it demonstrated conclusively the simplicity of Free Wheeling as well, since all drivers were women.

Mrs. William Hurter, in a Free Wheeling President carrying five passengers, took first place with an American Automobile Association record of 46.71 ton miles per gallon of gasoline. Her car averaged better than 17½ speedometer miles per gallon over the 200 mile route which extended continuously upward from sea level to 6000 feet elevation.

Mrs. Jeanne Frost, in a Free Wheeling Studebaker Six, won second honors. Her car averaged over 23½ speedometer miles per gallon of gasoline but, because of its lighter weight, its ton mile average was 44.94. The Studebaker Six used less gasoline than any other sedan on the run. Neither car required the addition of oil or water.

Free Wheeling not only saves gasoline and oil but chassis wear and repairs. It makes momentum take the place of gasoline—it gives you 10 speedometer miles for 8 engine miles.

With Free Wheeling, you shift back and forth between high and second at any speed without touching the clutch. You get the greatest driving thrill and driving safety in motoring. Highway commissioners and safety directors, after driving Free Wheeling Studebakers, have pronounced Free Wheeling with positive gear control a new measure of safety to driver and public.

This same Free Wheeling has been adopted by Pierce-Arrow and Lincoln. Decide now, that you will choose no new car of the old order until you first go Free Wheeling in a Studebaker President, Commander or Dictator Eight, or brilliant new low-priced Studebaker Six. See a Studebaker dealer today and arrange for a trial drive.

All Studebaker cars now have Free Wheeling. The Studebaker Six ($795 to $995), The Dictator Eight ($1095 to $1250), The Commander Eight ($1585 to $1736), The President Eight ($1850 to $2600). Prices at the factory.

A Pre-view by Fanny Butcher

"JUAN IN AMERICA" by Eric Linklater [Cape Smith] is a double edged sword of amusement. With one edge it carves a mean and snappy satire, with the other it whacks out a tale of adventure burbling with thrills. Both edges are beautifully competent in their cutting. The book is warranted to amuse almost anybody. It is a long book that scratches off the hours so rapidly — to leap from the sword to the pen in our metaphors — that its bulk is a blessing. You have a feeling that whatever Juan does is going to be amusing and it's too bad that his adventures were nipped off in their bud, as it were, on page 466.

ERIC LINKLATER.

Juan is the son of an old English house, pale American, and is sent to the land of his forbears by a disgusted ma who thinks a little knowledge of America can't hurt him. He is the sort of young man that things happen to. He has an engaging sense of humor and a profile and, until he goes there, good English clothes. Such not go far. Juan often went a little so far, perhaps, but never without elevation. His adventures are a disarmed mixture of the indiscreet and the picaresque, except that Juan is never an out and out rogue. He is rather an engaging soul who generates his own power. He does almost everything and sees almost everything America offers in the way of excitement, night life in New York, a gang battle in Chicago, college life in a coed university, hoboing, life in a sandwich bar [as he calls it], bootlegging, soda jerking, cheap vaudeville singing, a presidential inauguration, dining among the senators, a flood in the south, the island fortress of a great king of the Chicago underworld, echoes of the old south in Charleston, and the paranoia of Hollywood, with assorted side trips.

Everything that Juan touches turns to the gold of adventure. The most incredible things happen to him, but being Juan they are merely the natural consequences of his nature. His story is a thriller of the first order.

It is not only the story which is of the first order, but the intervals of action which dress it up like a beautiful loaf about to emerge from the sacred precincts of the Bœuf à la Mode. The story is interlarded with much satire on the American scene, as good as any I remember, and, since it is not down as part of a volume of fiction, perhaps a little keener, a little more honest than the usual English visitor's picture of the noble American republic. It is satire which sticks its thumb in the American paunch and has a good laugh with, not at, the startled recipient of the unexpected jab. There is no doubt in the reader's mind when he finishes "Juan in America" just what at least one Englishman thinks about our native land and quaint native customs. But instead of wanting to dip the gentleman into a capacious vat of boiling oil, as is often the reaction to too loquacious travelers' descriptions of us, we want to know more, and envy the author his first impressions of America, just as when entering New York harbor one always envies those people at the rail who are seeing that tremendous picture for the first time.

Mr. Linklater has miraculously retained those first impressions—or at least them down in a note book while they still were vivid to him—and his book has all of the freshness and vigor of satirical passages of the impact of a keen mind with something brand new and terrifically interesting to it.

Naturally his preconceived notions helped him to see a good deal in America [through the eyes of his author] which is exaggerated, but what is vastly important is that he DID look upon America with a seeing eye and that under the guise of a good piece of foolery he shows us our native land as it lives in the eyes of a visitor.

The book is written with a real felicity of phrase as well as thought and great charm. The characters, most of them, live so vividly that you remember them as individuals: Idadore Glass, for instance, who played in a dance orchestra and thought everything in America was dull because you had to do the same things over and over, the two extras in Hollywood who lied and acted and talked so well alike that Juan got himself engaged to both of them without knowing it, the proprietor of the sandwich shop who appears for a page or two and who was having a spring interlude with the chargirl in a cheap rooming house, the titanic Olympia who did a turn on the trapeze while the prima donna arias from grand opera and who loved Juan literally almost to death, the columnist who flung out of a job and in repentance because he thought he was going blind from bad liquor when the lights went out, the movie queen who insisted upon being called her highness and talked, when drunk, like a gutter girl, the daughter of the king of the underworld who pretended to be a child of seven and was a college girl intent on her hand gathering of material for her inside novel. Every one in the book is just enough off an actual model to be realer than a photograph and a skillful caricature which has cut reality.

The author, like the hero of his book, spent two years in America on a traveling fellowship, and he certainly capitalized on it from the Canadian border to the Panama canal. He is twenty years old and was born in the year he pours old and was born in the Orkneys. He made side trips to the Arctic, was severely wounded as a member of the Black Watch—to Aberdeen university, to India, to Persia, to South Russia, from which he almost never emerged.

"Juan in America" was the choice of the Book society in England for

By Mae Tinée.

Hail!

Wouldst delight thine old eyes with ye unique spectacle of Mr. Will Rogers in a plumed hat and ruffles on his panties? Speed ye over to McVicker's theater, where for a ridiculously low price the sight may be yours.

Together with other visions of like and even more peculiar nature! For Mark Twain's delectably humorous story of the Yankee who got whacked on the head and awoke to find himself in the kingdom of King Arthur of England in the year 528 A. D., fearsomely hailed as a dangerous magician, and confronted by dilemmas innumerable, has found its way to the talkies. And if it is not a richly entertaining screen concoction—then I laugh in the wrong place, that's all!

As a comedy team it seems to me that Mark Twain and Will Rogers take the cake. Could the late author have picked the man to play his Yankee, Mr. Rogers, I bet you, would have been his choice. Certainly the Perpetual Democrat gets the spirit as well as the meaning of the droll yarn with its uproarious situations and inimitable lines.

The Twain story has been brought up to date. So we find the hero a radio announcer instead of superintendent of an arms factory, and his interesting coma is the result of a different sort of whack than the one originally delivered to him. After the first reel or so, though, the movie sticks fairly closely to the prototype.

Hank is the name of the hero, and when he wakes up in King Arthur's court it looks as if he isn't going to be there long. His successful manipulation of a cigaret lighter causes him to be regarded with the darkest suspicion as a spirit of darkness, and, upon advice of his counselor, Merlin, the king orders this strange visitor who bears "the shape of a man" to be burned at the stake.

But Hank's mind is working overtime. He recalls from an almanac of his own day that there was an eclipse of the sun at high noon of the 21st of June, 528 A. D., at the time now set for his incineration. So to the king the Yankee sends word that if the fire takes place, lo, he, Hank, will blot out the sun and throw Camelot into darkness.

That scares the king pretty much. "Burn him at once!" says Merlin.

Which strikest Arthur as being a smart idea. Accordingly the execution is set for noon of the selfsame day. It looks dark for Hank, and Clarence, the youth who is to be burned with him for having dared to love the king's daughter. BUT—there has been a little mistake as to dates. "Today, not tomorrow, is the 21st!" whispers a gentleman busied with arranging the kindling about the feet of the unfortunates.

You can guess what happens.

The king begs Hank to be allowed to knight this wizard who can turn to knight this wizard who can turn Old Sol off and on at will. Says Hank: "I'm like Mussolini. I don't care for any title. I only want to be the boss."

And so he becomes Sir Boss.

Into this medieval kingdom he introduces the telephone, private secretaries, modern slang, newspapers, gum, automobiles, hot dogs and program venders at jousts calling that "Ye cannot know ye knight without ye program!" He gets all mixed up in the king's feud with his beauteous designing sister in the realm next to Camelot and plays cunning Cupid in the romantic real life play of which the king's daughter is the star, Clarence the leading man and the king's sister the villainess.

The film ends in Connecticut, where it began.

"A Connecticut Yankee" is gemmed with moments you'll remember. There is just one touch of technicolor—that demonstrates a touch of directorial genius. It is seen in the hot blush that mantles the Rogers cheek when for reasons the picture will show you he condescends to make violent love to a lady who is panting for his affections.

No use going into detail as to acting, photography, costumes sets and the rest of it. "A Connecticut Yankee" is, from every standpoint, the goods AND the berries. It furnishes the sort of long laugh that cures what's ailing you.

Item: Yes, scholars, this story was filmed as a "silent" with Harry Myers in the lead.

See you tomorrow!

Though not a holy day of obligation it attracted, as in former years, large throngs of the faithful, and even many non-Catholics.

Lent Day by Day

SIGNS OF GOD TODAY.

Dr. Ernest F. Tittle
Pastor First Methodist Episcopal church, Evanston.

(Extract from a noonday Lenten sermon delivered yesterday at the Chicago temple.)

There are heartening signs today which point at once to the activity of God in the lives of men and of an approaching realization by men of the realities and presence of God.

What are these signs?

A growing dissatisfaction with ugliness.

An increasing protest against the whole war system, military, political and economic.

An increasing demand for justice.

A spreading conviction that world-wide unemployment calls not only for charity, but for an honest, courageous examination of the causes of periodic depression and a determination to remove them.

A growing desire to build on this temporary stage, which we call the world, a lovelier, happier, more enduring civilization than mankind has ever known, and an increasing faith that it can be done and in the doing of it all sorts and conditions of men will find their chiefest joy.

Doctors Tell Latest Things About Vitamins

Also Report on Light as Remedial Agent.

Baltimore, Md., March 25.—(AP)—A new field for study of the common cold may be opened through further tests of effects of vitamin A on the human body, the American College of Physicians was told today.

Dr. E. V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins university school of hygiene said persons not receiving sufficient vitamin A in their diet have discharges from the nose and sinus passages similar to the discharges in the latter stages of the common cold.

Vitamin A is found in egg yolk, milk, cod liver oil, and vegetables, such as lettuce. Although it is not yet known whether lack of vitamin A in the diet renders a person more likely to "take cold," investigators should study the possible effect of vitamin A in this connection, however, Dr. McCollum said.

If vitamin A should be found to have any effect on colds, it would be only as a preventive and not as a cure after colds were started.

Pyorrhea and tooth troubles associated with it may have the same cause as scurvy, a disease due to lack of vitamin C, and occurring from insufficient fruits and vegetables in the diet.

How the four other known vitamins aid in maintaining human health was outlined by Dr. McCollum. Vitamin B, found in root crops, greens, fruit, and yeasts, prevents beri-beri. Rickets, a disease of young children, is due to lack of vitamin D, which is present in cod liver oil. Vitamin G, supplied by milk, lean meat, eggs, and vegetables, prevents pellagra. Vitamin E, occurring in white wheat and lean meat, seems to be essential to reproduction among rates.

Treatment of epilepsy in children by removing most of the fluids from their diet was described by Dr. E. M. Bridge of the Johns Hopkins hospital. Epilepsy is believed due to a disturbed condition of the fluids of the body. When children were kept on a diet with a minimum of fluids for nine months a year epileptic seizures almost disappeared, he said.

Dr. Alexius M. Forster of Colorado Springs, Colo., told how natural sunlight treatment had caused great improvement in apparently hopeless cases of tuberculosis of the bones, larynx, and kidneys.

Three hundred and sixty-seven physicians from all parts of the United States were inducted as fellows of the American College of Physicians with formal ceremonies at the convocation of the college tonight.

Fellowship is conferred on physicians who have done distinguished work in research or teaching in the field of internal medicine.

Three hundred and sixty-seven doctors were made fellows of the American College of Physicians. Among them are: Orville Barbour, Peoria, Ill.; Frank Herbert Bartlett Jr., Muskegon, Mich.; Theodore Irving Bauer, Lansing, Mich.; Richard Hugh McDowell Bayley, Lafayette, Ind.; Clarence Henry Boswell, Rockford, Ill.; Frederick Olaf Frederickson, Chicago; Theophil James Holke, Freeport, Ill.; William Eugene Kendall, Oak Park, Ill.; Earl Donovan Skeen, Gary, Ind.; Edward Julius Stieglitz, Frederick Olaf Frederickson, and Willard Owen Thompson, Chicago.

BELGIAN ROYALTY, AT MOVIE, HAS LAUGHTER, TEARS FOR CHAPLIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 25.—With Queen Elizabeth wiping the tears from her eyes as Charlie, the bum, gets the blind girl at last, and King Albert slapping his knees and roaring with unmajestic laughter at the extraordinary boxing match, Charlie Chaplin tonight scored the biggest triumph that Hollywood has ever had in this kingdom.

Just one flaw marred the gala first night of "City Lights"—namely: the absence of Charlie, who ignored his scheduled Brussels visit. He went boar hunting yesterday with the duke of Westminster in the northern part of France.

Ambassador and Mrs. Hugh Gibson and the entire embassy staff sat near the royal box. They received some of the attention which would have been Charlie's.

While Charlie Has Sympathy for Bold Hunter of Boars.

PARIS, March 25.—(AP)—Stiff and sore from a boar hunt on horseback, Charles Chaplin said today he had cancelled his trip to Aintree to watch the running of the Grand National.

"I feel that the mere sight of the horses going over the jumps will hurt every bone in my body," he said.

He spent another two hours session with a masseur and retired to his hotel to pass the quietest day of his stay in Paris. He vowed he would go to bed early tonight.

The comedian was the guest of the Duke and Duchess of Westminster in a hunt yesterday on their estate near Saint Saenz.

Daughter of R. C. Dawes to Lead Vassar Daisy Chain

Miss Helen Buckner Dawes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes of 1800 Sheridan road, Evanston, president of the sophomore class of Vassar college, has been selected to lead the historic daisy chain June 8 in connection with commencement week exercises.

The chain is a picturesque institution at Vassar, and is celebrated the day before graduation. Tradition has it that those selected for the event are the best looking and most typical of Vassar students.

All told twenty-eight sophomores have been named for the daisy chain. The selections are made by the senior class. Among the twenty-eight, beside Miss Dawes, is Virginia Hanson of 2150 Lincoln Park West.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"STEPPING SISTERS," now lodged at the Blackstone theater to fill in the dull spot on the calendar before Easter Sunday, is a buxom and boisterous piece of whoopee. It must be called a comedy, but it contains almost as many songs as a revue. For instance, it gives that buoyant veterans, Blanche Ring [who was an expert at "making whoopee" before the phrase itself was invented] a chance to sing "Yip-E-ye-Addy-Eye-Ay." And also "Rings on My Fingers."

This is a play for a trio of vigorous low comediennes. From the characters they represent they might be called the Three Disgraces. In the story they are, as you have doubtless heard, old time amazons of the burlesque show chorus, reassembled by chance in a Long Island home and given every opportunity to take down their hair, in a manner of speaking, and hold a rowdy reunion of the Daughters of the Spear and Tights.

These rôles are acted with gusto and undaunted emphasis by the aforesaid Miss Ring, Helen Raymond, and Grace Huff, each an expert in the art of whooping it up. Miss Ring is the mildest member of the eccentric sorority, but how the good old days come back when she sits down at the piano and chants the lyric war cries of her jovial past!

Miss Raymond represents a burlesquer who has gone up the ladder to Shakespeare and a hoity-toity British accent. When the party gets hot she obliges with a travesty on the mad scene from "King Lear." She also contributes a wild eyed study of the effects of a quart of whisky on the manners of a tragedienne. In the broad burlesquing of haughty dames she is better than the female impersonators, of whom, now and then, she reminds you.

Miss Huff appears as the only one of the three who had remained true to her profession. She is the ironical slangster; the cold voiced blonde whose wisecracks are deadly. She contributes to the vaudeville program of the second act an impersonation of herself when young, prancing handsomely in spangles to the tune of "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee."

Altogether, "Stepping Sisters" is a show which banishes the dignity of the dear old drama from the Blackstone with gales of lowbrowed laughter. It is an extremely diverting charade, played to the queen's—the burlesque queen's—taste.

It contains a plot, of course; but why tell it? The story is arranged so that the audience is warned five minutes in advance of every comic situation. Every one knows when the explosion is coming and is prepared to join in the celebration. This is an excellent method for winning the affection of the naïve playgoer.

Joan Blair and Arthur Shaw, recently the heroine and the mortuary drummer of "Torch Song," are among the other effective contributors to the pastime. Donald Briggs, who has done his bit in special performances at the Goodman theater, proves that he is no amateur as a daisy chain boy of the Long island settlements. Philip Dakin, the "juvenile," becomes an adept broadcaster when he is stood up at the piano and given a song cue.

BOYS 5 AND 6 YEARS OLD WRITE SONG BOOK FOR SCHOOLS

New York, March 25.—(AP)—Bob Maier, 5, and his brother, Ted, 6, have written a book. What's more, it's to be published.

It's a book of songs (words by Bob and Ted, music by Bob and Ted), and it will be on the spring list of G. Schirmer, a house that puts out musical works for commercial, not sentimental, reasons. "Song Cargo" is the name, and the publishers have designed it for practical use in the schools of the country.

As if writing words and music weren't enough, the youngsters have illustrated the work profusely.

Bob and Ted are the sons of Guy Maier, pianist and professor of music at the University of Michigan. They live in Ann Arbor.

Nickels had a lot to do with the creation of the book. The boys' father posted a reward of five cents for each bit of verse he considered acceptable.

Chicago to Get Old Russian Theater Plays

U. S. Youths Studying in Moscow Now.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, Feb. 22.—[By Mail.]—Chicago and New York will have a series of Russian plays adapted from the répertoire of the Moscow Art theater and other soviet institutions next year, according to plans of two young American university graduates who are here picking up material.

They are Charles Crane Leatherbee of Chicago, grandson of Charles R. Crane, former United States minister to China, and Joshua Lockwood Logan, III, of Shreveport, La. They have just completed an extended visit here and in Leningrad and are now in the Caucasus visiting the ancient Tartar theater at Baku and the Georgian theater at Tiflis.

"We are greatly impressed by the old plays of the Moscow Art theater which were produced under the old régime, but can see no future for the ultra-modernist, revolutionary type which that organization is now forced to put on by the soviet authorities" said Leatherbee. "Only 'The Armored Train' and 'Three Fat Men' seem susceptible of production in America and even they must be purged of their communist propaganda element."

"The children's theater here particularly interests us," said Logan, "as we plan to open such a playhouse in New York and later in Chicago. We have been extremely struck by the precocious, crafty attitude of the youngsters here, their cunning and michievousness. Every time we attend a play we are besieged between the acts by ragged, impudent little urchins, often only 8 or 9 years old, begging cigarets."

Leatherbee and Logan are from Harvard and Princeton, respectively, and were active in the thespain life of their universities during their courses. The last three summers they have been connected with the University Players group, which puts on stock shows at Falmouth, Mass., and Cape Cod.

"My grandfather knew Constantine Stanislavsky, founder and director of the Moscow Art theater," explained Leatherbee, "and the latter has been most helpful to us here. Stanislavsky is ill, so rehearsals go on right in his home, in his bedroom frequently.

"Here they take two years to rehearse a play before producing it, the caste making a psychological study of the characters they portray. In America four weeks is the usual time for rehearsal. We believe that two years may not be necessary for preparations, but that a longer period than a month would enable a more finished performance.

"In Russia everything is répertoire. There are no long runs because the view is taken that the actors become mechanical in their parts. There is no 'star system' in Russia and actors never play their own personalities. Frequently the leading man in tonight's production will be merely in a mob scene tomorrow night.

"The Moscow Art theater makes everything exclusively for its own use, scenery and costumes of course, even wigs and makeup. We are taking back a couple of boxes of the special makup, grease paint, etc., that they use. We have also made a collection of distinctive types of native Russian costumes, and expect to pick up more in the Caucasus and in Asia Minor when we go to Constantinople and Bagdad and then on to Cairo.

"We are working on a production to be based on the 'Arabian Nights' and will get background for this on the trip. The music is already being arranged by a Berlin composer.

"Generally speaking, America has nothing to learn from the Russian stage. Their plays are too slow moving for the American taste, and generally unconvincing, except the Art theater. We favor the Russian idea of a revolving stage, permitting three or four sets to be made up and new scenes presented to the audience without delay by merely turning the stage."

FLAGLER HEIRESS AND TENNIS PROFESSIONAL WED IN ST. AUGUSTINE

St. Augustine, Fla., March 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Louise Wise Lewis, heiress to the Flagler millions, was married this afternoon by County Judge John P. Baker to Fred Francis, son of Mrs. Llewellyn Francis, who came from Wales. The ceremony was performed in the judge's office.

Mrs. Lewis' two children, Mary Lilly Flagler Lewis and Lawrence Lewis Jr., were present. Another witness was Stanley Coles of St. Augustine.

Mrs. Lewis was married twice before, first to Lawrence Lewis of Richmond, Va., who is the father of the two children, and to Hugh Romaine Lewis of Bear Creek, Pa., whom she divorced last summer.

Mr. Francis was a tennis professional until this year at the Alcazar hotel here, one of the hotels of the system promoted and owned by the late Mr. Flagler.

Mrs. Lewis is a daughter of Mrs. J. K. Wise of Wilmington, N. C., and niece of William R. Kenan Jr., president of the Florida East Coast Railway and Hotel company. Mrs. Lewis is a niece of the late Henry M. Flagler, who married her mother's sister, Mary Lilly Kenan. The newlyweds start Monday on a honeymoon trip to El Paso, Tex.

Boy Winner in Contest on Home, Country

Norman McLennan, 14 years old, in the eighth grade of the Morton Grove school, received the first prize medal and won for his school the first prize banner at the final declamatory contest of the county schools yesterday. Seven boys and girls, picked after preliminary contests among more than 160 county schools, declaimed "Home and Country," by Henry W. Grady, in a program in the Art Institute, Fullerton hall.

In the poster contest final, judged simultaneously in the hall, Vera Harnew, 12 years old, of the Oak Lawn school, district No. 122, a two room school, won the first prize of $5 in cash in the cut-out poster division. Vera is the daughter of George Harnew, Oak Lawn postmaster. McLennan's father is a contractor. The boy wants to be a radio announcer when he grows up, he said.

In the painted poster contest, Lester Wickstrom, 13 years old, in the seventh grade of the Franklin Park school, district No. 84, received the first prize of $5 in cash. Sadie Botterman, 12 years old, of Schumburg Center, district No. 54, received a second prize of $3 in that division. Herman Jensen of Homewood, district No. 153, received a second prize, $3, in the cut-out poster division.

Other winners in the declamatory contest were Margaret Armitage, 13 year olds, of the eighth grade in Central school, Homewood, who received a medal and banner as second prize winner; and Constance Joseph, 11 years old, in the sixth grade of the Willow Springs school, who won the third prize medal and banner.

Norman's mother heard her son make the prize winning declamation. Pupils, parents, and teachers packed the auditorium to hear the contestants, who ranged in age from little Robert Tagge, 9 years old, in the fourth grade at Elk Grove school, to the first two winners.

Judges of the declamations were James E. Armstrong, William M. Roberts, and James W. Brooks, all retired high school principals. County Superintendent of Schools Edward J. Tobin presided.

Too Difficult Playthings Are Bad for a Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

They were looking at pictures in a magazine, and came upon a birdhouse to be made of little logs.

"O, let's send for that, mother! Can't we?" asked the little girl.

In due time the kit—I suppose you might call it that—came. And work was begun on it, happily. The mother, a busy one, went about her work, only to come back later to find a flushed, nervous little thing on the point of tears.

"It won't work, mother—it slips and the nails won't go in and—and—I wish we hadn't gotten it."

Even with help it was a difficult thing to assemble, and could not be finished in one sitting. Altogether, a disastrous afternoon, with the mother's work unfinished and an unhappy child.

At various times mothers write me about their little children, 4 or 5 or 6 years old, mostly boys, who are given certain mechanical sets [with various trade names that I cannot give here which require deftness and use of the very small muscles and great patience to assemble. They become worried because their children get upset, nervous, impatient, and even cry when they play with these things intended to amuse. They think their children are showing lack of character.

It is the most natural thing in the world that they should act just like that. It means that they are entirely too young for such activity, and playthings that are a strain to use should be taken away from them and kept until they are 8 or 9, or perhaps 10 years old.

Young children may have infinite patience and possess great perseverance, but it will be in connection with their big muscle activity. Don't let your children play with things which are obviously too difficult for them. Such playthings only give them a sense of frustration and of failure which it is not good for them to experience.

If you are quite at sea about suitable playthings for your young children, we have two booklets that would be helpful—one a "toy and plaything" list graded to age, and the other a "play" booklet containing references to brief reading on the subject of play, which is illuminating to inexperienced parents.

London Writer Tells Story of a Christening

BY THALIA ——.

An engagingly explicit account of the christening of Lady Alexandra Metcalfe's twin daughters comes from our London correspondent—appropriately enough just at the time that attention has again been focused on the estate of the infants' great-grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter, Chicago pioneers.

One of the most important social events of the last week was the christening of the twin daughters of Lady Alexandra Metcalfe, the youngest daughter of the late Marquess Curzon of Kedleston, and the late marchioness, who was Miss Mary Leiter of Chicago. . . . By special permission of the king, the ceremony was held in the chapel royal St. James's palace, [illegible] the chapel is still only [illegible] to family [illegible] to chaplains of the king [illegible], and the children of the chapel royal, in their scarlet cassocks, sang the anthem and added the ancient bit of pageantry to the simple ceremony.

The elder twin was named Davina Naldera, and her godparents were the duchess of Rutland, Mrs. R. Arncott Wilson, and the earl of Westmoreland. The younger twin received the name of Linda Mary, and her godparents were Col. Sir Clive Wigram, the Viscountess Astor, and Mrs. Harold Talbett.

The infants were dressed in champagne colored organdie muslin, the fronts inlet with panels composed of numerous rows of narrow lace. White lilies, lilies of the valley, snowdrops, and white lilacs adorned the font. David Metcalfe (named for the prince of Wales and his godson), the brother of the twins, beamed approval on them even when they both attempted to argue with the clergy. He wore a green cloth coat with a knot of heather tied with a silver ribbon.

Lady Alexandra wore a Persian lamb coat and a little black hat with a diamond clip. Lady Ravensdale, the eldest daughter of the late marquess, was in navy blue, and the middle sister, Lady Cynthia Mosley, was in black, and accompanied by her schoolgirl daughter, Vivienne. The present Marchioness Curzon, the stepmother of "the Curzon girls," was present, and as usual looked very distinguished in a soft green ensemble trimmed with fox fur. Lady Curzon's pastime during this "interim" season has been the study of backgammon, which she is mastering in preparation for the coming season, which many people say will be strictly a "backgammon season."

The London letter goes on to tell about the unveiling of the Curzon memorial, a lifesize statue to stand at the west end of Carlton House terrace, opposite No. 1, which was the late lord's London house. Mr. Stanley Baldwin was to unveil the memorial on March 20. Also there is an account of the busy political activities of the "new party" centering at Sir Oswald Mosley and Lady Cynthia's very modern little house in Westminster.

Kurdish Dancer Portrays East; Arms as Snakes

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Leila Bederkhan, whose advance notices say she is a princess of the Kurds, appeared last night at Orchestra hall in a program of dances not so much confined to her own country as covering much of the near and part of the far east. Persia was represented, likewise Egypt, India, Syria, the nomadic Bedouins, and the queen of Sheba.

In certain respects Miss Bederkhan, or the princess, as you prefer, develops memories of Ruth St. Denis in her oriental manifestations. She is ycunger, but a good part of her dances consist of posturings, swayings, gestures, with the greater part of the activation above the waist line. There was even a snake dance wherein a pair of slender, lithe arms, glittering with enameled scales, represented twin serpents.

Generally speaking her movements are too soft and melting to be entirely authentic pictures of the orient, but she is graceful, she carries herself well, and she has a pronounced sense of costuming. The most striking of her scenes was called "Hieroglyphe," in which she presented a series of poses of archaic Egyptian figures of painting and bas relief, maintaining the while an illusion of two dimensions, as of a moving frieze.

Facial Blemishes Are Avoided by Daily Skin Cure

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I'll say there has been an amazing improvement in the last decade in one facial blemish item alone. The name of that blemish is blackheads, the commonest of all skin concerns.

It used to be an accepted, therefore ignored thing that a forehead or nose or the mouth corners would, on close investigation, be a bit smudgy. Infinitesimal, wee dots would show up. If they weren't plainly seen they more often were left undisturbed than not. Not so today, however. Faces are peered into for any slight trace of a blackhead formation and it's caught young and eliminated, for we've come to know that these small plugged gland openings may lead to a lot of other facial troubles unless they're routed in infancy. We know they frequently lead to pimples, acne, acne scars and real out-and-out blemishes.

Anyway, faces are infinitely more clear of blackhead troubles than they were ten, fifteen or more years ago. And this inspite of the theorists who held that cold creaming would overload pores and clog them. There's a powerful lot of cold creaming going on—and my judgment is that faces are greatly improved as to skin texture, skin texture being neither more nor less than the fineness or coarseness of pores in the skin. The improvement is marked in men, too, and there's no doubt in my mind that the much maligned barbers' practice of persuading clients into having face steamings, and the like, has been good missionary work.

However, all faces are not yet cleared of the annoying specks of varying sizes, according to the distention of the pores. I simply point to the improvement to show that people have become "clear skin" conscious.

Simple Dress Plays a Number of Roles

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—That necessity is the mother of invention is being charmingly proved anew by Paris fashions these days when lots of girls can only buy one dress where formerly they ran to several.

Paris couturiers are determined not to let such suffer and they've got busy and devised ways of making one dress look like five. Our diagram shows you how to do it, too! Have a simple dress like the one on our central figure in plain wool crêpe, georgette, morocain, or what do you like? Have a slit made in it on each side of the point of the décolleté!

One variation of it is made by the bias scarf of plaid mousseline [it should be about six inches wide and two and three-quarters yards long] shown in the center. Tie it round your neck, cross it, slip it through the slits, cross at the waistline in back and tie in front.

Upper left, you have an organdy handkerchief-bib, tucked and trimmed with lace. There are cuffs and a real hanky to match. They give a dainty aspect to your plain frock, which may be further varied by a leather belt.

Upper right, the transformation trick is turned by three dotted foulard triangles—small ones tied round the wrists, the large one with its points drawn through the slits and knotted.

Fashion Show Today.

A fashion show, musical and tea will be given this afternoon at the Shoreland hotel for the benefit of the Mount Sinai hospital emergency fund.

Navajo Indians Get Their Place in Chicago Sun

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An exceptionally brilliant exhibit has just opened in the galleries of the Chicago Galleries association, 220 North Michigan avenue. Gerald Cassidy has the little room with paintings of the Navajo Indians and desert landscape of the southwest. The larger gallery is shared by Joseph Allworthy and Joseph A. Fleck with paintings which the the antithesis of each other in technique.

Joseph Allworthy is a young Chicago painter whose ability to paint an exquisite and flawless still life has won him great admiration. There are still life arrangements here which will add to his glamorous reputation and there are a few portraits of considerable charm. His few landscapes are less impressive, with the exception of the vivid "Sunshine in [illegible]" and [illegible]

Joseph A. Fleck is greatly more impatient enthusiast in the beautiful Spanish landscapes he unrolls. He grasps the significant qualities of a town or countryside and expresses the emotions they arouse in him, in color. A modernist? A delightful modernist, with an eye for beauty. An expressionist, which is apparently the latest word to typify those who run outside the beaten tracks, indubitably. Sunshine, heat, white buildings, gray skies of north Spain and chill landscapes, or the somber beauties of Paris with the strength of Notre Dame shouldering the sky above the row of casual, timid, book stalls on the pavement; canals, hills, bridges, an ass, a few peasants, all of these elements go to the making of his paintings. Among them "Pont Saint-Martin," "Jeune Peau-Rouge," and "Nocturne" are of the loveliest.

Fleck's southwest Indian girls, of which there are several stunning paintings, guide us imperceptibly into a mood where the smaller and less definite though infinitely more tender southwest landscapes of Gerald Cassidy hold our attention. These are beautifully painted and beautiful in color. The large "Portrait of Bishop Nelson" is very fine and the only canvas outside of the southwest range. Among the landscapes you will enjoy "Desert Horses," "The Brush Shelter," "El Rio Seco," and "The Old Trail." The exhibition will continue to [illegible]

Parents, Children Topic of Conference Next Saturday

A one day conference on parent relationship and the child will be held by the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education on Saturday in the Palmer house.

Among the subjects to be discussed are emotional difficulties in marital adjustment, college and university training for marriage and parenthood, harmonious interests of parents and their reflections in the child. Dr. Karl Menninger, University of Kansas, will preside at the morning session.

Bright Sayings of the Children

My little niece, Virginia, aged 4, was over visiting me one day when I was looking over some clothes I intended to give to some poor family.

She said: "Mother said there are some people so poor they cannot even buy soap to wash with."

I said: "Well, here is a nice felt hat I will give to them."

Virginia exclaimed: "O, but they can't wash their hands with a hat."

WHEN YOU COOK YOUR easter ham REMEMBER THAT sugar WILL MAKE IT taste better

Sprinkle sugar generously over the ham before you put it in the oven to bake.

A BAKED HAM studded with cloves and coated with sugar is certainly an appetising sight. But the real treat comes when you taste that ham and revel in its tangy-sweet, juicy goodness.

Ham, however, is not the only meat that tastes better by adding sugar. You'll be surprised at the way a dash of sugar plus a pinch of salt heightens the flavor of cheap cuts of meats during the stewing or braising process.

Think of this value of sugar as you plan your meals. Remember, too, that sugar added to vegetables gives them new taste-appeal. For proof just try a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt when you cook spinach, peas, carrots, cabbage or beans. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister Gertrude became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Hilary had taken her war invalided brother Hugh away from home ten years ago to give her young sister Christine and brother Stephen a better chance. Now that Hugh was dead Hilary was returning home. Her stepfather is the only sympathetic member of her family.

Shortly after their return John and Hilary become engaged.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. Her cousin Prue is her only friend. She has a private teacher, Miss Mead, while her cousins are away at school. Her father she knows as Uncle John. She senses she is different in some way from other children. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she sends Judith to the country. John is uneasy about Judith not being in school. He thinks it unfair to drag Hilary continually into the question of the child and Hilary feels that he has had enough management in caring for Judith. John writes Gertrude for the truth. She replies that she cannot, as a decent citizen, send a waif of dubious parentage among other children.

Judith, at the farm of her former nurse Tracy's brother, is badly treated by the old servant. She meets Clive Harpenden, the little master of the home where she delivers cream for Tracy. Judy, receiving mail, writes secretly to Prue.

Prue meets Hilary for tea and tries to enlist her for Judith. Hilary's vow not to interfere makes her rebuff Prue. They run into Tim de Morreville, whom Hilary and John met on the boat home. Tim drives Prue home and makes an engagement to drive her next day to visit Judith.

INSTALLMENT XXVIII.

ALONE AND UNDEFENDED.

"Pig!" said Prue in a violent tone, letting herself into the flat and beginning automatically to collect the scattered garments she had flung broadcast when she came home to change. "Selfish, heartless worm of a pig! Can't she see how rotten it is for the poor kid . . . such a decent little beggar too. Judy wouldn't let anybody down. I'd like to know who told her about her father, anyway. I'd like to burn 'em alive . . . and stuck down there without a penny and not even allowed to get her letters. If I were Mead I'd make a row about it, but she always was weak-kneed and afraid of the sack. I'd like," said Prue, thumping her books down one after another on the table before the window and banging her fists on them, "to tie Uncle John and that girl of his neck and neck and make 'em watch Tracy boil, and then throw them in afterward."

She was furious and full of contempt for herself at having liked and trusted Miss Revel on sight and was convinced she would never believe in her own judgment again.

Prudence did not yet know what she was going to say to Judith about her father, or how she could contrive to see her without Tracy's knowledge. If the worse came to the worst she would have to walk in and demand the little girl, risking trouble with her mother when the visit was reported, as no doubt it would be, but for Judy's sake as well as her own she wished to avoid this. She had discovered long ago that the greatest kindness to Judy was to pretend no particular interest in her under Mrs. Livingstone's eyes.

Of Judith's actual story she knew nothing, and it would be hard to say when suspicion, growing presently to conviction, had first entered her mind. She would have taken the small adopted cousin for granted had Judy been sent off to school with Midge and herself and not always so carefully explained to visitors and friends. The considering expression on her mother's face sometimes when she looked at Judy, her angry denial of the little girl's evident talent for drawing, her insistence that Judith should not cut her hair, though she had, thought Prue, the loveliest shaped little head, were all pointers to the likeness which at last gave Prue all the knowledge she possessed. Our fears defeat us in the end. Mrs. Livingstone's fears had betrayed her to her young daughter when she was just of an age to know something about life and wonder and suspect a great deal more.

Nevertheless, up to the present Prudence had not greatly concerned herself with the question of Judith. The adoption myth, she supposed, had been an arrangement between her Uncle John, her Aunt Sylvia and her mother to save talk and scandal in a world too fond of both.

Under Mrs. Livingstone's hush policy flowers that would have surprised her had blossomed in her elder daughter, a determination to mind her own business and to have a business to mind, but above all a passionate contempt for shams. Aunt Sylvia had been the hollowest of all shams in her niece's eyes; her mother was another, but not so bad because unconscious of it. Upon her Uncle John she had withheld judgment hitherto, because you never knew; he might think concealment wiser for Judy's sake. Prudence did not feel herself in a position to argue about that. He might even be right.

Now, however, since it seemed Judy knew he was her father, surely any one could see the whole thing had gone to smash and something would have to be done. Prue could remember a little nightgowned figure appearing from the doorway and hearing an agonized whisper: "O, Prue, what isn't my fault, please?" . . . And now this letter, "I don't know why I was sent here, but I don't think it was my fault. . . . How can I know when my father comes home if I don't get any letters? I am dreadfully worried about this . . ." Judy was not a baby any longer; she was thirteen. Prue had not forgotten, if other people had, all the odds and ends of half-knowledge and the strange terrors that may beset us at thirteen. And who had told her and what had they said? Prue was going to make it her business to find out.

Tim was a nice lad. She was fond of him, perhaps because he had been part of those happy days on board when every hour she and John had grown nearer to each other. She would not willingly have thrown Prudence in his way, for she was a cub, and her cool manner of walking up and snatching Tim but a further illustration of her cubhood. However, this was merely an irritation and unimportant. Resolutely she shook it away.

The fact that Prudence had meant well by bringing her Judith's letter was the last thing to soften Hilary, seeing her own experiences and state of mind. Troubled as she was by what she had heard, she was also greatly incensed that it should have been told to her. Gertrude and Sylvia, by their intolerable meddling with John's affairs, had brought the situation about and now Gertrude's daughter had come to her, expecting her to complete the circle by meddling further. Was John then not a man to settle his own concerns? The assumption of weakness in the man she loved filled her most of all with anger and revolt and the crying need of his denial. He must act of his own will. She would not try to move him.

Her head was aching and at the top of St. James street she called a taxi and told the man to drive her home.

She closed her eyes and tried also to shut her troubled thoughts away, but it was no use. Phrases of Prue's talk and her own answers, pictures of the girl's face, eager, pleading, mutinous by turns, all the arguments she might have used to silence her and had not, beat through her mind; and beyond all she saw a sheet of note paper, the round pencilled writing, and just one phrase: ". . . you don't think they'd take my letters, do you, Prue? . . ."

She could not tell why this should have given her so swift and sharp a sense of the little girl she had never seen, and of all that might lie behind that one wistful cry for reassurance breaking through the child's reserve. Whatever she might know or think she knew, whatever was happening to her, she made no complaint; and to Hilary this was strangely pitiful as though Judy knew herself alone and undefended. The rest of the letter was not clear in her memory, try to recall it as she might . . . Something about "when my father comes home," and "how will I know if I never get any letters? I am worried rather."

"It isn't Judy's fault," she could hear Prue's mutinous voice declaring. As if that needed to be said; as if she had ever felt anything but kindness for the child; as if any one but a member of Mrs. Livingstone's family could have brought forward an argument so idiotic and unnecessary!

Hilary wished now she could recall the letter word for word, so that noncommittally she could have repeated it to John.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What is the ethical behavior when a girl discovers that her girl chum's beau indicates a marked preference for her and she responds in feeling? Should she resign herself to fate, discourage the other girl's beau, or plunge in and play her hand at making the altar date with him?

It's a common problem, commoner since girls have taken to assuming after a couple of dates with a young man that he is their property. And that attitude of proprietariness incidentally is one of the blights on our current system of romance. I get it here so often in girl revelations.

A young man takes a girl out a few times—and if he doesn't continue an explanation is demanded of him. It used to be kinda stylish to nurse a grieved heart in silence. But not our aggressive young darlings! If they're going to nurse a grieved heart over the lapse in entertainment they're going to know the reason why. Maybe at that it's a better system. I don't know. Except that it scares the boys to death to be hauled up on the carpet—and next time they're just a bit wary about making dates at all.

But to get back to the girl and her girl chum's beau. Is it legitimate to take him away, he being willing, along with the taker? We're not talking about engaged couples, you understand. Just about couples that may have been going around together for a time, but between whom there's been no "understanding" as yet.

It is legitimate, quite, though that's not saying the girl and her chum are going to continue on chummy terms. There invariably follows a temporary break, at least, in the friendship between girl and girl. But then there may be a bigger issue at stage which justifies the beau stealing, and it is a happy marriage for the two who discover each other in time. Besides it has happened with the "conscientious" girl who wouldn't stoop to take a beau away from another girl that she has lived to see some other girl wrest him away and her sacrifice in the name of friendship bear no fruit for her whatsoever.

You'll have to be particularly friendly to give him the courage he lacks.

Request for Shoes.

"I have just left the hospital and am badly in need of a pair of shoes, size 5½. My feet are on the ground and I shall have to be walking around soon looking for a job. I shall be thankful to you if you can get them for me. J. B."

It will be some time before this convalescent is able to take care of himself again. In the meantime the shoes he is in need of would be most gratefully received.

Circus Outfit for Lucky Child.

"Can you supply me with the name of a child who is a cripple or shut-in? I have a lovely circus outfit which he or she might enjoy having. "MRS. C. A."

This amusing toy should mean many hours of fun for the little boy or girl who is confined to the house and cannot get out of doors to play. If you know of some child who would like to have it, write me about it; please do not telephone.

Food Talk.

We need only delve into history to learn why some races of people are more vigorous and longer lived than others. Investigations of the food habits of the robust and less healthy invariably show that it is what they ate that made them what they were.

Dr. E. V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins has referred many times in his lectures and books to the pastoral people of the world who have had dairy animals and whose diet has consisted largely of cheese, milk, and butter as having always displayed the finest physical development.

An isolated race in the Himalayas noted for its unusual virility and fertility lives on a frugal diet that consists chiefly of goat's milk and vegetables. Another example of the significant relation of diet to health is pointed out by Drs. Crumbine and Tobey in their book called "The Most Nearly Perfect Food." At the outbreak of the American revolution, a number of English colonists chose to remain loyal to the mother country. One group of these colonists went to Canada and another to the Bahamas. There is a great dissimilarity between the following generations in each group.

The marked difference in climate may account for mental alertness and physical ability. Dr. McCollum, however, calls attention to the fact that besides the cold and invigorating climate of Canada, the Canadians have lived on a diet rich in milk, butter, and cheese in addition to legumes, cereals, tubers, and meats. The inhabitants of the Bahamas eat fruits and vegetables but use dairy products infrequently. Dr. McCullom says, "People will feel very differently on these two types of diets."

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

GARDEN CLEAN-UP ADVISED.

Vegetables and flowers free from disease can be obtained more easily during 1931 if the garden plots are cleaned up now. This suggestion comes from Dr. C. T. Gregory, plant disease specialist of Purdue university agricultural extension staff.

Many of the common and serious diseases of flowers and vegetables, he contends, live over the winter in dead leaves or stems of plants which have been diseased the year before. With warm weather they will come to life and the disease may become so firmly established that it may ruin an entire planting before it is found.

Two methods of getting rid of dead leaves and stems are suggested by the Purdue man. Deep plowing or raking and burning are advised, with the latter method preferred, especially on small plots. Leaf blights of tomatoes, cucumbers, melons and celery are typical of those that live over from one year to the next on diseased leaves of the last year's crop.

For flowers he recommends cutting off the tops of iris and peonies close to the ground and raking and burning the tops. This could have been done last fall, but is still timely. Tulip beds should be raked over to get rid of the old stems. Crown leaves of delphiniums or larkspurs should be removed. All shoots that show cankers should be removed when pruning rose bushes.

"Rotation of crops in the vegetable garden is another way of reducing disease," says Dr. Gregory. "Diseases that attack beans usually will not harm carrots planted on ground following beans, even though the diseases are present in the soil or in leaves; onions will thrive on soil that might be infested with tomato diseases.

APPROVE BILL TO GIVE CITIES GAS TAX SHARE

Chicago Could Use Fund for Elevated Highway.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 25.—[Special.]—The house committee on motor vehicles and traffic regulation this afternoon, by a vote of 16 to 7, recommended passage of house bill 407, which would distribute gasoline tax revenue 1 cent to the state, 1 cent to the counties, and 1 cent to municipalities. At present the state gets 2 cents and the counties the third cent.

Representative Galvin of Chicago's west side, who introduced the measure, following the committee action said that the bill would permit the Chicago council to appropriate the bulk of the city's gasoline tax revenue, more than $5,000,000 a year, for the construction of an elevated highway.

Points to Bond Defeat.

"Personally," he said, "I would favor such an appropriation by the council. I supported the bond issue for the Austin-Kinzie superhighway. The issue was defeated because the improvement was for the benefit of the motoring public generally, rather than for the park district real estate, which would have been taxed to retire the bonds. The gasoline tax permits the motoring public to buy a traffic facility that the motoring public needs and wants."

The state administration, fighting the 1-1-1 distribution of the gasoline tax and supporting a counter measure authorizing the state fo build highways through and into municipalities, likewise is talking favorably of elevated boulevards ter Chicago, but the talk does not approach being a pledge any more than the Galvin bill is a promise to build one of these modern traffic structures.

With today's committee action the battle over distribution of the fuel tax revenue is moved to the floor of the house since the administration bill authorizing municipal construction by the state was reported favorably out of committee last week.

Gov. Emmerson's followers in the general assembly advocate defeat of the 1-1-1 bill and passage of the administration's enabling measure with the argument that municipal governments would be tempted by local politics to dissipate the motorists' 1 cent on neighborhood projects rather than to concentrate expenditures upon major improvements of first importance to the motoring public generally.

Almost of as much interest to the motoring public as this legislative conflict is a war between cement and brick men that came to a head but did not end this morning when the department of public works opened bids for brick resurfacing of 76.13 miles of old concrete 34.34 miles in the metropolitan area.

Low Bid $25,731 Per Mile.

The average low bid for this work was $25,731 per mile. This includes the cost of widening the slabs from 15 or 18 feet to 20 feet, and of reinforcing the edges as well as building the new surface.

The Chicago Motor club points out that construction of ten foof slabs of new concrete on both sides of the old pavement would cost an average of no more than $33,000 per mile. The cement interests contend that much of the 76.13 miles does not need resurfacing.

The metropolitan area resurfacing projects are as follows: Roosevelt road, from De Kalb to Ogle county line, 9 miles; route 20, from Volo to Gray's Lake, 6.97 miles; Waukegan road, from Waukegan to Lake Bluff, 6.82 miles; route 22, from St. Charles to South Elgin, 2.9 miles; and Lincoln highway from Chicago Heights to Will county line, 7.65 miles.

EXPECT YARROW TO TESTIFY IN SUIT ON ARREST

The Rev. Philip Yarrow of the Illinois Vigilance association is expected to take the witness stand in Superior Judge Hayes' court today to testify in his own defense in a lawsuit brought against him by a book seller on a charge of malicious prosecution. Selection of a jury was completed yesterday.

Walter Shaver, elderly and bespectacled, who formerly operated the Rent-a-Book club at 4702 Sheridan road, is the complainant. In his declaration filed by Attorney Cameron Latter, Shaver says that he was arrested on Dec. 17, 1929, on a charge of selling obscene literature on a complaint sworn out by Yarrow.

Shaver was in jail three hours and was later acquitted. Within a week Shaver filed his lawsuit asking $25,000 damages.

"The defendant [Yarrow] is engaged in the business of professional reformer for hire," according to the declaration. The suit further alleges that "Yarrow pockets the money penalties taken from persons so entrapped by him."

Shaver was acquitted by a jury in Judge Fairbank's court although there was undisputed evidence that he had procured from the publisher a copy of "A Night in a Moorish Harem" at the request of Yarrow's scout, George Brown, and was selling it to Brown when Mr. Yarrow entered with a policeman.

50c Test Will Prove CONSTIPATION Can be CONQUERED in 6 Days—or Your Money Back!

Constipation is unnecessary. That is the hope now held out to countless thousands of stubborn cases. A new kind of medicinal discovery acts in a new way upon liver, gall, bowels, and stomach, bringing natural forces into play that are seldom touched by pills, oils, and laxatives. The results of this new-found way in thousands of test cases have been nothing short of amazing—and the cost of making the test is NOT $1.00 or $5.00, BUT 50c. Even this small sum is refunded if you do not get genuine relief in your case in the first six days.

Four-Fold Medicine Acts New Way to Revive "Normal Lubrication"

Colonic or intestinal lubrication is the key to Triner's Bitter Wine—the reason why it has brought such amazing—and lasting—relief to so many victims of constipation. Triner's Bitter Wine is a doctor's prescription to restore and revive gentle, natural lubrication in the intestines and bring about easy natural action of the bowels without aid of laxatives.

A Cause of Constipation

To understand why Triner's Bitter Wine brings such remarkable benefit, you must understand the nature of much stubborn constipation.

Bile flowing from the gall bladder is now known to act as a lubricant in the intestines, keeping them open and preventing constipation. So long as bile flows freely, doctors find, constipation is rare or unknown. When normal lubrication is slowed down or lessened, constipation and clogging are the almost certain result.

As a temporary measure, laxatives are used to produce a deluge of artificial liquid lubrication. This, as every one knows, places a tremendous strain on the walls of the bowels, draining them of moisture, drying tissues, and leaving them in a weakened condition. That is why doctors warn against harsh, habit forming laxatives that only produce temporary relief at best.

New Facts About Lubrication

How different is Triner's Bitter Wine! There is no drastic effect, no purging distress. Instead a mild combination of herb juices, fruit juices and cascara sagrada duplicate normal bowel lubrication. This is designed to produce immediate relief from clogging, to keep bowels gently, naturally open, like the gentlest of enemas, while normal lubrication is being naturally revived.

Importance of Liver and Gall Bladder

Meanwhile other medicines are at work to revive and stimulate normal lubrication of bile in a perfectly natural way. Podophyllin, a scientific discovery, goes directly to the gall bladder and liver. It aids these vital organs to increase the flow of bile into the bowels, making artificial lubrication and laxatives largely unnecessary.

Throw Off Constipation!

That is the great contribution of Triner's Bitter Wine. To aid you to throw off constipation by stimulating normal bile flow from liver and gall bladder. To help you win clock-like regularity with the normal lubrication in the bowels.

Know the reason why Triner's Bitter Wine has so often ended years of wretched suffering, why its four-fold action has conquered so many seemingly hopeless cases of constipation, and why it has restored so many sick, run-down, nervous people to health and brimming vitality.

2. Podophyllin which doctors urge as one of the greatest helps for sluggish, clogged liver.
3. Podophyllin also increases flow of bile from gall bladder which lubricates and purifies intestines, prevents fermentation, gas, etc., and tends to revive and restore normal lubrication.
4. Contains just enough Cascara sagrada, fruit and herb juices to provide bowels with proper lubrication to assist them in moving freely.

"Called AMAZING"

by hundreds of "hopeless" cases

Letters like these prove that Triner's Bitter Wine is far more than a mere laxative. Such expressions of gratitude do not arise out of mere temporary relief.

Conquers Stubborn Case. What your Bitter Wine has done for me is amazing. It was like a reprieve to a condemned man, for I thought that I was condemned to suffer a life sentence of constipation. I want to say that I am hardly ever troubled this way now and believe me when I say the freedom is grand and glorious. —J. M. D.

Relieves 10-Year Suffering. I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for your Bitter Wine. Nothing I ever took in the last ten years ever gave me more than one or two days relief. Thanks to your Bitter Wine, I now consider myself normal. And in general health I feel like a new person. —Mrs. M. S.

Credits Lubrication. From the first day I started using your Bitter Wine my bowels moved regularly, and they have continued regular ever since, although I have not used it now for three months. It just shows how important it is to have intestinal lubrication just like any machine, I guess. I cannot thank you enough for it. —Mrs. E. H. W.

Uses No Laxatives Now. For the first time in 20 years I can truly say that I am relieved of constipation. I want every woman who suffered as I did to know that Triner's Bitter Wine has been a Godsend to me and I can now get along without laxatives for the first time in 20 years. —Mrs. M. J. M.

GIANTS ROMP OVER SOX, 17-8, IN NIGHT GAME

New Yorkers Score Seven in Ninth.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 25.—The White Sox couldn't function properly under the electric lights this evening. They fielded as though addicted to dim lit habits, and their pitching at times appeared to be of a similar grade. Against such opposition Mr. McGraw's Giants had a busy time running the bases, and after disporting themselves in carefree fashion for more than two hours it was estimated they had whipped the Chicago team, 17 to 8. The Giants now lead the spring series with four triumphs in six starts.

Dutch Bush's performers got off on the wrong foot and never did get into their stride. Appling erred behind Bill McKain in the first inning, and there was some more booting in the second. Because of this the New Yorkers took a lead of four runs, all unearned. Thereafter they did some legitimate hitting against Jim Moore and Vic Frazier which entitled them to the decision.

The Giants frisked McKain for a run at the start, but the fault was due to an overthrow by Appling. Critz led off with a single to center. Leach filed to Reynolds, and Lindstrom walked. Terry bounced to Kerr at second, and the little fellow pegged to Appling to force Lindstrom. Luke then threw the ball toward Watwood at first base, but the ball went into the dugout, Critz scoring.

Giants Add Three.

New York scored three more in the second. Vergez opened with a single to center. Hogan struck out. Berly batted and Kamm scooped up the ball and threw straight into Watwood's hands, but the ball bounced on a la Nick Altrock, so Berly was safe. Critz popped out, but Leach whacked a hit to left, Vergez scoring and Berly dashing to third. Leach went to second on the throw-in. Then Lindstrom singled to score Berly and Leach.

McKain started the fifth inning, but didn't finish it. Bush feared that to leave him in much longer would run up a staggering bill on the electric light meter. Leach started this three run episode with a double to left and scored when Lindstrom did the same thing. Terry walked and was forced by Ott. Jackson ripped off a single, on which Lindstrom tallied. Then, when Vergez singled and Ott scored, Moore was hurried into McKain's place. He ended the inning when Hogan hit into a double play.

Sox Batter Chaplin.

Nine of the Sox had a hand in scoring four runs off Chaplin in the fifth. They didn't begin operations in a serious way until after two were out. A pass to Kamm was the entering wedge. Tate singled to right and Moore dumped a Texas leaguer in short center, Kamm scoring. A pass to Kerr filled the bases. Simons beat out a hit to Critz and Tate ran home. Reynolds singled, scoring Moore and Kerr. This completed the attack and left the Sox trailing, 7 to 4.

Doubles to left by Simons and Reynolds gave the Sox another run in the seventh, but this outburst seemed to inspire another Giant uprising in the eighth, when they scored three runs. Vergez started with a single to left. Hogan bunted and converted it into a hit when Kamm and Moore collided in trying to field the ball. Morrell fanned, but Critz singled to Kamm's left and Vergez scored. After Leach had flied out, Lindstrom singled and Hogan tallied. Critz going to third. Critz scored on a double steal.

Simons Hits Triple.

The White Sox came back with three runs in their half of the eighth. Morrell brought the trouble on himself by passing Watwood. Kamm dusted a single into left. Tate did the same and Watwood scored. Radcliff batted for Moore, and forced Tate at second. Kerr drove a long foul to Lindstrom and Kamm hurried home after the catch. Radcliff scored on Simons' triple to left.

Frazier tried to pitch for the Pale Hose in the ninth. First he filled the bases on Allen's scratch single, his own bad throw to second on Jackson's out, and a pass to Vergez. Then Frazier fanned Hogan and pinch batter Leslie. Critz also would have struck out if Tate had held a tip foul. Given that added chance, Critz singled to score two runs, and Leach doubled before its two more. Singles by Lindstrom, Terry, Allen, and Jackson rounded out the seven run flurry.

Loyola-Hyde Park Wins in Closing Seconds.

Loyola-Hyde Park, Marquette, O'Connell, and De La Salle moved into the second round of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league championship series last night by victories at the Coliseum.

The four winners, together with the victors in last Sunday's first round games, will meet next Sunday at the Coliseum in the quarter-final games.

Loyola-Hyde Park's victory was the most spectacular, a basket by John Connolly from midfloor with two seconds to play reversing the outcome after Tony Lawless had apparently won the game for Setters a few seconds previously with a similar shot. The final score was 18 to 17. Setters made all but three of its points in the second half.

Connolly's Toss Wins.

With a minute to go, Rintelman caged a free throw and Petrolaitus added two more. Then Lawless made his basket, putting Setters a point ahead. On the next tipoff the ball was passed to Connolly, who let fly for the victory.

An eleven point lead piled up in the first five minutes enabled O'Connell to outfinish Aquinas, 16 to 15, for one of the biggest upsets of the tournament. Aquinas was one of the finalists last season, losing the title to St. Patrick's in the last second of championship game. Aquinas made a game fight to overcome the big lead and several times came within a point of tying the count, but the north siders had too much advantage in height and managed to control the ball to the end.

Washington Is Erratic.

Washington's inability to locate the basket, coupled with Marquette's sharpshooting, brought to an end the former's winning streak of 19 straight games, 25 to 14. Not until ten minutes of the second half had elapsed were the northwest division champions able to locate the hoop, and at that time the score stood 18 to 7. A short rally by Washington proved futile, however, when Red Dickinson caged three in a row to put the game on ice.

De La Salle found the going tough for a while with San Salvador of the south end division, but finally wore down their smaller opponents to romp off with a 35 to 20 victory. Sharpshooting by Jimmy Bird, who rang up eight points in the first half, proved the deciding factor, all of his tallies coming after San Salvador had rushed away to an 8 point lead.

In the second period, which began with the score 26 to 11, De La Salle had things almost its own way, winding up the pastime with a lineup of substitutes.

COLISEUM WINS A POINT IN SUIT AGAINST DEMPSEY

Two days of legal arguments were concluded yesterday when Circuit Judge Pomeroy ruled to admit in evidence in the $500,000 damage suit against Jack Dempsey, an injunction decree granted in 1926 by an Indianapolis, Ind., court to restrain Dempsey from fighting any one until he had met Harry Willis, colored heavyweight contender. The Chicago Coliseum club is seeking damages from the former champion for breaking the contract to fight Willis first.

Dempsey sat in court throughout the afternoon session with his friend, Wallace Beery, motion picture actor. His attorney, Arthur Driscoll, protested against admitting the injunction decree on grounds that it had been overruled by the Indiana Supreme court.

Attorney Driscoll also spent two hours in an effort to rule out "certain extraneous parts of the decree" which related to Dempsey's conduct. Late in the afternoon three witnesses were called to the stand, one of whom, B. E. Clements, president of the Coliseum club, said that about $200,000 had been spent in preparation for the proposed fight between Dempsey and Willis.

TILDEN TO PLAY, RICHARDS; TENNIS TITLE IS AT STAKE

William T. Tilden II. and Vincent Richards, once friendly musketeers in the world of tennis, but now bearing personal enmity against each other, have been brought together for a professional championship struggle against each other on the courts.

Promoter Jack Curley of New York yesterday signed the two temperamental stars to clash in a series of matches for the "world's professional championship." Months of negotiating and the lure of large purses landed the signatures on the contract, calling for a series on the basis of the best five out of nine matches, Promoter Curley said.

Tilden will receive $25,000 with percentage privileges, while Richards will receive a flat guarantee of $25,000 for the matches, Promoter Curley said.

TROJANS' SQUAD TO ARRIVE TODAY FOR TANK MEET

Southern California and Michigan will be among the first arrivals today of college swimming teams assembling here for the national collegiate swimming championships to be decided tomorrow and Saturday at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

The Southern California team, which is expected to make a strong bid for the team championship, consists of six men, among whom are Buster Crabbe and Mickel Riley. The former is national free style champion, while Riley holds the National A. A. U. fancy diving title. The other members of the Trojan squad are Capt. Oscar Simmons, Robert Jensen, Russell Dresslar, and Raymond Arbuthnot.

Ten men compose the Michigan squad. J. A. Schmieler, Wolverine sophomore star, recently celebrated his entry into college circles by winning three first places in the Big Ten championships. He set a new world record in the 300 yard breast stroke, broke the conference record in the back stroke, and also won the 300 yard swim.

Other teams are expected to arrive during the day, and by tomorrow the entire group will be on hand for the preliminary events, which get under way tomorrow afternoon. At that time qualifying trials will be held in the 50 yard dash and the fancy diving. Preliminary heats in all other events will be held tomorrow night, with the finals in all nine events slated for Saturday night.

Laborer Wins $5,900 on Race—If He Finds Ticket

Baltimore, Md., March 25.—(AP)—Peter Balko, a laborer, believes he will be richer by $5,900 if he can find a bit of pasteboard he has misplaced—one end of an Irish sweepstakes ticket. He and his wife conducted a frantic search for it today.

He said he bought the ticket, entitling him to a chance in the drawing made in Dublin yesterday. The stub of the ticket was presumably forwarded to Dublin by the seller. Balko's stub, according to dispatches, made him winner of a consolation prize.

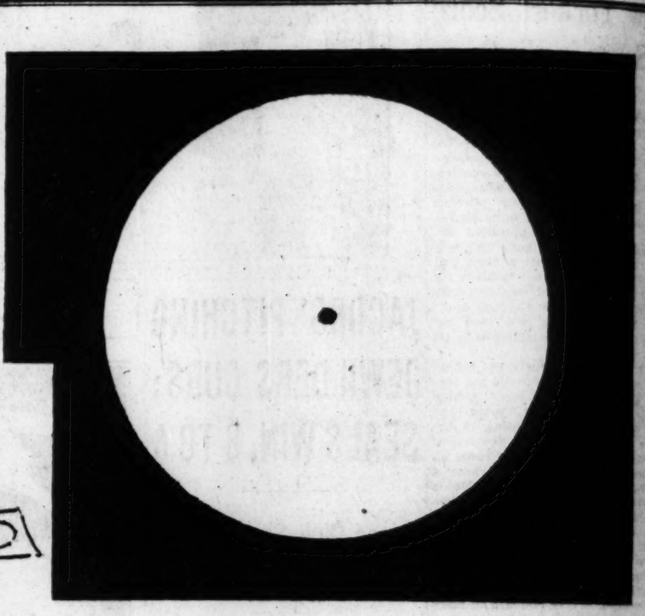
BIG FOUR ROUTE

MAKE THIS NERVE TEST!

How many times can you hit the "dot", in the circle at the right with your pencil point? Try it ten times in rapid succession without supporting your arm. If your "misses" number greater than your "hits"—your nerves are shaky. Perhaps your smoke is not the right smoke for you.

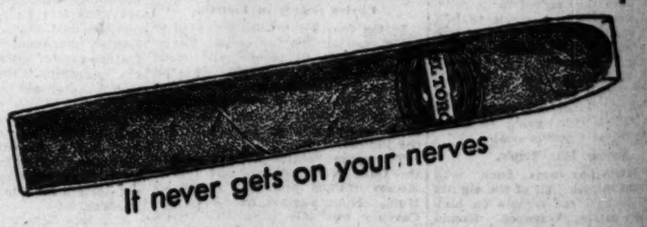


Be good to your nerves

Switch to the cigar that's good for your nerves. Smoke El Toros. El Toros never get on your nerves. The reason is no secret. El Toros are made of the mildest, smoothest, finest-flavored tobacco leaf in the world. This is tobacco grown and ripened in the same tropical climate as Havana, but given a wonderful flavor all its own by the ideal soil conditions of Porto Rico.

Nervousness, say physicians, is a physical-mental condition. People who suffer from it are not sick, but they do not have the fine co-ordination of muscle and nerve that makes the wholly fit. A very general symptom of nervousness is a lack of co-ordination between the eye and the hand. Where this co-ordination does not exist, nervousness is likely to be found.

And because El Toros are so well made, they have the lip-comfort of a 25c Havana. Long filler, 100% machine-made—100% sanitary. And because cigars from Porto Rico come duty free, El Toros cost 5c instead of much more.



It never gets on your nerves

If you cannot pass this test, switch to EL TORO for your nerves' sake.

HAWKS TO MEET LEAFS IN SECOND OF CUP SERIES

Play for Deciding Goals at Stadium.

Award Trophies

MONTREAL, March 25.—Howie Morenz, speed king of the Montreal Canadiens, has been awarded the Dr. David A. Hart trophy for the 1930-'31 hockey season and with it the title of being the National Hockey league player most valuable to his team. The Lady Byng trophy, awarded for sportsmanship and clean play, goes to Frank Boucher of the New York Rangers for the fourth successive year. The George Vezina memorial trophy, donated by the Canadien Hockey club of Montreal in memory of their famous goaler, goes to Roy Worters of the New York Americans.

The Blackhawks and the Toronto Maple Leafs will cross sticks tonight at the Chicago Stadium in the second game of a home-and-home series, in the Stanley cup playoffs.

Total goals scored in two games will decide the series. The teams enter tonight's game tied, as a result of a 3-3 tie at Toronto Tuesday night. No overtime was played in that game, but if tonight's contest is tied at the end of the regulation 60 minutes, the teams will battle until one or the other scores the deciding goal.

Should the Hawks win, they will remain in the playoff for the Stanley cup, which represents the world's championship of hockey. They will stay in Chicago, and on Sunday night will meet the winner of the New York Rangers-Montreal Maroons series. The Rangers won the opening game, 5 to 1.

Surprise for Toronto.

The Maroons had been favored to beat the Rangers. Toronto was favored to defeat the Hawks, and Chicago's feat in tying the Maple Leafs on their home ice is generally looked upon as amazing. Then, too, the Boston Bruins had to come from behind with three goals in the last period to tie the score against Les Canadiens, and win in overtime, 5 to 4.

The brand of hockey displayed by the Blackhawks at Toronto was good enough to carry them to the title if they can continue it through the remaining games of the playoffs.

Charley Gardiner exhibited a brand of goaltending such as has seldom been seen before in the old Toronto arena, and little Mush March, besides scoring both Chicago goals, starred throughout the game on defense. The entire team played a brand of hockey which filled Coach Dick Irvin with satisfaction, and makes him confident they will be able to win here tonight.

Toronto Won Schedule Games.

The Toronto team, however, cannot be underestimated. They defeated the Hawks in four of the games on the regular schedule—in the final game of their series by an 8-2 score.

They boast hockey's highest scoring line in Charley Conacher, Joe Primeau and Harvey Jackson and one of the great players in hockey history in the dynamic Frank (King) Clancy.

Happy Day and Red Horner are a pair of fine defense men, while the Leafs' other line—Andy Blair, Ace Bailey and Harold Cotton—has always operated well against the Hawks.

Lorne Chabot, the Leafs' goal tender, after a poor year last season, has come back this year as one of the best in the league. He performed brilliantly against the Hawks Tuesday night. Tonight's lineups:

CHICAGO.		TORONTO.
Gardiner	G	Chabot
Shields	R. D.	Clancy
Wentworth	L. D.	Day
Cook	C.	Blair
March	R. W.	Bailey

FRENCH DEFEAT AMERICANS, 3-2, IN NET MATCHES

New York, March 25.—(AP)—In a three day competition which went to the fourth set tonight for decision a French indoor tennis team composed of Jean Borotra and Christian Boussus defeated a quartet of American youngsters, all four of them prospective Davis cup players this year, three matches to two. The French victory was won when Borotra defeated Berkeley Bell in the final match, 6-2, 6-3, 8-10, 8-6.

The only two American victories were scored by Frank X. Shields, No. 1 in the United States outdoor ranking, who defeated both Borotra last night and Boussus tonight in the singles.

Shields dominated the play in his match with Boussus. Only in the first set did France's No. 3 player have a chance. The American youngster wasted no time in finishing off the match after the first deuced contest, taking the next two at 6-1 each.

POLOISTS PLAY SPIRITED ROUND ROBIN AT AIKEN

Aiken, S. C., March 25.—[Special.]—A thrilling round robin polo match was played this afternoon on the West Newman field. Tommy Hitchcock and Devereaux Milburn, outstanding American polo stars, appearing in the lineups: Hitchcock's Blue team, with young Ben Bostwick playing with the American international team captain, defeated the Yellow team of Milburn, 7 goals to 2, but lost to the Reds, 4 goals to four. The Yellows in turn defeated the Reds, 3 goals to 2. The Reds, however, won the match, by scoring the most goals, 7.

The play of Hitchcock, Millburn, Gerrish Knox, Bostwick, and Col. R. T. McCormick was outstanding. Lineup:

Goal	Reid	Swing	No. 1
Fwd.	Talbot	Bostwick	No. 2

Golden Gloves Sale 18,500 in Six Hours

o'clock the lines began to form at the public service office and the branch public service offices.

Except for some orders for blocks of tickets that came from various cities which had coöperated with THE TRIBUNE in the Golden Gloves sectional tournaments, the early sales were limited to twelve tickets to each purchaser. A few minutes after the sale opened the limit to each buyer was cut to ten. Later it was cut to four, and as the ticket supply diminished each purchaser was sold only two tickets. This rule was enforced to keep the tickets as far as possible out of the hands of the scalpers.

Beats Dempsey Stampede.

Even the Dempsey-Tunney fight at Soldiers' field in 1927, witnessed by a crowd of 140,000, the largest which ever watched a boxing match, found no stampede for tickets like the one of yesterday when the Golden Gloves charity show tickets went on sale.

The loop offices of the Forty and Eight club, whose hospital at Orlando for disabled war veterans has been the chief beneficiary from the Golden Gloves bouts, was the scene of wild demands for tickets. Long lines formed before the offices opened yesterday morning. But tickets were not on sale there.

Late into the night mail orders and telegraphic money orders for tickets came to THE TRIBUNE. The phones were ringing hours after the announcement was made that all $2 and $3 tickets had been sold.

Thousands in Chicago, other thousands from surrounding states, were trying to buy seats for the Golden Gloves bouts, but the calls came too late.

FRANKIE GENARO FIGHTS SPANISH CHAMP TO DRAW

BARCELONA, Spain, March 25.—(AP)—Frankie Genaro, American claimant of the world's flyweight title, boxed a fast fifteen round draw with the Catalonian champion, Victor Ferrand, in the big bull ring tonight. Both scaled under the flyweight limit of 112 pounds, Genaro at 109½, Ferrand 110½.

The crowd booed the referee's decision, believing Ferrand had the better of the match, because of his consistent attack. Genaro was the aggressor in the early rounds, Ferrand piling up points later. Ferrand centered his attack on Genaro's body. There were no knockdowns.

A Bird Earns His Rent When Given Refuge

BY BOB BECKER.

With the first of our songbirds checking in from the south, this is the time of year for landowners to give serious attention to turning all or part of their property into bird refuges. The state conservation departments will coöperate with any farmer or estate holder in such a project and help him produce both song and game birds through a practical program whereby the problems of food, nesting sites, and predators are solved.

Farmers, more than any other element of the population, will be interested in the establishment of effective refuges because the welfare of crops and the commercial success of growing things are intimately related to the number and the kinds of birds on the property. In the case of some species, such as the crow, control measures have to be taken. But the great majority of our middle western species are either slightly beneficial or wholly so in their relations to the crops.

Birds Earn Their Way.

For example, bluebirds should be encouraged to nest in orchards because of their beneficial habits and because they do not molest fruit. Scores of other species earn their way by consuming millions of insects in the course of a season. For example, the alfalfa weevil has fifty bird enemies. Some of the birds on a farm will consume more than 100 harmful insects in one meal. In the case of small insects, it takes a thousand or two of them to furnish a meal for some of our beneficial song birds.

Bird refuges on farms have been most successful when established and maintained on a coöperative arrangement. The landowner should form a partnership with the conservation department, a bird club, or a school. The owner agrees to the use of the land and acts as warden, while the other party to the contract, furnishes and puts up posters, provides bird houses, constructs feeding stations, and even stocks the refuge if more game birds, such as quail or pheasants, are wanted.

Helps Bar Trespassers.

The effect that the establishment of a game refuge has upon the trespassing problem is one which some landowners are giving serious consideration to. A state law which gives the state authority to arrest trespassers on posted land greatly increases the effectiveness of the coöperative bird refuges.

These coöperative bird refuges have been tried out in many states in order to establish colonies of game birds and invariably they have proved successful. An area protected and well stocked with pheasants, for example, helps increase the pheasant population of a wide area.

SHARKEY FAVORS LOUGHRAN TO WIN FROM GRIFFITH

Spends Hour Here, Then Goes to Minneapolis.

Jack Sharkey caused a delay in Chicago's heavyweight boxing plans when he left hurriedly for Minneapolis yesterday, less than an hour after his arival here.

He was to have conferred with Stadium officials regarding a match with the winner of the Tommy Loughran-Tuffy Griffith bout here tomorrow, but postponed all negotiations until his return Saturday.

Refusing to pose for newspaper photographers, Sharkey showered a volley of invectives on well wishers and hurried from the depot amid the protests of newspaper men and boos of onlookers.

Pick Tommy to Win.

His only comment was a prediction on the outcome of tomorrow's bout, in which he favors Loughran, but sees an opportunity for Griffith to upset general opinion.

Sharkey intends to return here Saturday and remain over Tuesday for the testimonial banquet to be given Nate Lewis, Stadium matchmaker at the Sherman hotel in commemoration of his 30th year in the fight game.

Loughran went through his last strenuous drill at the Arcade yesterday, while Griffith planned to do a little more boxing today. Loughran will confine his final day's work today to rope skipping and a little bag punching.

Johnson to Rest.

Boxers in the sporting numbers, which will feature five newcomers to Chicago rings, stepped through their last hard drill with Loughran yesterday. Larry Johnson, who meets Sharkey's stable mate, Paul Cavalier, was ordered to rest today.

Other bouts on tomorrow's card include the meeting between Paul Dazzo and Hymie Wiseman of Des Moines; Barney Ross, Golden Glove product, and Roger Bernard of Detroit; Steve Hallako, conquerer of Sammy Mandell, and Carmen Cook of Bridgeport, and Frank Cawley, stablemate of Loughran and Joe Dokter, Buffalo heavyweight prospect.

PING PONG MEET SUNDAY.

The second annual Filipino ping pong championship tournament will be held Sunday in the Weston Ping Pong parlor, 361 West Madison street.

'Wife' Sues for Support; He Denies Wedding.

Greenfield, Ind., March 25.—[Special.]—The story of his relations with Mrs. Ethel Williams Henley, who charges he is her husband, was told in Circuit court here this afternoon by Manford Grant Henley, Indiana adjutant general, who is being sued for support by Mrs. Henley.

"I was constantly pursued by her," said Henley, asserting that the woman, known as a Christian Science practitioner in Indianapolis had nevertheless appealed to him for medical aid at various times.

Twice she told him she was going to have a child, he said, and before their alleged marriage in Toledo, O., Sept. 12, 1929, he took an automobile ride with her near Toledo during which he became so incensed when she told him she had a child by him in Detroit that he called her a liar. "I probably swore at her," he said. "She slapped my face. The car nearly went off the road. I slapped her back."

Denies Marriage Claim.

Henley admitted meeting her in Toledo and also registering with her in a Detroit hotel under an assumed name. He denied signing the marriage certificate around which the case revolves.

Henley insists he was attending the national guard rifle matches at Camp Perry, O., at the time of the alleged marriage. He has produced fellow national guardsmen to testify he answered roll call at Camp Perry Sept. 12.

The adjutant general today testified Mrs. Henley was hysterical, threatened to commit suicide, and asked him for money for medical services "somewhere else than Indianapolis" during the Camp Perry meeting.

About April, 1930, Henley testified Mrs. Henley told him she had given birth to a child March 13 in a Detroit hospital. He testified she told him the child was crippled and later asked him for $300 to pay for an operation on the baby. He refused to give the money to her, he said. Henley said Mrs. Henley in October, 1930, told him she had given the name of Davey Lee to the child.

Goes to See Child.

Then he testified he received information that Mrs. Henley was applying to the Florence Crittenton home in Indianapolis for a child. Several times, he testified, he offered to go to Detroit with her and others to see her child. When she told him the baby was at the Charles Harbison home in South Bend, he said he went there with his attorney, Mrs. Henley and others. Mrs. Henley brought the child downstairs, he testified, and said:

"Here is your child, looks like you, doesn't it?"

"Not a bit, I replied," Henley said. Henley said Mrs. Henley had asked him for $50 to pay the Harbisons for keeping the child, but he gave her an envelope containing tissue paper instead of money.

Harbison admitted he was father of the child, Henley said.

U. S. FLYER SCANS SEA IN HUNT FOR VIKING VICTIMS

Damages His Plane on Icebound Island.

Pilot Robert S. Fogg, who sped by plane from Concord, N. H., to Horse Island, N. F., to obtain news pictures of the Viking disaster, could find no trace of the exploded sealer or 26 missing men in White bay. Fogg, en route back to the United States, wrote the following account of his adventures.

BY ROBERT S. FOGG.

Hampden, N. F., March 25.—(AP)—Arriving at Horse Island Monday morning, we flew out to sea and surveyed the ice pack near the disaster.

In an area of fifty miles we saw no sign of wreckage nor any bodies. Returning to the island, we attempted to land on the smoothest ice available near the village, but hit ridges, smashboth skis. The linen on the left wing was torn and a gas tank badly split, but neither myself nor Cameraman Stuyvesant Wright was hurt except for minor bruises.

With the aid of the islanders, we repaired the skis, sewed up the wing, removed all available weight from the plane, and cleared a runway two hundred feet through the ice with axes.

Take Off from Mountain Top.

Our takeoff was successful and we flew to a frozen marsh on top of the mountain, which we had been unable to see on arrival on account of low clouds. Equipment was carried up by dog team and another successful takeoff was made. We then flew to Hampden for gas.

The natives of Horse Island report terrible suffering on the part of the Viking survivors, some having walked eight miles over ice floes in their underclothes. The explosion which destroyed the vessel shook the island and rattled windows of the dwellings, although the Viking was miles away.

The rescue steamers Eagle, Beothic, Imogene, and Uncava were still in the ice jam yesterday and we saw thousands of seals in the mouth of White bay.

Balchen Calls for Spark Plugs.

SYDNEY, N. S., March 25.—(AP)—Sixteen special spark plugs for the engine of Bernt Balchen's plane at Cornerbrook, N. F., were dispatched there today after an emergency call. Balchen and his crew returned to their base at Cornerbrook after a vain search of the ice filled waters of White bay for Varick Frissell and twenty-five others missing from the wrecked Viking.

Springfield, Ill., March 25.—(AP)—Angelo Luci Sherman, arrested Tuesday, today was identified as one of the trio that held up the Greenview State bank of $4,200 Monday. The identification was made by officials of the bank.

FOUR DRYS ARE HELD FOR MURDER IN U. S. MAIL TRUCK KILLING

Wilmington, N. C., March 25.—(AP)—Four survivors of the Smith's bridge gun battle of March 15, in which a mail driver and a deputy sheriff were slain, were bound over to the New Hanover county grand jury today on charges of murder.

The four deputies were charged with killing Lupo Roberts, contract mail driver for the government. They are A. B. Crews, L. M. Massey, Porter Davis, and E. J. Hale. They remained at liberty under $3,000 bond each.

Roberts was killed after he had fatally wounded W. P. Starling, a deputy sheriff, who with the four officers under arrest had blocked the highway at Smith's bridge when they received a tip that a liquor truck was headed for Wilmington.

After the battle a coroner's jury conducted a secret investigation which resulted in a verdict exonerating the survivors and blaming the double killing on a "tragedy of errors."

Three girls who were passengers in Roberts' truck testified today that the truck was halted because of the barrier in the road, and that the mail driver began shooting only after Starling, dressed in civilian clothes and carrying a pistol, approached the vehicle.

FIND FORD SHIPS IN COMPETITION WITH U. S. LINES

Charters Alien Vessels, Board Hears.

Washington, D. C., March 25.—(AP)—A memorandum charging the Ford Motor company with using foreign vessels in competition with American trans-Atlantic lines was filed today with the shipping board. The charges, presented by J. Caldwell Jenkins, vice president of the Merchant Fleet corporation, were considered by the board at its regular weekly meeting, but no action was announced.

More than two years ago the board began an investigation to determine whether the Ford company's freighters operating between Atlantic and Pacific coasts through the Panama canal were acting as common carriers. The investigation was dropped, however, when the company complied with regulations by filing its maximum rate schedules.

Jenkins, listing eight foreign freighters he said had been chartered by the Ford company between Jan. 21 and March 11 of this year, explained he thought it advisable to bring the situation to the attention of the board, "as possibly Mr. Ford might be prevailed upon to improve his ways."

Jenkins said this caused the American companies to lose the Ford business and threatened the stability of the rate structure.

Officials expressed the opinion the board had no legal means to compel a change in the Ford shipping arrangements, but thought he might be requested not to carry general cargo on his chartered ships.

Jenkins said the Ford interests had excess space at their disposal and "are now soliciting other general cargo for Havre and Rotterdam in competition with our America-France and American Diamond lines and at less than the conference rates."

"The extension of this practice cannot help but retard the development of liner services," Jenkins contended.

SAVES WOMAN FROM TRAIN; IS AWARDED MEDAL

Michael Sinew, 3040 Lyndale street, a car inspector, was presented with a medal for heroism yesterday by Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad. The presentation was made in Philadelphia.

According to the citation, Sinew ran in front of a swiftly approaching train near the Union station here to seize Mrs. Josephine Anderson just in time to prevent her being struck. The woman was blinded by a snowstorm.

Three other employes of the Pennsylvania were similarly honored at the same time. They were J. W. Nichols of East St. Louis, Ill., who saved a woman from being struck by a freight car in that city; Albert G. Hine of New York, and Carl E. Stamels of Columbus, O.

COUNTY AGAIN BARS LOW BID FOR ITS MILK

Low bids for the delivery of milk to county institutions were again ignored yesterday by the county commissioners and contracts were finally awarded to the second lowest bidders. This action was taken because the Wagner Dairy company of Cicero, low bidder on all except one of the institutions, has been outlawed by labor organizations for employing nonunion drivers.

Several sets of bids had been submitted and each time the Wagner Dairy company was lowest. Commissioner Frank J. Kasper declared that the unions probably would interfere with the delivery of the milk if contracts were given to this concern. The contracts are for a three month period.

STEEL INDUSTRY HAS BREATHING SPELL THIS WEEK

Output Steadies After 3 Mo. Rise.

BY O. A. MATHER.

After nearly three months of uninterrupted expansion, the American steel industry is catching its breath this week. The midweek reviews report variously that production is either unchanged or a trifle lower in comparison with last week. It is evident that the advance in prices on some finished steel products for second quarter delivery has not inspired much additional buying.

"Mixed tendencies in prices, production, and bookings characterize the iron and steel market as the end of March draws near," the Iron Age says. "Recently announced advances in heavy rolled steel products contrast sharply with renewed weakness in flat rolled products. Steel mill operations likewise are irregular, with both increases and decreases reported. Pig iron output for the country at large is unchanged at 57 per cent, bringing to a halt the expansion that began in the first week of January.

Auto Output Encouraging.

"But a lull at this juncture may have no particular significance in view of the changing character of steel demands and the protracted development of seasonal activities. It is now clear that construction work will contribute materially to mill schedules in coming weeks and the trend of automobile output, if less certain, is nevertheless distinctly encouraging. Fabricated structural steel lettings are of record proportions."

Steel production this week is estimated at 56 per cent of mill capacity, compared with 57 per cent a week ago, by Steel. A feature of next week is expected to be the placing of orders for 120,000 tons of structural steel by the Pennsylvania railroad.

"Large consumers apparently are satisfied with general conditions and prices, and are proceeding with their projects," the review continues, "but rarely have average buyers been so indifferent to their future requirements. Increased prices announced for the second quarter have neither prompted users to specify out their lower priced contracts nor to protect themselves prior to the second $1 advance effective April 1."

Estimate Freight Loadings.

The abortive spurt in business and industry that marked the spring of 1930 will not be repeated this year. But, while trade may be less active during the next three months than it was during the second quarter of last year, thereafter it is expected to pick up and show distinct improvement over the second half of 1930.

Middle west shippers attending the meeting of the great lakes regional advisory board at Cleveland, O., yesterday estimated that freight car loadings for twenty-eight industries will require 525,512 cars during the second quarter of this year, compared with 591,545 cars for the same period last year, a decline of about 11 per cent. However, more cars will be required in the next three months than were used in the last three months, when the number was 361,657.

Another encouraging sign is the fact that electric power production last week showed less than the customary seasonal decline and fell only 2.3 per cent under a year ago. The recent gains, however, have been largely confined to the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, with the central industrial region lagging.

Improvement in the cotton textile industry also was reported yesterday. The Textile World said operations so far this year have run about 10 per cent above the last half of 1930 and also a backlog of orders is being built up. George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton-Textile institute, said that the volume of sales of cotton cloth since Jan. 1 has been heavier than during the same period in any recent year.

Expect U. S. Oil and Autos to Be Hit by Chilean Tariff

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 25.—(AP)—American oil and automobile interests will be affected by general tariff increases expected to be promulgated in Chile this week. They are generally regarded as for revenue producing purposes rather than as protective measures, and the increases generally are very heavy.

Free Market Stirs Wheat Activity and Prices Rise

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Outside interest in the grain markets has increased materially since the federal farm board announced its "hands off" policy in regard to the 1931 wheat crop, and the pessimistic comment which has been such a feature of the grain trade for a number of months has largely been eliminated.

The general belief on the part of the trade is that the worst of the period of dull business has been passed and with the market free to function in a normal manner some profess to see the largest trade in agricultural commodities in some years develop in the near future, not only in grains, but also in cotton, hides, sugar and other articles.

The broadening interest, combined with buying of wheat against sales of corn futures to close spreads and short covering, was largely responsible for an upturn of 1¼@1¼c in the new crop deliveries yesterday, with prices at the top showing 2½c above the low of the previous day. Selling against offers and by profit taking longs checked the upturn, and at one time there was a reaction of around ¾c from the best figures, but the close was within a fraction of the top with net gains of 1c, July being 60¾c, and September 60¾@60⅞c.

News Is Bearish.

Old crop deliveries of wheat responded favorably to the announcement of the sales policy of the Stabilization corporation made on Tuesday, which established a minimum selling price until June 30, starting with 82½c on April 1, by advancing ¼@⅝c, the latter on March, which closed at 80¼c, the best price of the day, while May was 81⅞c. Winnipeg gained ¾@⅞c, with July finishing at 59½c, while Liverpool was up ⅛@⅞d, with July 63¼c. Buenos Aires closed strong and 1c higher.

Routine news generally was of a bearish character, with rain or snow falling over a wide area in the Canadian northwest, while the government weekly summary of conditions in the winter wheat belt showed excellent conditions prevailed. The Nebraska semi-monthly report made condition 95.2, compared with 91.1 a month ago, and suggested only 1 per cent of the area seeded last fall would be abandoned.

Export Sales Limited.

For some time foreign authorities have been predicting an increase in European buying of North American wheat, but the latter seems to be no nearer realization than it was some time ago, and while there were numerous bids reported in the market for Manitobas, sales in all positions were estimated at 1,300,000 bu. Broomhall reported No. 1 hard winter afloat sold at equal to 70c c. i. f. the United Kingdom, equal to about 63c at the gulf. The trade was mixed as to how to construe this development, some claiming that it was bullish as the price was about 9c over Liverpool May, while others regarded it as bearish.

An intimation that the farm board's policy regarding the disposal of its old crop wheat after June 30 would depend largely on the acreage of spring wheat this year and that seeded to winter wheat in the fall for the crop of 1932 was made in an address by Chairman Stone of the board at Hutchinson, Kas. The trade, however, has been assured by President George S. Milnor of the Stabilization corporation that there will be no competition in either the domestic or foreign trade with the government's holdings for several months following the harvest of the new winter and spring wheat crops.

Corn Closes Higher.

A sudden revival in the eastern shipping demand for cash corn, with sales of 125,000 bu, brought in sufficient buying of futures to absorb the sales by spreaders and the close was ⅛@1c higher, with March, 61¼c; May, 63½c to 63¾c, and July and September at 65 to 65⅛c. Cash houses bought oats and the finish was ⅛@½c higher, with March, 30½c; May, 32 to 32¼c, and July, 32½c. Houses with northwestern connections were on the selling side. Shipping sales aggregated 102,000 bu. Rye was dull and influenced largely by the action of wheat, closing ¾c higher, May being 39⅛c and July 40¾c.

Washington, D. C., March 25.—(AP)—The depression has made no dent in chewing gum exports. The commerce department announced today that 3,692,404 pounds of chewing gum were exported during 1930, as compared with 3,615,541 in the preceding year.

NORGE OFFICIALS PREDICT RECORD YEAR FOR 1931

Electric refrigerator sales thus far in 1931 indicates that the current year will be the greatest in the history of the Norge corporation, division of Borg-Warner, it was expressed by the company officials at a district dealers' meeting last night at the Hotel Sherman.

Howard E. Blood, president of the Norge Chicago corporation, stated that the largest promotion and advertising campaign ever staged by the company is already under way in anticipation of large sales volume in this country and in Canada in the immediate future.

Mr. Blood further added that production at the Detroit plant already had been stepped up to a night and day working capacity to meet current orders and it had not yet been able to supply the demand created in the last sixty days.

The company's sales plan in detail and the introduction of a new line of refrigerators for this season were outlined by J. H. Knapp, vice president of Norge, and R. J. Mott, president of the Norge Chicago corporation, the district distribution organization.

U. S. TO ISSUE 90 DAY TREASURY BILLS TO RAISE $100,000,000

Washington, D. C., March 25.—(AP)—Plans for raising $100,000,000 to meet government expenses in the face of a prospective $700,000,000 treasury deficit were announced today by Secretary Mellon.

The treasury secretary said 90 day treasury bills totalling $100,000,000 or thereabouts would be issued. The money will be used in meeting loans to world war veterans and for government expenses. The bills will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders and tenders will be received next Monday at the federal reserve banks.

An offering of treasury bills was forecast recently when the veterans' bureau called upon the treasury for $500,000,000 before April 11. The treasury had provided only $300,000,000 for the bureau until the close of June, believing that sufficient. Veterans Administrator Hines announced today 1,571,291 veterans had applied for loans and if the $377 average of the 501,203 checks already mailed was maintained a total of approximately $600,000,000 would be needed.

The treasury faces a deficit at the end of the fiscal year on June 30 of $700,000,000 or more, due to increasing expenditures and declining revenue, intensified by a drop in income tax collections. For the fiscal year the income tax collections have dropped to $1,484,466,317 from $1,770,437,169 in the same period last year. The government had a deficit of $597,082,557 on last Monday while on the same day last year it had a surplus of $109,932,555.

SCOTTISH WOOL MEN GUESTS OF COMMERCE BODY

A delegation from the Association of Scottish Woolen Manufacturers were guests at a luncheon given at the Union League club yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

J. Macpherson Brown, a member of the delegation, told the Chicago business men present that the purpose of the visit was to promote the sales of Scotch woollens and to study the requirements of the American market. Later John Hutcheson, another member of the party, said that already the Scotch group had found one American complaint and that was that Scotch woollens are too heavy for American requirements.

Well heated homes and the universal use of automobiles have made heavy woolens unsatisfactory for American use, he said, and he will take back a message to make lighter weight woolens for sale here. Others in the party were Arthur Mullins and Edward S. Harrison. Among the guests at the luncheon were Col. Robert Isham Randolph, Rufus Dawes, David Forgan, and Godfrey Haggard, the British consul general here.

Issue Permit for Chicago's Largest Office Building

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago's largest building permit issued since the slowup in construction reached its low level was taken out at the city hall yesterday for the new $12,000,000 Marshall Field office building, to occupy the entire block of frontage on the north side of Adams street, extending from La Salle to Clark. In this connection it was learned that bids for steel for the first unit of the big project will be asked for within ten days. Contracts will be awarded during the summer, with the actual work to start Nov. 1.

A last minute change in the plans was decided on yesterday when the architects, Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, were instructed that there'll be no thirteenth floor. That doesn't mean there'll be any engineering problems involved; it merely means a gesture of deference to the superstitions of prospective tenants who balked at considering leasing offices on such a supposedly unlucky floor. In other words, the next floor above the twelfth will be the fourteenth.

Largest in Chicago.

This forty-three story structure will be the largest office building in Chicago and one of the biggest in the country. It will be erected in units, with the old Home Insurance company building, at the northeast corner of La Salle and Adams to be torn down first. The W. J. Newman company has the wrecking contract for the removal of this old timer.

It is planned to have this first unit ready for tenants by 1933. The occupants of the Standard Trust building, at the northwest corner of Clark and Adams, will then move into the new section, if the on the job renting agents for other loop skyscrapers haven't persuaded them to move elsewhere.

The second unit will comprise a section similar to the first unit and in addition will contain the tower section, which will be as large itself as many loop skyscrapers. It is announced that this second section will be ready for occupancy in the spring of 1934.

Many Innovations.

The new Field building will not only be the last word in structures erected in 1931, but as it is being built over a period of three years and many novel and important office building improvements and refinements both in operation and construction are now being developed, it will have many innovations lacking in any other Chicago structure now standing.

For instance, as already stated, it probably will have the double unit system of elevators, which permits two cars to operate in the same shaft at the same time. In this connection it is possible that the newest New York idea of having escalators to the second floor will be installed. This, however, has not yet been decided.

Two Arcades Planned.

Moving stairways from the main floor to the basement and to the second floor and perhaps the third, it is pointed out, would give these stories almost the same accessibility as the ground floor. As the basement may have the same arcade extending from La Salle to Clark that the first floor will have, an escalator at each end would have the effect of making the lower level thoroughfare almost as easy to reach as the first floor.

The new Field building will have the largest bank of elevators of any office building in Chicago. There'll be forty-two lifts, and if the double car system is used it'll have eighty-four cars.

Robert Carpenter, manager of the Conway building, will have charge of the new Field building. He states that renting arrangements already are under way.

Bowman Dairy Co. Opens New Milk Plant Today

Chicago will gain a new 300,000 quart a day milk receiving and bottling plant today when the Bowman Dairy company's $1,000,000 station, located on the Chicago and North Western railway's Galena division in River Forest, goes into operation.

This plant, built in two units, is the largest in the middle west. It covers a space 220 by 290 feet and is equipped with modern pasteurizing features. It is similar to the plant at 4125 North Kostner avenue, located on the North Western's Wisconsin division.

Owens-Illinois Glass Shows $2,738,540 Profit

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 25.—The stock market gulped down another big dose of poor dividend news without making a face today. Of the two key issues most directly involved in the developments, one, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad common stock, actually moved ahead, while the board was hewing down its rate from an annual basis of $7 to $5 a share. The other, Westinghouse Electric, dipped about three points when word that its rate had been cut from $5 to $4 came out, but recovered about a third of the loss later.

The rest of the list pursued the even tenor of its way apparently, ignoring both developments. True, final prices were a point or so lower on the average, but other things were mainly to blame, such as the midweek reviews of business, which were a trifle less encouraging, carloadings figures which were not quite so good as had been anticipated, the rise in oil output for the week, and the large addition to the gasoline supply, and weakness in rubber on news that curtailment operations were meeting with little sympathy in the chief producing centers.

Taken by Surprise.

The cut in the Westinghouse dividend took the rank and file by surprise, as word had been allowed to get about that the old rate would be maintained in spite of earlier talk of adverse action. It was these "reassurances" that caused the run-up in the stock beginning last Monday and continuing right up to the hour of the board meeting today.

Evidently somebody supposed to know whereof he was talking guessed.

No. 1 in a series of advertisements entitled "What Are the Facts?"

4000 Customers Look at their Gas and Electric Service

Growth in the use of electricity and gas has been tremendous during the past twenty years—and it promises to be equally tremendous in the next twenty years.

This growth has required a gigantic amount of capital—and will continue to require such an amount of capital.

Public utility securities are regarded as one of the soundest types of investment at the present time. Any business, however, that is engaged in a vital service to such a large part of the public as the gas and electric industry is inevitably the subject of argument and political discussion.

Prejudice and personal desire often play the leading role. It is, therefore, highly important to ascertain as accurately as possible the real facts with regard to these important questions from those who know, namely the customers who are served.

What Are the Facts?

What do the customers themselves really think of the service they receive and the value they get for their money?

4,000 electric and gas customers selected at random from among several million in 79 communities in four states have expressed themselves. Their answers should be decisive. The results are being set forth in a series of advertisements of which this is the first. This study was conducted on a strictly impartial, scientific basis.

94% Found Service Wholly Satisfactory

The first question asked in a personal interview with over 4,000 families, was "Have you had any trouble with your gas and electric service?"

The Associated Gas and Electric Company has the largest number of registered security holders of any gas and electric company in the world. Investment may be made in the securities of the System, including mortgage bonds legal for savings banks in all the important states in the Union, debenture bonds, preferred stock and common stock.

Under present market conditions Associated debenture bonds, yielding 5 to 6½%, are particularly attractive for investment.

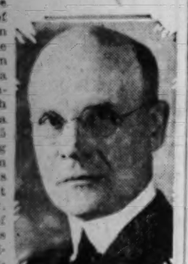
LIST WALGREEN ISSUE ON CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE

Company Operates Large Drug Store Chain.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The governing committee of the Chicago Stock Exchange yesterday ratified the listing of the common stock of the Walgreen company, a Chicago concern which operates a chain of 445 retail drug stores in 100 cities throughout the country.



CHARLES R. WALGREEN.

Listing of the shares by the Chicago exchange has been expected in La Salle street for several months. Heretofore trading in the issue has been carried on the New York Curb, the Chicago Curb, and the Board of Trade securities department. It is expected that the bulk of the trading in the stock will gravitate to the Chicago market. The preferred shares and common stock purchase warrants are already listed here.

The present company, which operates the second largest chain of drug stores in the country, had its origin in the neighborhood drug store business founded on Chicago's south side by Charles R. Walgreen early in the century.

Builds Up Business.

The founder and present head of the firm admits that at one time early in his career he lost his interest in the drug business and only came to the realization that it was his field of opportunity after he had grown tired of loitering around the grain pit and watching baseball games. Those recreations taught him the necessity of being a professional in one's own line of business. He took the cue and returned to the drug game with a new zest. He purchased another store from a former employé in 1912. From this nucleus of two south side stores has grown the present chain which reaches from coast to coast and last year did a volume of business amounting to $51,647,115.

The listing consisted of 922,237 shares of no par value of which there are 858,408 shares outstanding. There is no public offering contemplated at the present time.

Chicago Market Erratic.

Trading on the Chicago exchange yesterday was featured again by the heavy dealing in the shares of the Cord corporation. Prices in general were irregular. Liquidation late in the session reduced early gains and forced many stocks below previous closing quotations.

Trading in Cord swelled to over 100,000 shares, which was largely responsible for boosting the total turnover beyond the 300,000 share mark. Encountering profit taking late in the session, Cord had some difficulty in maintaining its price position. Earlier it had sold above 14, but reacted to close unchanged at 13¾. Insull Utility retrieved the previous day's loss, but Bendix and Borg-Warner each lost a fraction.

Is Strong Feature.

Electrical Household Utilities stock was one of the strong features of the session. The issue ran up over 2 points with the issuance of the annual report. Part of the ground gained was sacrificed in late realizing.

The company's statement showed net profit for 1930 of $1,234,191 after all charges as compared with $1,828,591 in the preceding year. Net for 1930 was equivalent to $3 a share on the outstanding capital stock compared with $4.46 a share during the exceptionally prosperous year of 1929. The balance sheet disclosed quick assets on Dec. 31 amounted to $2,912,696 against current liabilities of $1,218,132. The assets included $2,067,026 in cash and marketable securities.

It was reported in financial circles that the Hall Printing company is contemplating some new financing, which will probably take the form of an issue of bonds or preferred stock. It is believed that proceeds would be used for expansion purposes.

Top yesterday, $9.00; average, $8.35.

Cattle prices held up well against the pressure of the largest Wednesday receipts in five weeks on yesterday's market, the extreme top at $11.00 being within 25c of the highest price paid for cattle since Feb. 16. Medium grades of steers lost some ground and plainer kinds were considered as much as 15@25c lower late in the day.

The range of prices widened, but is still much narrower than at this time in 1930. Prime 1,430 lb., weighty beeves topped the price list at $11.00, while hundreds of medium to good grades of $60@1,300 lb., cattle sold at $7.25@9.50 and poorest grades of beef steers ranged downwards to $6.25. Cows and heifers were slow and steady to 25c lower. Calves were firm. Stockers and feeders sold stronger.

Offer June Hogs at $9.

Contract for June hogs were being offered at $9.00@9.50 on the futures market yesterday, but there were no buyers at these figures. Bids of $8.25 were made on April light weights that were being offered at $8.45, while May offers were at $8.75 and bids at $8.25. September light, medium and heavy hogs were offered at $9.00 and bid $8.75. On the "to arrive" market light weights were offered at $8.35 and bid $8.00 for today's delivery.

The hog market came almost to a standstill soon after shipping orders had been filled at stronger prices yesterday. Strength vanished in midsession and closing sales were fully 10@15c under the opening quotations. Outside demand was fair for Wednesday, taking almost 30 per cent of the day's fresh receipts, but with local support weak, there were still 6,000 head in the pens at the finish, including some that are being held off the market. The top price remained unchanged at $8.10, while the general average declined 5c at $7.50. All local packers and city butchers bought sparingly.

Lambs Recover Loss.

Fully 10@15c of the recent sharp loss in lambs was recovered on yesterday's market, although trading was slow during the first half of the day. City butchers and yard traders brought handy weights at $9.00, while shippers paid $8.85 and packers took the bulk of handy weights at $8.75. Smaller receipts enabled sellers to force quotations up some. Arrivals at Chicago at 7,000 were smallest for Wednesday since Feb. 18, when the total of 4,135 was smallest for Wednesday since Jan. 1, 1930. Receipts at the seven leading markets during the first half of this week show a decrease of 17 per cent compared with the corresponding period in 1930.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Grain traders said at the close that the market acted as though it had gone stale on the bear side. There was a large open interest in spreads between wheat and corn, with wheat sold and corn bought, closing of which furnished a liberal part of the daily trading. Until these spreads are out of the way operators expressed a belief that the markets would not do much either way, but eventually they would be in a position to be influenced by natural conditions.

With grain traders informed as to what the farm board intends to do with its wheat, there is a disposition among local interests to widen operations and at times there is said to be more resistance on breaks.

On the basis of the farm board's plan of advancing wheat prices every 30 days from 82½c on April 1 to June 30, it is estimated that it would mean a cash price at the end of June of 10c for No. 2 hard f. o. b. Chicago. "Presumably this represents ordinary grades and customary premiums would be exacted for better qualities," says S. C. Harris. "It seems to us quite clear that the normal domestic consumption covers the amount that can be disposed of and that there will be no incentive to stock up, although millers and users might buy with a little more security for a few weeks ahead, knowing that there will be no drastic cut in prices at least until after June 30."

MUSSOLINI, AS FARMER, WILL OPEN CONFERENCE

Many Nations Meet to Solve Wheat Problems.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 25.—Premier Benito Mussolini, as first farmer of Italy, tomorrow will inaugurate in Rome the third international grain conference held in recent months to solve the problem of world grain surpluses.

The conference will begin amid the babble of tongues of forty-nine nations who have delegates here, official and unofficial, and unlike the two previous conferences in Paris last month, this one is attended by all the European grain exporting countries including unofficial delegates from the United States and official ones from Argentina, Canada, Australia, and Russia. The entire assembly numbers 150.

Results of the previous conferences were negative. For some reason, however, the program of this conference is being kept secret. Every delegate who has been listening in is pledged not to say a word about it until it comes out tomorrow afternoon before the full assembly.

Russians Are Dark Horses.

Even then, perhaps, the public will be allowed to know only a few of the topics to be taken up the first couple of days. Moreover, every delegate who has been heard by the program committee has been pledged not to say a word to any one about the views he expressed on what ought to be considered at this conference. Secrecy has been the watchword and with some delegations a sort of hide and seek game has been going on.

For instance, the Russians are playing dark horse and keeping out of sight. Commissar Kritzman and the soviet delegation arrived a couple of days ago but it is announced that they only left Moscow yesterday. They remain in the soviet legation here perhaps for fear that some one will prematurely wrest secrets from them.

Hold Wheat for Acreage Cut.

Hutchinson, Kas., March 25.—(AP)—Chairman James C. Stone of the federal farm board today met Kansas hard wheat farmers within the shadows of their own elevators here and told them it is up to them what the board will do with its 200,000,000 bushels of stabilization wheat purchased.

He indicated the board might make some sales if plantings are smaller than usual. Otherwise it may hold its wheat for an indefinite period.

Chairman Stone spoke at a joint meeting of the farmers' coöperative Grain Dealers association of Kansas and the Farmers' Coöperative commission company. The delegates adopted resoultions indorsing the efforts of the farm board.

To Ask Equalization Fee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—Senator Peter Norbeck [Rep., S. D.] announced today that he would introduce a bill in the senate as soon as congress convenes providing for application of the equalization fee to the marketing of wheat.

While admitting that the existence of the huge wheat surplus would make successful use of the equalization fee difficult, Mr. Norbeck said he thought it furnished the best possible solution for the farm relief problem.

Senator Norbeck said today that in his opinion the farm board made a big mistake when it hoarded the wheat purchased by its stabilization corporation instead of selling it abroad at once. The board, he said, should have taken its loss and removed this surplus from the market.

"The surplus is an ever present menace to the wheat market," Mr. Norbeck said. "Its existence is depressing to wheat prices."

JULY COTTON ACTIVE

An active trade was on in July cotton yesterday in New York, with sales of 25,000 bales early, which were well absorbed, mostly by the trade and by the larger mills, the latter being more anxious for supplies. Aside from the trading in July there was comparatively little in the market, although offerings were absorbed on all weak spots and toward the close the market recovered nearly all its early loss. Futures in Chicago finished unchanged to 3 points lower, with other markets unchanged to 2 points lower. Spots were unchanged in New York at 10.80c; New Orleans was 10.60c, 13 points higher, with Galveston 19.65c and Houston 10.60c. Liverpool closed 2 points lower to 8 points higher, the latter on March. Spot sales were 8,000 bales, a good increase of late.

Trade reports were better, with weather unsettled and temperatures a little low for the season. Spot sales in 10 southern markets last week were 46,000 bales, against 54,000 bales the previous week and 30,000 bales last year.

"Long cotton has been liquidated in New York since Tuesday morning, and the ease with which the market has taken offerings has been an encouraging feature," says J. S. Bache & Co. Prices follow:
